THREE SOCIETY AVIATORS FALL TO DEATH WHEN PLANE CRASHES IN MASSACHUSETTS

VON PAPEN FAILS TO HELP POSITION IN QUIET VOTING

Strength of Fiery National-Socialist Leader Is Drastically Reduced But Chancellor Also Loses Support.

RULE BY DECREE MAY BE OUTCOME

Von Papen May Resort Again to Dissolution Order To Retain Power; Communists Gain.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, Monday, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Almost 35,500,000 of Germany's 44,500,000 qualified voters voted yesterday—the fifth time in 1932—and administered the first big defeat ever suffered by Adolf Hitler's fascist national socialists.

The result of the voting, in which the nation selected a new reichstag, is problematic so far as Chancellor Franz Von Papen is concerned; for Hitler it may be disastrous.

The most conspicuous gainers were the communists, who will march into the next reichstag with about 100 members.

Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's nationalists and the remnants of the once powerful populists, founded by the late Dr. Gustav Stresseman, also gained considerably, but they are in no position alone to form a strong government bloc.

No party emerged from the election with anywhere near strength enough to form a government. Nevertheless spokesmen for the Von Papen cabinet said they were gratified with the result.

They saw it as the breaking up of Hitler's power, and they were pleased also because the middle parties showed they were beginning to recover from the low ebb reached at the last election.

Party Standing.

A preliminary computation of the complete vote showed the following party standing:

National socialists	11,713,000
Nationalists	2,952,000
Populists	660,000
Economic party	111,000
Christian socialists	403,000
Farmers	165,000
Centrists	4,228,000
Bavarians	1,080,000
State's party	326,000
Socialists	7,234,000
Communists	5,973,000
Scattered	565,000
Total	35,410,000

The Wolff News Agency estimated that in the new chamber the nazis would have 195 seats, the socialists 121, the communists 100, the centrists 70, the nationalists 49 and the Bavarians 18, the economic party 2, the populists 11, the state's party 2, the Christian socialists 5 and miscellaneous 7, making a total of 580.

May Again Dissolve Reichstag.

Convinced that the general opposition to the government is purely negative, with nothing constructive enough for the forming of a new ministry, Chancellor Von Papen is reported to have determined to challenge the new legislature to co-operate with him. Failing to obtain that co-operation, he probably would get President Von

Toothaches Cut Supply Of Soviet Wedding Rings

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Patients who want gold fillings in their teeth have to take their own gold with them to the dentist in the soviet union.

This rule is followed by all dentists in the soviet union, due to the government's rigid control of available gold. This control is made necessary to maintain credit for foreign trade obligations.

Wedding rings are the principal objects sacrificed to win relief from toothache. Gold in earrings, lockets, picture frames, medals and similar objects, usually have been sacrificed long before in exchange for food at the Torgsin "vaguta" shops.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM SENATE AND HOUSE AS CONTESTS END

Swanson Says Senate Will Have Democratic Edge of 10; Byrns Expects 100 in House.

BY CECIL B. DICKSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Candidates for seats in the senate and house have about closed intense party drives for control of the seventy-third congress.

Democrats claim substantial majorities in both branches after next March 4. Republican leaders generally maintain they will hold their own in Tuesday's elections.

There are 122 candidates in all for the 34 of the 96 senate seats to be filled. There are 1,142 aspirants to the 432 house seats which are at stake.

The senate political classification now shows, republicans, 47; democrats, 47; farmer labor, 1; vacancies 1 (formerly filled by a republican).

The house stands, democrats 217, republicans 209, farmer-labor 1, vacancies 8 (four formerly filled by republicans and four by democrats).

In the 1930 elections, the democrats reduced senate republican seats from 56 to 48 and increased their number from 39 to 47. The big republican majority of 105 that came into the house with President Hoover's election in 1928, was reduced to two.

Democrats Win Bye Elections.

By filling republican vacancies caused by deaths, the democrats seized the house a year ago. Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, predicted the democrats would swell their majority by 75 to 100 seats in the next house as a result of Tuesday's election.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee, has forecast that his party will control the next senate by a majority of "10 or more." To do this, out of the 34 senatorial contests in 33 states, the democrats would have to win at least six republican seats and hold their own.

Capture of slightly more than 50 republican house seats plus retaining

Tropical Hurricane Sweeps Toward Gulf

By the Associated Press.

Blowing northwestward toward the Yucatan channel, an erratic tropical hurricane angled across the Caribbean Sunday night toward the Gulf of Mexico, leaving in its wake battered shipping as a token of its handiwork.

A late visitor from the tropics, the storm was reported by the weather bureau to be central about 100 miles northeast of Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua, moving along at about 10 miles an hour, and due near Swan Island Monday morning.

At sea, the liner Ariguani steamed to the assistance of the freighter Phemius, struck by the hurricane approximately 150 miles east of Cape Gracias a Dios, her funnel swept off and her holds filling with water.

High winds in the general area of the storm sent the American schooner Abundance on the rocks off Morant Point, the eastern extremity of Jamaica.

HOOVER TO CLOSE CAMPAIGN TODAY WITH 2 SPEECHES

Nominee's Appearance at Salt Lake City and Elko, Nev., Will Break Trip to Pacific Coast Home.

BY JOHN F. CHESTER.

ON BOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Banning direct political talk for a day but welcoming wayside crowds that greeted him, President Hoover today headed swiftly across the flat lands of Nebraska into Colorado and Wyoming and the climax of his campaign.

Between almost a dozen stops of his train, with railroad station throngs cheering him at each, the chief executive drove ahead in preparation of his two final addresses tomorrow—at Salt Lake City and Elko, Nev.

Then he will be directly Californiabound across the Rockies to Palo Alto's Stanford University voting precinct, there to mark a ballot for the republican ticket and await the nation's decision.

Crowds estimated by members of the president's immediate party as ranging from several hundred to 15,000 greeted the chief executive and first lady during the day as they headed toward their night reception at Denver.

Senator Howell and Representative Higgins, of Nebraska, boarded the train at Grand Island, Neb., and conferred with the president. They said later they had discussed local conditions.

Higgins expressed the opinion that if next Tuesday is a sunshiny day and the women come to the polls in numbers Nebraska will be listed in the Hoover column.

Gives Relief "Guarantee."

President Hoover left behind him at Denver a "guarantee" by the federal government that during the coming winter "no one shall be hungry or cold."

Cheered by a throng estimated by police at 25,000, the chief executive spoke at 8:15 p. m. (mountain standard time) tonight from a platform in front of the station after passing

BITTER FIGHT SEEN ON TROLLEY FARES

Union Interests in Council Sharply Divided Over Rate-Cut Move.

Divided union interests are slated today to stage one of the most bitter council fights in recent years when a proposal to ask the Georgia public service commission to investigate street car fares here is presented on the floor of council this afternoon.

Councilman E. Pierce Dodd, business agent for the street carmen's local, will lead the battle against any council action at this time, while Alderman John Scott, vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, backed by Councilman Ed L. Almand, who is friendly to the federation, fights to obtain passage of the measure.

A favorable report of the electric lights committee of council will back the measure, but Dodd, who is a member of the committee, will attempt to kill the measure "to protect the public of Atlanta from reduced service and the workmen from a further reduction in pay," which Dodd and street railway employes claim would be an inevitable result of any fare reduction at this time.

Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth ward, will attempt to place council behind a resolution asking a reduction in telephone rates, but no fight is scheduled here as the public service commission already has issued

Doctor Orders Samuel Insull To Be Quiet and Smoke Less

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, transferred from the police station to a hospital pending extradition proceedings to return him to Chicago to face embezzlement and larceny charges, was advised by a physician today to be quiet and smoke fewer cigars.

Under a court of appeals ruling yesterday, the former head of the great Insull utilities system must be liberated in two months if the dossier for his extradition does ont arrive from the United States in that time. He was under guard at the hospital where he was moved when his lawyers contended his health was critical.

(Two assistant state's attorneys from Chicago sailed from New York last Wednesday to bring Mr. Insull back. It was announced the next day that an extradition treaty between the United States and Greece was effective and Mr. Insull was arrested at the request of American authorities on Friday.)

Insull said today he was pleased with his new lodgings in the Hospital Aretaieon. He said he slept well last night, had a bath and breakfast and sat reading in his room until his chief counsel, Christos Ladas, arrived. They had a long talk. Ladas has contended Mr. Insull cannot be extradited on grounds the extradition treaty is not retroactive. Mr. Insull has been in Greece since October 9, hastily departing from Paris when his indictment was made public.

Professor Logothetopoulos, University president and director of the Hospital Aretaieon, examined Mr. Insull and said his general condition was satisfactory but advised him to remain quiet and to minimize his smoking because of his nervousness as a result of recent happenings. Mr. Insull thanked the director for his treatment.

Policemen were taking four-hour shifts guarding Mr. Insull and a police officer remained continuously at the hospital.

Ford To Abandon Plants In Interior Cities, Report

Production Here Will Cease This Week "For Indefinite Period;" 400 Men To Lose Jobs; Reorganization Reported in Charlotte Dispatch.

All Ford assembly plants in interior cities will be removed to seaport cities, and 26 plants throughout the United States will be abandoned in a reorganization program of the Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, which will involve the expenditure of millions of dollars, it was reported in dispatches from Charlotte, N. C. Sunday night. The report asserted that within 10 days all Ford assembly work will be centered in six seaport cities.

Frank S. Reinhardt, manager of the Atlanta Ford assembly plant, categorically denied that the local plant will be removed to Jacksonville, Fla., as reported in the Charlotte dispatches, but admitted that the Ponce de Leon assembly factory will be shut down within the next four days for an indefinite period.

Four hundred employes will be thrown out of work by the shutdown. The normal payroll of the Atlanta plant is 1,050 men, but at present it is working a force of only about 400.

In revealing plans for the closing of the local assembly plant, Mr. Reinhardt explained that the Ford Motor Company did not feel that business conditions warranted the maintenance of an Atlanta assembling force and equipment and that it would be shut down for an "indefinite period" within the next four days.

Daily Production Only 50 Cars.

The normal daily production of cars at the Ponce de Leon avenue plant of the Ford Motor Company, it was pointed out, is 200 cars, whereas under present production only 50 cars are being turned out each day. The decreased output, it was explained, is due entirely to prevailing business conditions.

While verifying the fact that the plant would cease to operate for an indefinite period, Mr. Reinhardt said it would be reopened as soon as conditions warrant, and that in the meantime Ford cars would be distributed from the Cincinnati assembling plant for the Atlanta trade area.

Mr. Reinhardt emphasized that the local plant is not being taken away, or removed from Atlanta. This was in response to a report received from Charlotte Sunday night in which The Charlotte Observer stated it had learned on good authority that "within 10 days all Ford assembly work will be centered in six seaport cities and that 26 cities throughout the country will be abandoned." Atlanta, among the assembly cities referred to in the Charlotte report, was to be transferred to Jacksonville, according to the Observer. It was this report which Mr. Reinhardt denied.

To Keep Sales Force.

Mr. Reinhardt said that a complete sales force would be maintained, as usual, in the Atlanta plant on a full-time basis, and that all physical property of the company in this city would remain unaltered by the closing of the assembly plant.

The report from Charlotte said that formal announcement of the seaport-centralization plan will be made with-

JANUARY SESSION APPEARS CERTAIN

Adoption of Amendment Providing Earlier Inauguration Predicted.

BY L. A. FARRELL.

Certain adoption Tuesday of the constitutional amendment providing for the inauguration of the governor and other state officials and the convening of the legislature for organization purposes in January was seen Sunday.

This proposal, one of eight to be submitted to the voters of the state in Tuesday's election, has met with approval from every section of the state, and no organization or individual of political import has voiced opposition to it. The amendment would place the governor and other officials, chosen in September, in office January 10 instead of the following June, as is now the custom.

The amendment has been approved by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. and other state officials. If adopted it will permit Governor Russell to take his seat in the United States senate in January and place Eugene Talmadge, the present commissioner of agriculture, in the governor's chair at the same time. The legislature will be convened in a 10-day session for organization and committee assignments and then be adjourned until midsummer, unless its membership decides the business of the state necessitates advancing of the session.

While this amendment seemed certain of passage, another considered of great importance appeared doomed to defeat as opposition was met both in north and south Georgia. This amend-

CHEST SOLICITORS CONTINUE EFFORTS

Workers, Undismayed By Fund Deficit, Work Toward $500,000 Goal.

Undismayed by the deficit which they face, and lacking neither in enthusiasm nor determination, the 1,500 field workers of the Atlanta Community Chest plan to meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning to report the result of their activities since the last tabulation was made Saturday showing that $50,956 more is needed to attain the 1933 goal.

Leaders are confident that since that tabulation several thousand additional dollars have been obtained by the tireless workers, and those directing the campaign expressed themselves as hopeful that the entire $400,000 for the Chest's activities next year will be "in the bag" within the next few days.

At the same time the workers are endeavoring to reduce the shortage which faces the 1933 emergency relief fund also being raised by the Chest. The 1933 goal was fixed at $100,000, and Sunday night there was a deficit in this fund of $50,544.

Arthur S. Bird, general chairman of the campaign, announced Saturday that notwithstanding the total shortage of more than $101,000 in both funds, he felt confident that this week will see Atlanta meet its obligation to the unfortunate, unemployed, destitute and despairing citizens, of which there are more than 45,000 in this area.

Calling on every Atlantan to do his utmost to help raise the needed sum, the Rev. Herman L. Turner, co-chairman of the campaign, in a radio address delivered over WGST at 1:30

Data on Tuesday Election

By The Associated Press.

Who's to be voted for tomorrow:

President and vice president of the United States.

United States senator in 33 states.

Members from every state (except Maine which elected September 12) to the United States house of representatives.

Governor in 34 states.

Lesser state officials in 39 states.

Voters will mark their ballots direct for president and vice president in seven states, although in effect they will ballot for electors whose names were left off the lists to avoid confusing the voters. In all other states the names of electors appear on the ballot. The seven leaving them off are Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—for the first time the last four named. They also do not appear where machines are used in New York.

Nominees for the senate number 122, including three women, for 34 seats (two in Georgia) now held by 18 republicans and 16 democrats and with terms running into the new senate. In addition to electing one for the new senate, Colorado will choose one for the short term ending next March.

Twenty-seven incumbent senators (15 republicans, 12 democrats) are seeking re-election; one (Brookhart, Iowa), as a progressive, having been defeated in the republican primary.

Three senatorial candidates, all democrats (Fletcher, Florida; Russell, Georgia, and Overton, Louisiana), have no opposition.

For the 432 seats (3 already elected in Maine) in the house, there are 1,142 candidates, including 29 women (mostly minor party candidates) and 356 members are seeking re-election.

Nominees for the house in 40 districts (36 democrats, 4 republicans) have no opposition.

In the 34 gubernatorial contests there are 136 candidates, including two women (Iowa and Texas). Sixteen governors (8 democrats, 7 republicans and one farmer-labor) are seeking re-election. One (Eugene Talmadge, democrat, Georgia) has no opposition.

There are 864 candidates, including 68 women, for 280 lesser state offices, all subject to state-wide vote.

Approximately 47,000,000 persons have qualified to vote.

Polls close at various times up to 8 p. m., Pacific standard, or 11 p. m., eastern.

ROOSEVELT LOCKS HIS CAMPAIGN HAT IN SAFE AT HOME

Tosses Aside Battered Fedora and Plans Non-Partisan, Homey Visits in Hudson Valley.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt put his campaign hat in a safe at his home today and announced his decision to make one last automobile trip through his native Hudson river valley section before settling down to await the Tuesday returns, but this is designed as merely a homey visit with neighbors and a few non-partisan talks designed chiefly to assure that all voters vote.

After a drive up the Hudson from New York city to his Hyde Park home, the democratic presidential candidate outlined plans for an automobile visit tomorrow to Beacon, Kingston, Castle Point and Rhinebeck, New York, before returning to Poughkeepsie to deliver tomorrow night in Columbus Hall his final utterance on the campaign.

Visits Political Shrine.

Like the conclusion of the major activities of his campaign last night in Madison Square Garden when he and Alfred E. Smith joined the candidates on the state ticket in a final rallying call to the voters, Kingston and Columbus Hall are closely linked with the chain of events that have in the past led Mr. Roosevelt to election day.

His first political speech was made at Beacon in 1910 when he was a candidate for the state senate. He has been speaking regularly in Columbus Hall on the night before election for many years.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to leave Hyde Park about 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and motor to the square in Beacon where, in about the same spots from which he made his first political speech, he will make another short talk to his Hudson river valley neighbors.

Leaving Beacon, he will take the ferry across the river to Newburgh and Kingston for other talks before crossing the river again to Rhinebeck and the return to his Krum Elbow

2 SAFES CRACKED, TIRE THIEVES BUSY

Yeggs Get Only $60 in Two "Jobs;" Drug Store Entered by Burglars.

Two safe robberies, numerous thefts of automobile tires and wheels, and a scattering of petty thievery marked activities of crooks in Atlanta early Sunday following Saturday night's outbreak of banditry and burglaries which caused Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant to order the day detective squad to patrol the streets.

The special bandit patrol was not on duty Sunday night, police heads considering it not necessary, as Saturday night is customarily the "heavy" night for armed robberies. No bandits were captured Saturday night, but during the early hours of Sunday a number of negroes were taken in custody at various points, all held for investigation.

Safes were robbed at two places early Sunday morning. That in the office of the Fixzit System Plumbing Company, 68 Hunter street, S. W., was opened by combination and robbed of $20, while that in the W. A. Edmondson Grocery at 1393 McLendon avenue, N. E., was blown open and robbed of $40.

Sweat To Be Buried in Florida.

Passing of the week-end marked the death of one Atlantan and the critical wounding of another as the result of bandit activities since last Wednesday afternoon. J. Marvin Sweat, Atlanta attorney and fruit broker, who was shot in his citrus 30-Minute Introduction Drives Away 'Introducee'

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Clyde Vinson's 30-minute speech of introduction before a democratic "vote the ticket straight" meeting neared a conclusion.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," he said, "it is my privilege to introduce the speaker of the evening, the Honorable Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from Abilene, Texas, who will address you."

Mr. Vinson looked about for the fiery representative from the Clear Fork of the Brazos. But Mr. Blanton had left his seat and the assembly room in a huff five minutes before, asserting the introductory address was too lengthy.

The meeting adjourned.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS HOPE OF JOBLESS, CUTTING ASSERTS

Republican Senator From New Mexico Scores Hoover for Attempt To Frighten Wage Earners.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6. (AP)—United States Senator Bronson Cutting, progressive-republican of New Mexico, tonight declared he was not reactionary and renewed an appeal to "public-minded citizens to vote for Franklin Roosevelt November 8."

His address sponsored by the National Progressive League, the junior senator from New Mexico said he was "speaking only of the presidency . . . of two men, one of whom thinks it is too expensive to put the unemployed to work, and the other of whom makes that the main item in his program."

"After many labored speeches in which the president attempted to defend his record," Cutting said, "he has in the past 10 days abandoned his argument. He has ceased to appeal to the intellects of his audiences. He is appealing only to their emotions.

Threats Seen.

"Ten million men are out of work. Probably none of them will vote for Mr. Hoover. There are 10,000,000 more men who are working on part time. It is their votes which Mr. Hoover is trying to mobilize by threatening them with the loss of the miserable jobs which they now hold. What else can be the meaning of his statement in New York that if Franklin Roosevelt is elected president, 'the grass will grow in the streets of a hundred cities?'

"On what does he base this bid for the electoral vote of the great industrial cities? Principally on the fact that Senator Norris, of Nebraska; Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Senator Cutting, of New Mexico, progressive republicans, are supporting Governor Roosevelt, and that these men 'desire to change our form of government and our social and economic system.'

"'Unless thees men,' says Mr. Hoover, 'feel assurance of support to their ideas, they certainly would not be supporting these candidates and the democratic party. The zeal of these men indicates that they have sure confidence that they will have a voice

Liberal Holds Lead In Nicaraguan Vote

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Early returns from today's presidential election gave Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, liberal, a lead of 11,000 votes.

The election was carried on in a quiet and orderly manner. The national guard and United States marine detachments were on duty.

Planes were used for patrolling sections of the country not connected with the outside by telegraph. Reports from these patrol aviators were that everything was quiet.

Polls closed at 4:30 p. m., and two hours before that hour officials said that about half the vote had been cast.

Leaders of both parties issued statements claiming large majorities.

Dr. Sacasa's ticket mate is Rodolfo Espimosa, candidate for vice president. The conservative ticket is Adolfo Diaz, presidential candidate, and General Emiliano Chamorro.

Georgia Democrats To Hold Election-Eve Rally Tonight

An enthusiastic election-eve celebration by the democratic leaders of Atlanta and Georgia will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the civic room of the Ansley hotel, under the auspices of the Fulton County Young Democrats Club, at which Governor Richard B. Russell will be principal speaker and with other prominent Atlantans and Georgians scheduled to make five-minute addresses.

Those who have accepted invitations to make five-minute talks, according to officials of the club Sunday, are Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic executive committee; Eugene Talmadge, governor-designate; Herbert Porter, Mayor James L. Key, Tom Linder, keynoter at the state party convention at Macon, and Clark Howell Jr. Senator John S. Cohen also has been invited, but Sunday had not signified whether he would be able to attend.

On the platform will be Ryburn G. Clay, Charles Shelton, William Schley Howard, Reuben Arnold, Congressman Robert Ramspeck, Miss Margaret Tate, Albert Howell, Ike Hay, Mrs. Edgar Alexander, R. J. Reynolds Jr., Lawrence S. Camp and Hugh Dorsey.

The theme of the meeting will be a last-minute appeal by leaders for support of the party ticket headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner, and while club members have not the slightest concern over the outcome of the election, it is deemed fitting that young and old democrats of Atlanta gather and celebrate the day before election.

Allen Post is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and assisting him will be Charles Brawner, Bonner Spearman, Wilson Corder, I. K. Hay and others. It is expected that a large number of students from both Emory University and Agnes Scott College will be in attendance.

PLEASURE FLIGHT RESULTS FATALLY FOR WOMAN, 2 MEN

Frances Burnett, Frederick Lothrop Ames and Frank Penrose Sproul Are Victims of Accident Near Randolph.

AMES GAINED NOTE AS BOATMAN, FLYER

All Three Were Prominent in New England and Pennsylvania Society; All Held Licenses.

RANDOLPH, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP) Three social registerite aviators were killed today as their plane crashed in a field. They were Frederick Lothrop Ames, 29, of Boston and Newport, R. I., yachtsman and official of an aviation company; Miss Frances Burnett, 22, of Southboro, daughter of the founder of the Burnett Vanila Extract Company, and Frank Penrose Sproul, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The trio had left the drome of Skyways, Inc., of which Ames was president, at Boston for a pleasure trip and planned to land at the North Easton estate of the Ames family before returning to Boston.

The plane was seen flying low in this vicinity before it was heard to crash.

Ames' death brought to an end a career which brought him into the public eye many times. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames and a member of one of the most prominent and oldest families in New England. His father died several years ago and his mother is now Mrs. Roger W. Cutler, of Boston.

While an under-graduate at Harvard in 1927 Ames picked a crew of three men and crossed the ocean in a 44-foot schooner and contested in the Cowes, England, races. Ames was awarded the blue water medal of the Cruising Club of America.

In the same year Ames got his state and federal air pilot's license. He caused a stir in social circles by marrying Mlle. Maurice Mozette, a singer and dancer in a Nogales, Ariz., night club.

Miss Burnett had been given her flying license only a week ago. She was graduated from Concord Academy three years ago and her brother, Joseph, was a flyer for Ames' concern. Miss Burnett's father, John T. Burnett, died two years ago. He was a director of many firms.

Sproul was graduated from Harvard

STILESBORO TO STAGE FLOWER SHOW FRIDAY

STILESBORO, Ga., Nov. 6.—The annual chrysanthemum show is to be held at Stilesboro Academy on Friday, Armistice Day, Mrs. R. L. Jackson, president of the organization, announces. Committees have been named to look after details and the show this year is expected to surpass any yet staged by the Stilesboro Improvement Club.

In addition to the more familiar varieties of chrysanthemums, new and beautiful blossoms are to be exhibited at the show. In addition, there will be luxuriant ferns and foliage plants, all placed in beautiful array by the show committee.

The Stilesboro flower show is an event which attracts visitors from all over northwest Georgia, and arrangements are being made to care for all lovers of beautiful flowers. The show opens at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continues until 9 in the evening.

'Salesman' of Georgia Education Completes Fifty Years in Office

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Lawton B. Evans, 50 years in harness as superintendent of schools of Richmond county, who is to be honored at a civic celebration here Thursday, is literally the salesman of Georgia education.

The south still had a vivid memory of the tragedy of the War Between the States and the old prejudice against free schools had not yet been dissipated when he became superintendent at Augusta on November 10, 1882.

His life story is the history of the Richmond county school system. Longer than any other man now living, he has served an American school system through 50 years in which he has aided in revolutionizing educational methods.

Only two men in America, so far as records of the National Education Association show, have served longer than Dr. Evans.

The young man of 20 who took charge of the schools of that fall day in 1882 brought to his work a vital spark which has never died; a tactful manner of approach which has kept the schools out of politics in a town with keen rivalry between factions; a scholarly salesmanship which has enabed him to "sell" Richmond county on its school, climixing in a $1,000,000 building program which is beginning in this, his 50th year.

He not only sold Richmond county, which is now spending each month on its schools as much as was spent in an entire year in 1882. He sold the state on the value of trained teachers.

He was founder and first president of the State Teachers' College at Athens. He fought for textbook reform and for placing the teachers in a secure tenure of position and to pay them as much as possible.

He has never had a hobby, except work. He wouldn't know how to swing a golf club and fishing and hunting have no appeal for him. He does take keen delight in company, and writes of numerous subjects. Many of his history books are used throughout the nation.

GROVES RESENTENCED TO DIE NOVEMBER 22

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.—Convicted of murder in Thomas superior court a year ago, denied new trial by the Georgia supreme court, sentenced to die in July last, then thrice respited by Governor Russell, Joe Gro has now been ordered electrocuted on November 22 in Milledgeville by Judge William F. Thomas of the southern judicial circuit. Judge Thomas passed the order before he adjourned superior court here yesterday. Groves is being held in Milledgeville awaiting execution. The crime for which he will pay with his life is the murder near here before dawn on June 7, 1931, of Deputy Sheriff H. A. White. The deputy was shot down at the door of the home of Groves while he was reading a warrant charging Groves with burglary.

Governor Russell twice respited Groves in order that he might have ample time to study the case. After each study he refused to commute the sentence to life imprisonment. Then, on the eve of electrocution, the governor again respited the young white man when the prisoner's attorneys brought up the question of his sanity. Three physicians named by the governor, after various tests, reported that he is sane.

Happenings in Barnesville

BY EVELYN G. BUSH.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.—Frank Holden, of Atlanta, assistant attorney-general of Georgia, will make the principal address at the Armistice Day exercises to be held in Gordon auditorium in Barnesville on Friday. The Leon Martin post of the American Legion, of which Elijah Wisebram is commander, will have charge of the program. Following the exercises a dinner will be served by the auxiliary at the clubhouse to which veterans of all wars, Gold Star mothers and fathers, auxiliary members and a number of special guests will be invited.

Inspection of Georgia Industrial College was made last week by Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, of the university system of Georgia, and Dr. Elliott, president of Perdue University.

"Bashful Mr. Bobs," a comedy, will be presented by the Woman's Club of Johnstonville at Central High school in Lamar county soon. Proceeds will be used to buy equipment for school children of Johnstonville. The cast of the play includes Miss Frances Butler, W. C. Johnston, Virginia Johnston, Ralph Bush, Ethel Jackson, Agnes Huff, Emory Jackson, Carolyn Johnston, James Butler, Evelyn Jackson and Juanita Gardner.

Soviet Celebrates Fifteenth Birthday

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The soviet union was in a holiday mood tonight with food troubles and other unpleasantness forgotten on the eve of the fifteenth anniversary of the bolshevik revolution celebrated tomorrow and Tuesday.

Moscow's streets were ablaze with tens of thousands of electric lights. The capital was gay with flags, placards and miles of red bunting. The principal avenues were crowded with promenaders. Groups of young people were singing and playing accordions and guitars.

The Kremlin ordered that the celebration be the most impressive in the 15 years of the soviet regime's existence. There was every indication the order was to be obeyed.

MRS. EMELINE KOCHER PASSES AT AGE OF 84

Mrs. Emeline Kocher, 84, died Sunday at the residence at 462 Hardendorf avenue, following an extended illness. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the residence, with the Rev. E. P. Carson and the Rev. B. Frank Pim officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Surviving are one son, Louie Kocher; two daughters, Mrs. Sam Smith and Miss Annie Bell Kocher; and two granddaughters, Mrs. Lee Roy Owens and Miss Frances Kocher, all of Atlanta. Awtry & Lowndes are in charge of arrangements.

WARREN'S

CAROLINA UTILITIES SEEK COMPROMISE

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 6.—As the second week of testimony in defense of the Broad River Power Company's valuation before the railroad commission here ended Saturday, it was generally agreed that the remaining four companies in the rate-reduction picture would avoid, if possible, long and expensive hearings like that which has occupied the local utility.

From North Carolina came the news that three of the four companies involved in this state have taken their rate differences to "round table" conferences. Although some of the reductions they have proposed have not been entirely acceptable to citizens' organizations, the railroad commission in the North State has, in some cases, already reached an agreement with the companies.

Politics in Picture.

It so happens that politics is likely to play a considerable part in considerations by the local commission. Terms of five of its members expire this year, and the incoming legislature will have to consider their reelections. In the new legislature will be a formidable group known to be anti-power.

What effect this fact will have on the commission's reaction to conference proposals by the companies remains to be seen. Some members of the commission have expressed themselves as favoring these conferences. But no one, so far, has ventured to predict how conferences may appeal to the commission when its revelations are withdrawn from public notice.

All of the past week was taken up by the power company in an effort to justify its appraisal, which has been described by commission witnesses as containing "substantial errors." Percy H. Wilson, who supervised preparation of the appraisal for Edward J. Cheney, appraisal engineers, "broke down" each account in the two-volume document. He explained to the commission how his engineers investigated each piece of property, how they obtained prices from the manufacturers, and how they calculated costs of installation.

Testimony Attacked.

His testimony was attacked, although he was not on cross-examination, by Irvine F. Belser, commission counsel, because of certain "direct expense additions" to actual basic costs. These additions include charges for purchasing, supervision, hauling, storage, contractor's compensation, and other items which Mr. Wilson said were "indispensable" in constructing a property such as that of the Broad River Power Company.

The witness was on the stand, under direct examination, when the hearing adjourned for the week-end. J. B. S. Lyles, company attorney, indicated that Mr. Wilson's testimony would occupy several days of the coming week.

Notations From Henry County

BY HENRIETTA L. TURNER.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Nov. 6.—C. H. Griffin was notified last week of his reappointment as judge of the Henry county court and received his commission from Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. Judge Griffin in January will begin his third consecutive term as presiding officer of this court.

C. M. Dellinger will direct the operation of the Henry county farm during the next year, it was decided at the regular meeting of the board of commissioners of roads and revenues on Tuesday. Mr. Dellinger has been county agricultural agent for the past two years and will direct the convict labor in the new enterprise. Jim Upchurch was again selected to care for the paupers.

Eight Baptist churches in the McDonough district of the Flint River Association will unite in a Sunday school conference at the local church on the afternoon of Wednesday. Gainer E. Bryan, field worker, will be in charge of the meeting. The association officers who are promoting this activity are J. W. Oxford, Concord; Rev. C. B. Bullard, Griffin; Frank Moore, Hampton; Miss Lila Copeland, McDonough; J. B. DeFoor, Morrow; L. G. Perry, Fayetteville; Mrs. W. L. Fillyaw, Williamson; Dr. H. W. Garner, Atlanta; Dr. J. B. Turner, Atlanta.

GEORGIA VETERANS OF 82D DIVISION REUNITE IN MACON

MACON, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—About 100 members of the war-time 82d division turned the pages back 14 years in a hotel dining room dedicated to one of their fallen comrades tonight and relived the joys and sorrows of 1918.

The occasion was the ninth semi-annual reunion of the 82d Division Association of Georgia and the locale the Walter Little Memorial room of the Hotel Dempsey here, named in honor of a young lieutenant of the 328th Regiment of the 82d Division who lost his life on the battlefield.

The veterans drove in the rain to get together and talk and sing of war days. They came from Macon, from Augusta, Cuthbert, Rochelle, Roberta, Milledgeville, Perry, Williamson, Dublin, McIntyre, Marshallville, Gray, Nashville, Unadilla, Musella and elsewhere.

They elected Stewart Wooten, Milledgeville, president; Charles Peacock, Macon, vice president; Fred Stivarius, Macon, secretary, and James F. Brown Jr., Macon, treasurer. Mr. Wooten succeeds Lee Coney, Macon, and Mr. Peacock succeeds McKibben Lane, Macon. Mr. Stivarius and Mr. Brown were re-elected. Mr. Coney is ill in an Atlanta hospital and Mr. Lane presided tonight.

E. L. QUINN IS HONORED BY ECONOMIC LEAGUE

Atlanta Labor Leader Elected to National Council of Group.

The National Economic League has notified Emmett L. Quinn, prominent in Atlanta labor circles, of his election to the national council of this group. Mr. Quinn assumes this well-merited honor along with other well-known Georgians, a few of which are Marion Smith, Robert Troutman, Benjamin Elsas, Blanton Fortson, Lawton Evans, Henry Heinz, Jerome Jones and others.

EMMETT L. QUINN.

"Mr. Quinn is one of the members of the labor movement who have, by their sound and wise course, made the record of the movement one of progressive action and constructive thought," the league said

Mr. Quinn is now serving his fifth consecutive term as president of the Atlanta local of the International Association of Machinists, one of the largest and strongest of the trade unions within the American Federation of Labor, the first local of which was formed in this city about 44 years ago. Besides this office, which Mr. Quinn has held at the favor of the members of the labor movement, he has served as president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, vice president of the Georgia Federation of Labor and has represented these groups at state and national conventions.

The purpose of the National Economic League is to create, through its national council, an informed and disinterested leadership for public opinion, it was said. The members of the national council are chosen without reference to party or occupation, but solely with regard to their standing as thoughtful, public-spirited citizens. They are elected from each state, separately, by preferential ballot.

With such public-spirited men as Emmett Quinn and Jerome Jones, conveying the trend of thought of the labor movement in the south, the national council of the National Economic League may be assured of wise representation from this section.

More Clouds and Rain Scheduled for Today

Continued cloudy weather, with intermittent showers, appeared likely for Atlanta and vicinity today and tonight, according to the official weather outlook for the week-end, as issued by the weather bureau. While temperatures probably will drop slightly below the 50-degree mark, it was not thought probable that uncomfortably cold weather would result from the downpours, which are caused by a low pressure area to the north and a gulf disturbance to the south.

KEY, DESPITE ILLNESS, CONDUCTS BIBLE CLASS

Mayor James L. Key, though feeling poorly, made his way through the constant rain of Sunday morning to lecture to his non-denominational Bible class at the Georgia theater and to remind his audience that Tuesday's elections would govern the destinies of America generations to come.

Mayor Key spoke for only a few moments and then retired to his home on Ponce de Leon avenue where his physician was summoned. His condition last night was reported as satisfactory.

OFFICIALS TO ATTEND RALLY AT COCHRAN

Four state officials will attend a middle Georgia patriotic rally at Cochran Friday, Armistice Day.

They are Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., Governor-designate Eugene Talmadge, Secretary of State John B. Wilson and Comptroller General William B. Harrison. All are on the program for brief addresses.

Governor Russell will continue on to Ashburn, where he speaks Friday afternoon, and to Waycross, where he will make an address Friday night, following the Cochrane celebration.

SIMPLE RITES HELD FOR BELLE BENNETT

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Farewell to Belle Bennett as a "grand old trouper" was spoken by the motion picture and theatrical world at simple funeral services today.

Miss Bennett, who made her first stage appearance as an infant in arms, and who, in the final phase of her career, was proclaimed "the perfect screen mother," died Friday after a lingering illness. She was 39 years old.

Among those who attended the services were Mary Pickford, Sydney Olcott, Jean Hersholt, Thelma Todd, Norma Shearer, Zasu Pitts, Russell Simpson, Joe E. Brown and other notables.

U. S. TO REMAIN DRY, M'BRIDE DECLARES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—In a final pre-election statement tonight, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said, "legalized liquor cannot exist in this country without greatly hindering national progress and we believe that it is the will of America to stay dry."

The campaign, McBride said, closes "with no new plan by the wets and no different program by the drys."

PILOT CLUB LEADERS PLAN TO EXTEND WORK

Organization Seeks To Form Clubs in Sixteen Georgia Cities.

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A two-day extension meeting of officers and representatives of the Pilot Clubs in the second district of Pilot International was concluded here Sunday.

The meeting, held in Hotel Gordon, was not a regular annual session and no election of officers was scheduled, nor was there any plan for naming the next convention city. Plans were discussed, however, for a similar session to be held at Savannah on February 12 during the Georgia bicentennial celebration.

Special stress was laid on extension work by the officers and members at the sessions here, with a view of founding new clubs in as many Georgia cities as practicable. A survey revealed that there were 16 Georgia cities believed to be a good field for extension of the Pilot work. These were divided among the present clubs with a view of founding Pilot clubs in all of them, if possible.

FRIETAG AD IS CITED AS BEST OF WEEK

In the second October issue of National Ad Views, a publication edited by the advertising expert, Vincent Edwards, of New York, the Freitag Advertising Agency of Atlanta received citation for having the best ad of the week.

The ad has to do with the new cold-proof Tiolene, sold in the cold climate of the east and midwest by Pyre Oil Company distributors.

Credit is due to two men especially, Hale R. Talbot, manager of the Freitag Advertising Agency's Chicago office, and Otis Hosom, art director for Freitag. In commenting on this advertisement, Mr. Edwards said the award was made:

"Because this is a smart move to register Tiolene motor oil with winter motorists before competitors get into the newspapers.

"Because of the smartness of that coined word "pumpability." They could have used reams of copy in talking of the performance of their product, but that one word in itself conveys more to the motorist than any amount of selling arguments.

"Because they are psychologists enough to impress the meaning of the word further by graphic copy and illustrations.

"Because their layout work is excellent. The 'x' design is the basis pattern, you will note, with illustration in upper left so placed that it draws eyes diagonally to that single column on pumpability—while the trade name is impressed from the other direction. Smart technique, too, in that strip at the bottom of the advertisement."

EDNA MILLAY TOPIC OF TALK AT RICH'S

Edna St. Vincent Millay, one of the foremost modern poets, will be the subject of the talk by Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris in Rich's bookshop Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

This is one of the series, "Half Hours With the Modern Writers," sponsored by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, through the literature division of the fine arts department.

Millay's latest work, "The Princess Marries the Page," has just been published. It is in the form of a play, written with the light delicacy and charm characteristic of this famous poet, "Fatal Interview," "Second April," and "Renasence" are among her best loved books.

Millay's writings are already a collector's item. First editions of her earlier works are greatly sought after, and the new book, less than a month off the press, is now in its second edition.

Mrs. Morris will give a brief sketch of the author's life, later reading excerpts from the poems.

These lectures are given in Rich's bookshop each Tuesday morning promptly at 10 o'clock, lasting about half an hour. They are open to the public, with no admission charge.

2 PROPOSALS TO FACE ZONING BOARD MEET

The following petitions for changes in Atlanta zoning ordinances will be considered at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the zoning subcommittee of the city planning commission, which is headed by Walter S. McNeal Jr.:

To change from an apartment house district to a business district property extending forty and three-tenths (40.3) feet on the south side of McLendon avenue beginning one hundred and sixty-seven (167) feet east of Moreland avenue and extending back for a depth of one hundred and fifty (150) feet. Petitioners, Crane and Allie Jarrell.

To change from an apartment house district to a business district property situation the southeast corner of Peachtree street and Brookwood drive, extending eighty (80) feet on the east side of Peachtree street. Petitioner, Mrs. R. M. Walker.

MRS. MARY THRASH, PIONEER, DIES AT 75

Mrs. Mary C. Thrash, 75, for 66 years a resident of Atlanta, died late Saturday night at her residence at 1252 McLendon avenue, N. E. She was taken ill Saturday afternoon and her death was unexpected.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. N. H. Garrison; three sons, John H. Thrash, of Atlanta; Oscar L. Thrash, of Washington, D. C., and Hugh B. Thrash, of Tampa, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. J. H. Whittaker, of Atlanta; and two grandchildren. She was a member of the Epworth Methodist church and had been prominent in it affairs. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

CHILDREN WILL STAGE CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW

Chrysanthemums in all their varied hues will be gathered by children and placed on display at the Anne E. West school from 2 to 4:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the fourth annual show staged by Atlanta public school children. The second annual chrysanthemum show for colored school children will be held at the same hours Thursday at the E. P. Johnson school.

The shows will be given under supervision of Miss Hattie Rainwater, nature study supervisor in the schools.

The sweepstakes purple ribbon will go to the best chrysanthemum displayed, while the gold ribbon will be given for the most outstanding display. Red, white and blue ribbons will be given to winners in the various classifications. Judges in the white school contest will be Mrs. Oscar Palmour, Mrs. DeWitt Norton and W. H. Letton. In the colored showing judges will be Mrs. Charles Walker, Mrs. C. C. Ivey and Mrs. Eugene Kemp.

IL DUCE AMNESTY FREES THOUSANDS

All Prisoners Serving Terms of Less Than Five Years Liberated.

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Publication today of Italy's long-awaited amnesty, which Premier Mussolini described as "most liberal of all preceding amnesties," revealed it applies to thousands of prisoners other than political ones and holds out a shadow of hope of pardon for fugitives in foreign countries.

The main feature of the decree, signed last night by King Victor Emanuel, is that all prisoners serving terms of less than five years are freed. It is estimated this will apply to more than 5,000 persons.

Repeating offenders and fugitives in other countries are excluded excepting those of the latter group who surrender to authorities within four months.

Three years are deducted from sentences of from five to ten years and five years from sentences exceeding ten years.

All offenders against tax laws are pardoned but must pay delinquent taxes before next January 31. Offenders against compulsory military service also are pardoned providing they present themselves to authorities within four months.

Premier Mussolini accompanied the decree with a statement describing it as "equal in grandiosity to the events of the decennial (last month's celebration of the end of the first fascist decade) wherewith it is connected. The decennial commemorates not only a memorable event but is a period of high spiritual fervor, economic reconstruction and political rebirth," he declared.

He reiterated devotion to the king with the conclusion addressed to him: "Victorious Italy gathers on foot around you, sire, in a single powerful will, a single impetus to action, waiting to resume the march."

The amnesty restored the right of freed prisoners to hold public office, lifted fines imposed simultaneously with prison sentences and condoned military offenses excepting treason, espionage and desertion.

Many early anti-fascists are expected to be released. The fascist council communique yesterday definitely included them.

The amnesty is expected to lift five years from the 30-year sentences of Generals Capello and Zaniboni and Cesare Rossi, former fascist grand council member and close companion of Mussolini in the early days of fascism. They were convicted of attempting assassination of the premier.

The amnesty would lift a few days from the five-year sentence of Mario Buda, friend of Sacco and Vanzetti, whose executions for murder in the United States resulted in widespread political agitation in many countries. Buda, charged with uttering statements against the fascist regime, was to be released from the prison island of Ponza November 20.

Atlanta To Be 'Attacked' by Army Air Force In Brilliant Demonstration Thursday Night

A three-inch gun battery of anti-aircraft artillery firing at night, a scene which will be re-enacted Thursday night at Candler field, when the coast artillery corps, United States army, opens up on an "enemy squadron" of raiding airplanes. Official army photo.

Sixty-eight years ago Atlanta was a deserted village, charred and a shambles as the result of its occupation by an enemy that came down the Marietta road.

Thursday night the city again will be threatened, but the danger will be purely an imaginary one, designed to prove the effectiveness of modern implements of war—in short, to determine whether Atlanta can be easily captured by hostile air forces or whether it may be readily defended from the ground from such an aerial assault.

Reserve officers in Atlanta, Decatur and Marietta have been called upon by a military board of strategy to solve this question in order that the reservists may obtain a better understanding of and receive the benefit from a practical anti-aircraft demonstration to be staged here on the night of November 10 by the 69th anti-aircraft regiment from Camp McClellan, Ala. The "enemy," to be represented by a squadron of bombing planes, will come from Fort Bragg, N. C. For purposes of the demonstration Atlanta reserve officers will command the 69th, to see what they can do in the emergency of such an attack.

Attack and defense will be based on theoretical assumption that the United States is at war with a foreign enemy. The United States defense forces will be known as the "Blue Forces," while the enemy will be designated as the "Red Forces." The theory of the situation is that by October 15 several American cities already had been captured by the "Red" air forces. And on November 9 the American, or "Blue Forces" receive information that the enemy contemplates destroying the city of Atlanta from the air on or about November 11.

The battle will be fought between 8 and 9 o'clock on the night of November 10. Candler field will be the vulnerable sector, and there the 69th anti-aircraft regiment will be assembled, with its giant searchlights, capable of sending a beam of blue-white light more than five miles into the skies; its almost supernatural sound detectors, which pick up the sound of a whirring propellor more than 20 miles away, and batteries of anti-aircraft machine guns and three-inch rifles.

The great spectacle will begin with a regimental band concert during which time equipment for "defending" Atlanta will be set up by reserve officers of the provisional anti-aircraft regiment under direction of regular army officers.

Immediately after the concert an army officer will explain through a loud-speaker the workings of the guns and auxiliary fighting equipment.

Diving on the airport at about 8:30 o'clock, a group of low-flying straffing "enemy" pursuit ships will rake the ground with machine gun fire and rapid-firing machine guns will return the fire, using blank ammunition. During the initial attack the 3-inch anti-aircraft guns will be placed into position.

At that point word will be flashed that several "enemy" bombers, flying at 5,000 feet, are sweeping toward Atlanta with loads of "destructive eggs" to be laid upon the city. Powerful searchlights will swing into position and search the night skies for the bombers. Caught in beams of light, the ships will be the object of fire from the 3-inch anti-aircraft guns.

During the straffing and defense, according to Lieutenant Huguley, regimental adjutant, 180 rounds of 3-inch and 2,000 rounds of machine gun blank ammunition will be fired. After the battle, officers and judges will begin discussions as to who "won" the battle.

Every reserve officer in the Atlanta area has been called upon to study carefully a map of the city, for the purpose of determining the number of anti-aircraft regiments required for proper defense of Atlanta, to show sectors to be defended by each regiment and the location of both the 3-inch and the machine gun batteries.

Lieutenant Colonel James K. Jordan, Major Charles M. Boyer, Major Ashley B. Haight, Captain Jesse H. Burke and Captain William A. Knapp constitute the board of strategy and have been working for several weeks on a problem that assumes the existence of a state of war and a hypothetical attack upon Atlanta by enemy aircraft, and the demonstration is expected to assume the true aspects of warfare, even to the firing of blank 3-inch and machine gun shells.

U. S. C. OF C. ASKS VET COST SLASH

Committee Asks Reduction of $400,000,000 in Benefits to Service Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Curtailment of veterans' benefits by at least $400,000,000 as the major point of a federal economy program designed to cut expenses an aggregate of $800,000,000 was proposed tonight by a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Expressing opposition to a full cash bonus before maturity and asserting the cut could be effected without disturbing "liberal provisions for veterans" with service-connected disabilities and their families, the committee's report warned if the present rate is continued veterans' relief will equal, if not surpass, the American cost of the World War.

"By 1950," it said, "veterans' relief will reach a peak of $4,500,000,000 per year if the present trend of legislation and interpretation is followed."

Copies of the report, prepared by a committee headed by Matthew S. Sloan, of New York, have been sent to 1,500 business organizations in an effort to mobilize the business forces "for an aggressive renewed economy drive in the coming winter."

Specifically, the report said veterans' costs could be cut by:

"Denying compensation for all disabilities not clearly proved to be service connected.

"Repeal of legislation granting hospitalization for disabilities not attributable to service.

"Limiting government life insurance to the purpose for which it was undertaken.

"Placing compensation paid dependents on a basis of service connected with disability or death.

"Returning disabled emergency officers to a disability compensation status.

"Placing veterans' relief legislation on a scientific basis with consequent reduction in administrative costs."

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED IN MISHAPS IN SOUTH

By the Associated Press.

Seven persons were killed in accidents over the south this week-end.

Automobiles accounted for three deaths, a motorcycle accident one, drowning one, burns one, and a young Georgia woman was killed in a fall from a horse.

Three of the accidents occurred in Mississippi, two in Alabama and Georgia and Florida reported one each.

By states those killed were:

Mississippi—David Glover Jr., 17, drowned near MaComb as he fell from a small skiff when he shot at a duck; Mrs. C. E. Schaefer, 23, died Sunday of burns suffered this week as a kerosene fire she kindled exploded, and Burton Potts, 15, Kosciusko football player, was injured fatally as a truck hit a bus on which the school's team was en route to a practice game Saturday. Potts was the only person on either vehicle who was injured.

Alabama—J. W. Mathews, 55, of Midland City, was killed as an automobile struck his buggy, also injuring his wife and killing the mule drawing the buggy. The automobile driver did not stop. Marie Greco, 5, was injured fatally as the family automobile overturned near Birmingham.

Georgia—Falling from a horse she was riding at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Sunday morning, Miss Jessie Elizabeth Fullam, 29, of Lakeview, suffered a fractured skull and died shortly afterward.

Florida—Mrs. Geneva Hayes, 20, was killed as a motorcycle she was riding with Bernard Atkinson crashed into a truck. Atkinson was injured seriously.

Intangibles Tax Amendment Flayed by Talmadge and Key

As Governor-designate Eugene Talmadge Sunday night flayed the proposed constitutional amendment providing "in substance" for exemption of intangibles except for nominal taxation solely by the state, Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, a leader in the fight to kill the proposal, joined in sharp criticism of the "misleading effort of special interests to protect themselves at the expense of the public generally."

Talmadge's address was made over WGST and was relayed to the voters of the state through local stations at Athens, Rome, Augusta, Savannah, Macon, Columbus and Thomaston. He urged voters of Georgia to kill the proposal and to adopt provisions to put teeth into present laws to relieve the holders of tangible and visible properties.

Key again attacked the amendment as misleading and as an effort to confuse the voter.

"The caption of this bill provides for exemption of forest lands, a laudable idea; it provides for a reduction of ad valoreum taxes, another thing which should be done; it is billed as a classification of intangibles, a thing to which the people of Georgia would subscribe," Key said. "But the actual bill, the text of the bill itself does not provide for any of these things. There never was presented to the people of the state by any legislature a more misleading measure.

"This is not a classification of intangibles. It is an exemption. The measure provides that the tax on intangibles shall not exceed five mills, and that levy shall be made solely and exclusively by the state. Heretofore, cities and counties have levied five mills each of intangibles, but under this constitutional amendment such levies would be illegal in the future. If that is not tax exemption, what in the name of all that is reasonable is it?

"I had hoped that the special interests themselves would come out and say they are patriotic enough not to want to thrust such a measure down the throats of Georgians. They are my friends, but they have failed to exhibit the civic and state pride I had hoped they would have.

"If this measure in passed it will mean the financial bankruptcy of the city of Atlanta, the county of Fulton and of every other city, county and school district of the state. We will be unable to run our schools, to educate our children. It will cost local governments much more than the paid propagandists of the bill would lead voters of Georgia to believe. All franchise taxes in the future will revert to the state under the provisions of this amendment. Can any community in Georgia stand to lose such a large part of its revenue at this time? I think not. I know we can not.

"Never in the history of the state has such a misrepresentation been offered to the voters, and never before have the powerful intangible interests stood more quietly by and worked so hard for any measure. This bill is not for the best interests of the people of Georgia."

Housewives Are Advised To Buy Nationally Advertised Foods

Mrs. Frances Y. Kline, home economist from the consumer service department of General Foods, who is to conduct The Constitution's cooking school at Davison-Paxon's tea room Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, advises the housewife to stick to the brands of products which offer honest merit as well as fair price. Two sorts of products are offered to women when they do their shopping.

One is the advertised product.

You know its merits because the manufacturer has published them.

He has put himself on record in the pages of newspapers and great magazines.

He believes in his quality so thoroughly that he wants to tell about it.

As a matter of good business judgment, as well as conscience and pride, he jealously guards that product's purity, its honest value and accurate weight—for a price less good-will is at stake.

The names of such products are household words in millions of homes, from the lowest to the highest—the sale of these products is unrestricted to any community or to any group of stores.

On the other side of the picture is the private brand, the "just as good." Its name is strange to you. Its merits are unknown. Its advantages are seldom published. It came into being because women spend 23 billions a year for foods alone, and billions more for other articles.

Back of this just-as-good is usually the desire to make a greater profit on every unit sold—and it stands to reason that a greater profit per unit for the vendor is likely to mean a smaller value to you. Too often the private brand is devised to confuse you between value and price.

Because you do not know its quality, you have no way of knowing what it is worth.

It may be offered you as a "bargain"—at less than the advertised product it seeks to supplant. It may sometimes be offered to you at prices higher than you would pay for advertised brands—with a claim that it possesses some magic quality higher than your favorite brands have given you.

Start This Week by Insuring Against Possibility of Accident

Why not start this week right?

While you read this paper, glance at the headlines and note how many people were killed or maimed in traffic accidents Sunday. Just reflect on how many times you have encountered headlines telling of disasters of a similar nature.

Start the week right by protecting yourself and your loved ones against this great common peril—one that menaces you as well as all other men and women regardless of where they live or whether they are motorists or pedestrians.

Just take this tip:

Take advantage today of The Constitution's offer to you. Do not put it off until tomorrow!

The Constitution offers you the famous travel accident policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago. This insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 69 on the one subscription going into that home at the small registration fee of $1 each per policy per year.

The policy The Constitution offers you provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specified accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from the accidents set forth in the policy. All this for only $1 registration fee—just about 2 cents a week.

The policy is issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company, of Chicago, Ill. The reliability of this concern is proved by the fact that already more than $150,000 in cash has been paid on claims to Constitution policyholders.

This insurance is offered to old and new subscribers alike. One who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber and is eligible.

Paid-in-advance mail subscribers can also have this insurance by paying the small registration fee of $1 in addition to the subscription price.

Those living in Atlanta and suburbs finding it inconvenient to pay the $1 registration fee in advance can pay 20 cents registration fee with the application and 20 cents for five consecutive weeks thereafter in addition to the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation, and if beneficiary is desired the full Christian name of the beneficiary must be given and relationship to the insured.

STATE PARTY FUND WILL GO OVER TOP

$30,000 Quota To Be Oversubscribed by Tuesday, Clay Asserts.

Ryburn G. Clay, Georgia director of finance by appointment of the national democratic campaign committee, announced Sunday night that contributions to the campaign fund received Sunday would increase the state's total substantially and indicated that the quota of $30,000 would be oversubscribed before election day.

Figures announced by Mr. Clay are for funds given only since his appointment as director of finance for Georgia. They do not take into consideration the Victory Drive conducted by Cam Dorsey, law partner of Charles B. Shelton, in the firm of Dorsey & Shelton, as state chairman the early part of the year and in which 1,207 contributors gave a total of $11,102.50 and which brings the grand total of funds given this year by Georgians to the democratic national campaign to $39,357.50.

Associate finance directors in the various counties in the state sent in $21,124 to the state headquarters; the Roosevelt Business and Professional League, of which Charles B. Shelton is state chairman, contributed $5,132; the Georgia division of the Roosevelt Motor Clubs of America, $1,000, and the Georgia division of the Shareholders of America, $1,000.

Contributions or applications for membership in the league may be sent to Mr. Clay at the Fulton National bank, of which he is president, or to Mr. Shelton at 52 Broad street, N. W.

THOMAS WILL CLOSE DRIVE IN MILWAUKEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Before leaving for Milwaukee to close his campaign, Norman Thomas said tonight the size of the socialist vote next Tuesday "will be the most important factor in compelling decent government action" this winter.

The socialist nominee for president closed his vote-seeking in the east with tonight's rally at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. This afternoon he toured through the Bronx.

Tomorrow night, in the socialist-governed city on Lake Michigan, Thomas will make his final argument for the socialist cause.

To the Academy of Music throng, Thomas said:

"Do not throw away your vote by voting your fears rather than your faith, by trying to choose the lesser of two evils when both are equally bad."

The "prime need today", Thomas said, "is for socialism to carry on the fight after November 8. We must learn to hold and attract members. We must make our influence felt within the existing unions and for the further organization of unions. It is the weakness of labor which is one of the most critical factors in this hour, and this weakness is not merely numerical; it is a weakness in ideals and morals. One of the greatest encouragements, however, in my campaign has been the evidence of the awakening I have found throughout the country of the rank and file in the old unions."

'COERCION' IS CHARGED TO COTTON CO-OP BODY

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, Sunday night said he expected to present to Secretary Hyde today charges of cotton factors that agents of the federal farm loan seed loan office had tried to induce farmers to take cotton from their warehouses and store it with the Co-operative Marketing Associations.

Mr. Talmadge said cotton factors told him at a meeting at his home in McRae Saturday that agents of the seed loan office had "intimidated" farmers and otherwise tried "by various means to force them to take their cotton from the factors' warehouses."

He said many farmers do not want to store their staple in co-operative warehouses and charged that many agents of the seed loan office "are on the pay roll of the co-operatives."

Mr. Talmadge said he would announce the course of action today after presenting the matter to Secretary Hyde.

Factors from Savannah, Augusta, Statesboro and other points attended the conference at McRae.

Barry in Prison.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Arthur Barry, notorious jewel thief, who was returned last night from Newark, N. J., once more is No. 43077 in Auburn prison, from which he escaped in the riot of July, 1929.

Two Burned to Death After Plane Crashes

GORMANIA, W. Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—O. P. Hambrick, 33, manager of Clarksburg (W. Va.) airport and John Shulte, 21, also of Clarksburg, were burned to death when their plane crashed near here today.

They were en route to Washington to bring Lewis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, to his home in Clarksburg.

STUDENTS ARRESTED IN POLITICAL MEETING

LORAIN, Ohio, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Six Oberlin College students were arrested today when with two score of their fellow members of the Oberlin-Thomas-for-President Club they disregarded Mayor Joseph G. Conley's refusal of a permit for a public meeting and conducted a political session at Streeter Park.

The six were charged with violation of a municipal ordinance requiring a permit for public speeches. They were freed on their own recognizance.

The other students and a throng of Lorain residents estimated by police at 200 were dispersed by officers who advised the students to return to Oberlin.

Georgia Girl Killed In Fall From Horse

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Falling from a horse she was riding at Fort Oglethorpe this morning, Miss Jessie Elizabeth Fullam, 29, of Lakeview, Ga., received a fractured skull and died shortly afterward at a hospital here.

FORD TO ABANDON PLANTS, IS REPORT

in the next few days. Charlotte's plant is among those affected, it adds. W. F. Duckworth, manager of the plant at Charlotte, refused to comment on the report, but added:

"However, we will have an important announcement to make within the next two weeks."

From Detroit officials of the company denied that transfer of assembly plants was contemplated.

CENTRALIZATION IN SEAPORTS PLAN, SAYS CHARLOTTE STORY

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP) The Charlotte Observer says it learned today at the local assembly plant of the Ford Motor Company that "within ten days" all Ford assembly work will be centered in six seaport cities and that 26 plants throughout the country will be abandoned.

The story says formal announcement of the plan at Detroit is expected within the next few days. It continues, however, to say that work of dismantling the Charlotte plant preparatory to its removal to Norfolk, Va., has already begun.

It also says the Atlanta (Ga.) plant is to be moved to Jacksonville, Florida.

The Observer, while not naming its sources of information, quotes them as describing the reorganization as the most drastic in the history of the automobile industry and one which will involve expenditure of millions of dollars.

W. F. Duckworth, manager of the local plant, refused comment on the report, but added:

"However, we will have an important announcement to make within the next two weeks."

The Observer said it got its information from another Ford attache here, who claimed to have been informed of the pending change by "high authorities in the Ford industry."

TRANSFER ONLY A "RUMOR" MANAGER AT NORFOLK SAYS

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—J. H. Wood Jr., manager of the Ford assembly plant in Norfolk, said tonight that a dispatch from Charlotte that the Ford Motor Company's activities there would be transferred to Norfolk, "is nothing more than a rumor, so far as I know."

FORD CO. OFFICIALS DENY PLANTS TO BE ABANDONED

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ford Motor Company officials who could be reached tonight were unanimous in asserting that they knew nothing of plans for abandoning any of the company's assembly plants or centering operations in seaport cities.

One said that at certain periods of the year some operations are transferred from one plant to another but that the shifts are temporary.

Another said that while Henry Ford had evinced a preference for coast locations, there were important plants in inland cities designed for services which could be performed more efficiently there than in seaport locations.

He said that not only had he not heard of the reported plans to center all operations in seaport cities but that he believed such a drastic change would be "foolish."

Man Is Stabbed.

Ralph Pope, of 317 Pulliam street, was admitted to Grady hospital Sunday night as the result of a stab wound in his right shoulder, according to hospital reports. He was brought to Grady by Curtis Tranham, of Jonesboro road, who said the wounded man appeared at a filling station near Hapeville and asked to be taken to the hospital. Pope refused to tell police how he was stabbed. His condition is not serious.

WILLIAM A. FRASER, 66, DIES IN SWITZERLAND

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—William A. Fraser, 66, president and organizer of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association, died early today at Geneva, Switzerland, according to word received here from Dr. A. D. Cloyd, chief medical examiner of the association.

Mr. Fraser's death was due to a heart ailment, Dr. Cloyd's message said. He had been seriously ill since June. Mr. Fraser, with Mrs. Fraser, Dr. and Mrs. Cloyd, sailed for Europe on September 10.

Dr. Cloyd, in his message, said the body would be brought back to New York and taken from there to Dallas, Texas, former home of the Frasers, for funeral services and burial.

During the World War Fraser served as a member of the war risk insurance board.

SAMUEL C. PENN.

REIDSVILLE, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP) Samuel C. Penn, one of the founders of the F. R. Penn Tobacco Company, now a part of the American Tobacco Company, died in Winston-Salem today after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held here at 11 a. m. Monday.

He came to Reidsville about 60 years ago from Patrick county, Virginia, and launched his tobacco business in partnership with his brother, Frank R. Penn.

He retired from active business about 25 years ago.

C. G. HEADRICK.

CHATTANOOGA, Nov. 6.—(AP)—C. G. Headrick, 48, father of Vernon Headrick, University of Chattanooga football star, was found dead in the woods east of Missionary Ridge tonight. He had suffered a stroke, Coroner Lee Hancock reported. He had been in the habit of hiking in the woods on Sunday.

MAX MICHAELSKI.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—(AP) Max Michaelski, 63, father of Gilda Gray, the dancer, died here today of pneumonia.

The last months of Michaelski's life were marked by a legal fight with his daughter, and his death occurred in the county infirmary to which a court committed him at her request.

CHARLES H. WHIPPLE.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Brigadier General Charles H. Whipple, 83, retired army officer who figured in many thrilling episodes in the pioneer life of the west, died today of pneumonia. He was a former paymaster of the army.

General Whipple was stricken a week ago a few days after returning to his home in Hollywood from a visit to his son, Henry, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The army officer was born in Adams, N. Y., in 1849, the son of Bishop Henry B. Whipple, known as the apostle to the Indians.

GAMBLING IN RENO IS HIT BY HOLIDAY OF NEVADA BANKS

RENO, Nev., Nov. 6.—(UP)—Gambling was the hardest hit Nevada business as the second week of the "banking holiday" started today, although amusement places suffered sharp decreases.

Eastern divorce-seekers were the luckiest. They had resources in their home cities upon which they called. Their hotels extended them credit for meals and rooms while they waited for funds.

Extension of credit by merchants, and the willingness of some businessmen to accept checks on the closed banks eased the situation.

Federal Reserve and Reconstruction Finance Corporation investigators were making surveys.

Governor Fred B. Balzar would not comment on reports that he may call a special legislative session. If he did, he would ask that the state bond itself for $2,000,000, and place that amount with the R. F. C. as security for a loan of that sum to the 12 Wingfield banks.

o'clock Sunday afternoon made a stirring appeal for assistance from the more fortunate public.

"The social service program in this community," said Mr. Turner, "is alien neither to the program of the local church nor to that of denominational boards, yet it has often been misunderstood. Foreign missions move forward through their hospitals and clinics, through kindergartens and the establishment of Christian homes. Surely it is timely that Christians recognize that our local social service obligations have a definite and intimate relation to our responsibility for the building of the kingdom of God on earth. Herein does the church find its vital relationship to the Community Chest of Atlanta.

"These 1,500 volunteer workers on the Chest campaign are the leading citizens of this community. And more than that they are the members of our churches. They are putting into practice the good impulses, the noble aspirations which they have found in the churches. This is the church in action—the practical demonstration of the church at work. The spirit of these volunteers, their whole-hearted seriousness of purpose is inspiring. They are willing to spend and be spent. They are willing to endure the criticism of the indifferent who would misconstrue their motives. They are enlisting in this campaign to the end. They are working in season and out of season. Theirs is the zeal of the crusader."

JANUARY SESSION APPEARS CERTAIN

ment provides for the creation of a new senatorial district, the fifty-second, to be composed of Berrien, Cook and Lanier counties.

Opponents to the measure pointed out that it would be to the best advantage of the state to decrease rather than increase the senatorial districts and also pointed to the fact that there now are two districts in the state, the thirty-sixth and the fifty-first, which are composed of only two counties and that a redistribution to cut the number of counties in the present sixth district would be more advantageous. The thirty-sixth district was cut to two counties when Milton county merged with Fulton, the two remaining counties being Forsyth and Gwinnett. Likewise, the fifty-first was cut to two counties, Meriwether and Coweta, when Campbell was merged with Fulton. Strong opposition to the creation of the new district also has developed because it would give an area with a relatively small population a senate voice equal to that given sections with far greater population. Opposition seems to be prevalent all over the state except in the counties to be directly benefited by the adoption of the amendment.

Opinion Divided on Tax Change.

Well divided opinion prevails regarding the amendment to the intangible property tax. Numerous state leaders, including Governor-designate Eugene Talmadge and Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, are opposing the proposal, but on the other hand it is being supported by such leaders as Judge Orville A. Park, of Macon, and others.

Another amendment on which there is considerable discussion and some difference of opinion is one which provides that a citizen may vote upon payment of poll tax only.

The other three amendments to be voted on Tuesday are:

To provide for repayment of county funds advanced for state highways.

To authorize school boards to contract for education, transportation and care of children of school age.

To authorize consolidation of local school districts and to provide for assumption of bonded indebtedness by entire district as consolidated.

To abolish justice of the peace courts in Richmond county.

The state also will vote on the presidential race, elect two United States senators, one to fill the unexpired term of the late William J. Harris and other state and county officials.

A total vote of between 200,000 and 225,000 is expected.

Stop a COLD the First Day!

Taken Promptly, this Four-Way Remedy Will Usually Stop a Cold the First Day and Save You Much Suffering as Well as the Danger of Serious Complications!

The time to stop a cold is before it gets started. Once a cold fastens its grip on you, it becomes twice as hard to remove. And a cold lodged in the system may lead to something worse.

Don't hope to kill a cold with merely local or external applications. A cold is a germ attack, an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment.

Don't hope to kill a cold, either, with anything except a COLD remedy. A cure-all is self-deception. Many preparations which people commonly take for a cold actually make the relief of a cold more difficult because these preparations are constipating and also make the system acid.

The Required Effects.

The thing to take for a cold or case of grippe is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine—because it does the four things necessary, in the way that is necessary.

First of all, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—the first step in knocking a cold. Secondly, it kills the cold germs in the system, expels the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Thirdly, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourthly, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for—adequate and decisive.

Harmless, But Effective!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim.

In dainty tablet form, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Comes in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped and is sold by every drug store in America.

When you feel a cold coming on, take a few of the tablets immediately. This will usually expel the cold overnight and prevent the infection from spreading within the system.

Ask distinctly for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine and resent a substitute as an imposition.—(adv.)

ATLANTA, GA., NOV. 7, 1932.

A CONSTRUCTIVE PLAN.

The five-point plan for the industrial and agricultural prosperity of the south which Hugh McRae, of Wilmington, N. C., president of the Southeastern Council, will present to the conference of that organization to be held in Birmingham on November 29-30, is both comprehensive and progressive.

As his first proposal Mr. McRae would launch efforts to make more self-sufficient the economic position of the southern states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

As a step to this end he recommends the "development of highly valuable markets at the south's doors and the popularization of the great variety of manufactured and agricultural products of these states among their own people.

That these objectives may be attained he suggests "a clearing house for successful methods or policies in agriculture, forestry, commerce, industry, transportation, public utility service and social service," and the finding and making public of all facts "that will make possible these achievements."

Mr. McRae feels that there is now a "no man's land" existing between agriculture and industry in the south, and that closer relations between the two will redound to the greatest possible benefit to both.

Not until this closer relationship is brought about between the great agricultural interests which have existed in the south since it was settled, and its comparatively new and rapidly developing industry can we expect the degree of prosperity to which the southeast is entitled as a result of its unsurpassed natural resources.

We must stop sending our manufactured goods to the north and then buying them back again, with the loss of the middleman's profit, or, worse still, giving preference to goods manufactured in other sections.

Likewise our industrial centers must buy the products of our farms and orchards instead, as in the case of Atlanta, sending thousands of miles away for the food and feed that we can, and should, buy at our very doors.

It is little more than a question of revising our marketing and buying systems and of popularizing among our own people the products of fields and factories in this section. If the Southeastern Council, following the five-point plan of President McRae, can make progress to that end, it will have rendered an invaluable service.

CUTTING RED TAPE.

The swiftness with which the Greco-American extradition treaty was rushed through to ratification at Washington in order that Samuel Insull might be returned to Chicago is a striking illustration of what can be done in the cutting of red tape.

Had not the Insull incident arisen this treaty in all probability would not have been ratified for months to come. It has been hanging fire for several months, with both governments agreed upon its basic proposals, and the prospect was that it would remain inoperative awaiting the time until bureau or departmental chiefs finally got around to finishing it up.

A similar co-operative agreement between two business corporations once undertaken would have been carried swiftly to a conclusion. There is no legitimate excuse for the business of the government not to be conducted on the same basis—and no reason except the official red tape which is permitted to hinder and delay the transaction of the public business.

The various departments, bureaus and commissions in Washington are more largely staffed than they would be as departments of some large business organization, so there is no alibi on the ground of overworked officials or clerks. It is simply a case of the old Spanish custom of "manana"—of putting off until tomorrow what could as well be done today.

In the meantime the people pay the bills for unnecessary delays and are deprived for long periods of the benefits accruing from approved projects.

A certain amount of red tape is necessary in the conduct of government, but certainly there is no excuse for the dilly-dallying, procrastination and obstructive methods which have grown up under the past 12 years of republican administration.

IT WILL SOON BE REMEDIED.

The suggestion of Joseph P. Tumulty that President Hoover resign in the event of his defeat, while undoubtedly not presented as an overly serious suggestion by the secretary of former President Wilson, calls attention to an advantage possessed in all other democratic forms of government.

The constitutions of the governments of France, Germany and even Great Britain are so constructed that when it becomes apparent that a cabinet and a parliament are not in agreement on current problems with the will of the people, an election can be called, a new legislative branch of the government named and a new cabinet selected.

These new executive and legislative departments get immediately to work while the issues on which they were elected are still current problems. But under the present condition in the United States the new executives do not assume office for four months and the new congress does not get to work for more than a year.

The abolition of the lame duck sessions now being voted on by the various states will improve this situation, by inducting into office the newly-elected president and congress in the January following the election.

Mr. Tumulty's reference to President Wilson's avowed intention is interesting especially in calling attention to a weakness in the constitution which will be overcome through the ratification by the states of the so-called lame duck session amendment.

CHAPIN'S GOOD ADVICE.

American business should take to heart the sound words of advice uttered by Secretary of Commerce Chapin in a recent address at Columbus, Ohio, in which he urged that the business interests of the nation prepare for the expanded trade which, from all indications, will exist next year.

Secretary Chapin warns that while the government can "oil the wheels of business revival" the motive power must be supplied by the people themselves. He therefore urges the whole-hearted support of the various reconstruction projects already undertaken and those which will be launched in future.

The present condition of business throughout the country is described by Mr. Chapin as follows:

There have been some tangible evidences of business improvement during the last few months. More impressive than that, however, has been the general feeling of renewed confidence that has spread throughout our country, even in quarters that have not actually experienced any marked change for the better. Our businessmen realize that our defenses withstood the deadly attacks directed against them and that the time has come for aggressive action.

Aggressive action by business will do much to turn the tide.

Representative Sabath promises an investigation "of those behind the attempt to coerce the laboring men to vote the republican ticket." What's the use? The voters are going to write the answer on their ballots!

Pennsylvania and New Jersey have patched up their truck license controversy. It would no doubt be improper to suggest that the threatened interruption in the activity of busily rumbling liquor caravans hastened the agreement.

The modern newlyweds who were lost on an isolated island in the Pacific report they lived on native foods. In the good old days, so the story-books would have it, love would have sufficed.

The generals of the French army have been told by the civilian minister of war that they must be seen and not heard when he is around. And this in militaristic France!

Owen Young, outstanding democrat and financier, spoke for Roosevelt and up went the market. A hint of what is going to happen when Roosevelt is elected.

Senator Johnson is not alone in his inability to agree with the "divine right" idea in connection with Herbert Hoover.

The French plan to keep the world at peace, as usual, has more take than give in it.

The national campaign is both hotter and cheaper this year. A "drift" not to be scorned.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Rest Awhile!

When Elijah sat in his cave on the mount of Carmel, a violent tempest came up. A moment the prophet thought that God was in the storm. Then there followed a violent tempest which shook the foundations of the world. But God was not in the earthquake. And then there was stillness, unbroken save by the soft rustle of the leaves and the sweet perfume of the gardens in Saron wafted on the breeze. Now Elijah shrouded his face. For he knew that God was near.

In our time the fiercest storms of history have raged. The world has been shaken to its depths. Cataclysmic, titanic forces, over which man had no control, swept everything before them. Was it the wrath of God over an utterly corrupt human race, which He wanted to blot out as the generation before Noah? Some have thought so.

But now has come the stillness, that silence full of grace, which brooded over the waters in the beginning of time with gentle and motherly generative warmth. Now growth is in the air. Now the atmosphere has been cleared by the violent wind that blew. The winter of our sorrow is making room for a springtime full of hope and expectation.

"Not by force or violence, but by my Spirit it shall be done." In the spirit of humility and love. A better world must come, but not by violence and compulsion. The end never justifies the means. Quietly, without malice, without hatred, without shouting, without the clash of arms, without crushing anyone and causing more tears and sorrow and pain, the transformation will come about.

Be not dismayed! Be not downcast! I know the piled-up misery disposes men to bitterness, to revolt, to violence even. I know that the aspect of the landscape in winter is melancholic, dreary, dead. But the naked branches of the trees have a message and the inert soil holds a promise.

Beneath the brown earth the new life is stirring. It is scarcely visible today. It is tender, fragile, untouchable at the moment. It wants the life-giving rays of the sun.

You are the sun of the world—you men and women. The rays of warmth and l.ve that will emanate from your souls will bring growth to a new life. Mighty oaks are hidden in the acorn. Shade they will give to children in the day of their blossoming. In the tiny green blades lies the bread of mankind. Stores will be filled with abundance of food. The earth is good.

Through the thunderstorms of time advance the banners of the people. As the din and clatter dies down, a new song is heard. The song of peace and prosperity and goodness.

Georgia Heroes Of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaeckel
(All Rights Reserved.)

HENRY R. HILL, major, 128th infantry, 32d division, American Expeditionary Force, awarded the Croix de Guerre of France for heroic gallantry in action October 16, 1918, at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon. A very brave and gallant officer who, in the face of a most terrific fire and stubborn resistance, led his men to the attack of a strongly defended hill, he reached his objective, cleaned out a number of machine gun nests and captured many prisoners.

Time and again this officer distinguished himself in surprise attacks upon a well-entrenched enemy. He was killed in action, following a most conspicuous personal attack upon a machine gun nest which had inflicted severe losses upon his men.

Residence at appointment, Waycross, Ga. Posthumously awarded Medal presented to mother, Mrs. Cecelia R. Hill.

Cites Inconsistencies In Speech by Hoover

Editor Constitution: In the president's speech in New York he let it be known that he was opposed to the federal government going into the power business and also said he opposed the federal government operating any business in competition with private citizens and private business, and opposed building up any kind of federal business in competition to private business.

And yet he makes no comment on the federal government going in the express business via parcel post in competition with the express companies, and at the same time operates the parcel post at over $120,000,000 loss a year to the American public, and at the same time jeopardize the business of the express company, and its employes, of probably 75 per cent.

The postmaster general gave out instructions to his postmasters that they were going to compete with the express company and that it was up to them to go after the business.

I work for the express company and I know and can see just what the parcel post has done to the express business.

I try to make an honest living at the only thing I know. And at the same time at least 35 per cent of my earnings go in federal taxes, of which part goes on the deficit of the parcel post. The rest on the graft of enforcing the prohibition laws.

Destiny's Leader— Roosevelt

BY LUCILLE A. WHITE.

'Twas in the month of fair November,
Just 14 years ago,
That the great guns ceased their firing,
And the World War was no more.

Then the remnants of strong manhood
Were sent back to those at home—
To mothers, wives and little babies;
Others found themselves alone.

But the peace and quiet's broken;
There's another war at hand;
Not between the nations' forces,
But between our God and man.

We have been too keen, determined,
For unbounded wealth, untold;
Forgetting the cry of the poor from their hovels,
Forgetting the God whom we now behold.

The God who our faith was testing,
Just to see how far we'd go
In extravagance and folly,
With unusual pomp and show.

There are many millions starving
Where once bread and cheer had been,
While, self-centered and forgetting,
We stand by and only grin.

We must have a fearless leader,
One like Moses, near to God,
Who can lift us from depression,
From the mire and swampy sod.

So, with the coming of November,
Nineteen hundred and thirty-two,
Let us rally for the nation,
And put Roosevelt, brave and true,

At the helm of this great union;
He can save it, even yet,
From its voyage, storm-tossed and weary,
"Lord God of hosts—lest we forget."

Is Thieving More Honorable in Arabia Because the Arabs Call It 'Raiding'?

By Robert Quillen

One man goes to Europe and returns with jewels concealed under a false bottom in his trunk.

Another, listing his property for taxation, neglects to mention bundles of stocks and bonds that are hidden in a vault.

A third, having many checks to write, devises a form of receipt that will serve the same purpose and thus saves two cents on each order sent to his banker.

The first man is a smuggler and a criminal, scorned by all good citizens; the second, being a respectable citizen and one of many who practice the same deception, is denounced by nobody except those who have nothing to hide; and the third, who makes no secret of his scheme, is applauded for his shrewdness. Most of us follow his example.

Yet these men are three of a kind. In spirit and in fact their offenses are identical. Their common purpose is to evade a tax. No one of them does more; no one of them does less.

Do the people regard them as birds of a feather? Not one in ten thousand. And therein lies the explanation of the woes that afflict us now.

What is the difference between selling corn liquor and driving a car at 60 miles an hour?

Legally there is none. Both acts violate the law. The man guilty of one duplicates, in spirit and in fact, the offense of the other.

"But," says the fast driver, "selling liquor is wicked and fast driving isn't."

That is a matter of opinion. In any case the law does not charge the liquor-seller with wickedness or sin or immorality. His offense is that he breaks a law, and on that score he is the exact equal of the man who breaks a traffic law.

Our ingrained awe of money and social position has taken away our ability to think straight. We have invented soft words to describe the crimes of nice people.

The man who steals your purse is a thief; the man who steals the country's funds is an embezzler; the man who steals the savings of thousands is a promoter.

The thief in a limousine doesn't seem wicked, and we shudder at the thought of sending a million dollars to jail.

Snobbery tricks us, and our nation will not be clean again until we outgrow the theory that wrong isn't wrong if nice people do it.

JUST ONE OR TWO DRINKS.

Every little while we hear of some culprit pleading that he or she was not intoxicated but merely had taken one or two drinks. Just where our comical American jurisprudence draws the line between sobriety and intoxication is a mystery. Scientifically it has been proved that "just one or two little drinks" of alcoholic beverage or liquor will slow anybody's reaction time down two or three-fifths of a second, and if the intent of the law is to give justice to all the drinker should be held strictly responsible for the accidents which may occur due to this failure on his or her part to take reasonable precautions for safety.

The effect of the alcohol in one or two little drinks is quite definite. The pulse rate or heart beat increases several beats to the minute, but this is not "stimulation," as was formerly supposed. The arterial pressure is invariably lowered and the fast pulse is a weaker pulse. The individual has a sensation of greater warmth or of flushing of the skin. But this is not stimulation either; it is merely the effect of relaxation or dilation of the arterioles of the surface, which permits the warm blood from the vital organs and the internal circulation to rush to the surface and to remain there too long. The internal body temperature is invariably lowered. It is for this reason that arctic explorers and others who must endure extreme cold avoid alcohol in any form. If a drink or two "warms you up" it does so at the expense of your vital body heat which is dissipated by the surface stagnation.

Boozers who boast they can take it or let it alone commonly argue that a good drink gives a person a sense of well being and greater strength. But put the person in a race or in any sort of contest or test of strength or endurance and this sense of well being and refreshment proves to be merely the dulling effect of the narcotic on the higher cerebral perception of fatigue. Everybody knows that a drunken person is weak and incompetent in every respect though he generally feels and believes he is stronger and more capable. The same thing applies, though more subtly, to the state of th man or woman who has taken just one little drink.

The courage, confidence, geniality and loquacity that come to the timid, cold or retiring person who resorts to a little drink or two when there is any occasion to be met, are likewise due to benumbing of the higher brain centers so that the intoxicated one is for the time being not so well aware of his own limitations. He or she becomes less concerned about making a show of himself. The normal self-control gives way, judgment is not so keen, and a lighter restraint is kept on lower instincts or impulses.

It is necessary to take into consideration this deceptive effect of alcohol whenever one quarrels over the wet and dry issue. If the individual who favors "light wine and beer" has had a drink or two within an hour or two, it is just as well to change to the prospect of getting over the depression.

BITTER FIGHT SEEN ON TROLLEY FARES

a rule nisi against the Southern Bell Telephone Company to show cause why a reduction should not be made.

Another battle over a utilit, measure is slated on an adverse report of the electric lights committee on a proposal of Scott and Almand to establish a city-owned and operated power plant at the city crematory to furnish service to municipal buildings. Alderman W. W. Waits, chairman, and other members of the electric lights committee will fight such a proposal as contemplating an outlay of about $2,000,000, which the city "can not make at this time."

Among other major matters slated for consideration of council are:

1. A fight by the tax committee to prevent a further extension of time for payment of 1932 city taxes. Councilman John Marler, of the seventh ward, has announced he will attempt to extend it until December 1, but the tax committee is on record opposing the move.

2. A proposal by Councilman George B. Lyle, of the eleventh ward, to allow city employes, who are slated to receive no further salary payments for this year after the amounts due last Saturday are paid, to receive credit for their taxes. This will be accomplished by deducting the taxes from th pay rolls when they are met next year, under the Lyle plan. He said Saturday he did not feel the city should fail to meet its pay rolls and penalize employes for their inability to pay their taxes.

3. Establishment of a department of collections to absorb collections of all fi. fas. and other bills owed to the city. The new department will perform all duties now under the jurisdiction of the street improvement collector and the city marshal. No election of the municipal revenue collector, the title of the new office, is slated for Monday, but probably will be held at the December 5 meeting of council. The new department with its merged divisions has the support of the tax and ordinance committees of council.

4. An ordinance prohibiting sale of coal, coke or charcoal by peddlers until the measures used have the approval of the city weights and measures inspector. This also has the sanction of the ordinance committee.

5. Fight to grant permits for operation of two dance halls over the protest of Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant. One of the halls is on Central avenue, and the other, College hall, is on Peachtree street.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM SENATE AND HOUSE AS CONTESTS END

their present number would be necessary for the democrats to attain a majority of 100 in that branch.

Early in the campaign, Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the republican congressional committee, voiced belief that his party would control both houses with the re-election of President Hoover.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, democrat, New York, and George Z. Medalie, United States attorney for the southern New York district, republican, have had a vigorous set-to in the Empire state.

Several republican stalwarts in the senate, including Senators James E. Watson, of Indiana; Reed Smoot, Utah; George Moses, of New Hampshire, and Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, have faced vigorous opposition, with neither side conceding the outcome.

Watson, Smoot Endangered.

Frederick Van Nuys, of Indianapolis, democrat, is contesting Watson, republican leader in the senate. Dr. Elbert D. Thomas, professor of political science at the University of Utah, is Smoot's opponent. The democratic candidates in California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Iowa, Idaho and Wisconsin all declare they will be victorious. Of course, the republicans also expect to win.

Fred H. Brown, democrat, has vigorously campaign against Moses, president pro tempore of the senate, and Jones, republican chairman of the senate appropriations committee, is opposed by Homer T. Bone, democrat.

The senatorial contests are in the following states:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Floridiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, ida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Hampshire, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Three candidates, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, and Representative John H. Overton, of Louisiana, all democrats, are unopposed for senate seats. Senator Walter F. George, democrat, Georgia, however, is opposed by James W. Arnold, republican.

The three seats in the house from Maine were filled in the election on September 2. The democrats captured two of them.

HITLER SUFFERS SHARP SETBACK

Hindenburg to dissolve the reichstag again.

Meanwhile, it was said, he would attempt, with the aid of the reichsrat, to effect a change in the electoral laws which would move the voting age up to 25 years, thereby eliminating youthful radicals of both right and left and giving a fair hope that another election would result in a reichstag capable of working constructively.

Leading businessmen have told this correspondent in private conversations that the business world would look askance at another dissolution of the parliament. They take the position that the country needs a rest.

Powerful forces are working to perfect some sort of lineup to insure a safe reichstag working majority in support of a presidential cabinet—either a coalition from centrists to nazis, or if the nazis persist in opposition, then even from the nationalists to the socialists, paradoxical as this may seem.

Whether the enmity centering upon Chancellor Von Papen personally can be overcome is a delicate matter which must be worked out in the near future.

Salutary Effect of Communism.

In political circles it was said that the growth of communism probably would have salutary effect. In addition the optimists in the Wilhelmstrasse assert the nazis will split and the conservative wing of the Hitler following will rally behind a presidial cabinet.

"Von Papen inflated the communists," was the election comment given out at the nazis headquarters in Munich. "Now let him show how he will get through the winter.

"It is up to him to take entire responsibility. With whom does he govern? The Hitler movement intends to remain in opposition."

The nazi press chief said the result was no surprise to Hitler.

In general the election was carried out without many serious disorders.

After dark there were some attacks on street cars in Berlin—the transportation system is suffering from a wildcat strike—and service was stopped at 10 p. m. Nine passengers were hurt by glass splinters from smashed car windows.

In the 24 hours ended at midnight 91 persons were arrested in Berlin. Elsewhere in the reich election disorders caused injuries to about 40 persons. The worst row was at Chemnitz where 10 were wounded. At Krefeld six civilians and three policemen were hurt in voting disorders, and at Burgstaedt five persons were injured. There also were casualties at Strassfurt, Bremen, Brunswick, Ahlen, Schoenwalde and Fraustein.

exchange office beneath the Central avenue viaduct last Wednesday, and who died Saturday afternoon, will be buried in Tampa, where his body was taken Sunday night, after funeral services in the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes.

The condition of James T. Chappell, 32, bookkeeper for the Stoddard Cleaning Company, who was shot down on the sidewalk in front of his place of employment on West Peachtree street when he refused to open the safe to a bandit, Sunday night was reported as grave at Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital. Little hope was entertained for his recovery.

Drugstore Broken Into.

Williams Pharmacy, 749 Moreland avenue, S. E., was robbed of about $70 worth of cigarets and candies by burglars who threw a brick through a front window and looted the store. Other robberies reported were:

R. F. Levine, of Richmond, Va., who said his automobile containing samples of men's clothing, had been robbed of 50 sample coats and two pairs of trousers; Irwin Daniel, negro, was arrested early Sunday morning in possession of 10 chickens which police say were stolen; an automobile which was abandoned on Smith street after officers had pursued it for several blocks, was found to contain five tires, believed stolen; three negroes, Charles Edwards, alias Evans; Lonnie Campbell and Julius Hill, were taken in custody when they were found loitering on Hunter street; tires, wheels and rims were reported stolen from the automobiles belonging to the following:

L. C. Dulaney, 137 Seventeenth street, N. E.; J. T. Lawlor, 747 Ponce de Leon avenue; B. Cline, 420 Washington street; J. S. Meadows, 484 Vine street; Rev. J. Russell Young, 317 Boulevard, N. E., and H. J. Whitehead, 418 Cherokee avenue, Southeast.

Two warehouses on Produce Row were entered early Sunday, but the amount of loot was not determined. Those places entered were the Brumby Produce Company, 12 Produce Row, and McCullough Brothers, 9 Produce Row. An attempt was made to enter three other firms in the neighborhood, but the burglars were unsuccessful in prying windows loose.

Hubert Shahan, 36, of 397 Lee street, S. W., was slightly wounded in the shoulder when he was shot by one of a gang of men he encountered in a rooming house on Central avenue, he told police Sunday night.

Shahan said a young blonde woman had "lured" him into a room of a house on Central avenue Sunday night and that shortly after he and the woman went into the room several men entered. Shahan alleged the men tried to rob him and that when he resisted one of them shot him.

S. H. Halechman, of 974 Washington street, operator of a cafe and grocery at 159 Houston street, was held up by three armed negroes Sunday night, and robbed of $38 and a quantity of cigarets.

L. A. Collins, of Marietta, reported that his automobile, parked on Cain street, near Peachtree, Sunday night, was broken into and two women's coats were stolen.

Victor Franco, of 600 Washington street, S. W., reported his home was burglarized of clothing.

Eddie Heard, 30, negro, who lives on Gumby street, was stabbed to death, according to police, by a negro woman known only as "Sing." The stabbing occurred in a house in London lane.

home. Along the route he will visit the veteran's hospital at Castle Point.

At Home To Rest.

After the drive up the river from New York today, the New York governor went directly to his home where a little later in the afternoon several hundred motorcyclists brought the sputtering steeds down the long driveway for a short visit with him.

The remainder of his time was spent in resting and in working on the talk in Columbus Hall on the eve of election. Friends of the governor expect him to make this talk a nonpartisan appeal to citizens to come out and vote. On the following day, he will motor back to New York city to receive the returns in the headquarters of the democratic national committee, stopping on his way at the firehouse at Peekskill to say a few words to the firemen there.

Roosevelt's superstitious regard for the battered gray felt hat that he wore through this and other campaigns was shown at his Hyde Park estate when he held the hat out to his butler, with the remark, "Mac, put that in the safe. It's too late in the campaign now to have anything happen to it."

ROOSEVELT HOLDS HOPE OF JOBLESS, CUTTING ASSERTS

in the administration of our government.'"

Cutting, in answer, said: "So far as I am concerned I have had no private pledges from Governor Roosevelt. All that I know of his program is what every citizen of this country knows through his public statements. I believe in his sincerity."

"The president's belief that I am attempting to overthrow the American system of government," Cutting said, "must be based on statements made in his recent address in Denver."

Cutting said at that time he criticized the president's "mediocre cabinet" appointments; appointment of "unfit" men to the bench, appointment of politicians to diplomatic posts; for his failure to carry out his pledge to place agriculture on a parity with other industries; for vetoing worthy veteran legislation; for his subservience to the power trust; for his indorsement of "corrupt machine politics," and for his failure to live up to pledges when the depression came.

"In this election," he said, "we must not look to party labels."

Speaks to Republicans.

"I am sepaking especially to republicans. I remind them that in the World War when we were fighting for victory an appeal was made for the election of a democratic congress on the grounds that the crisis was too great to think of partisan issues. That appeal was made by Herbert Hoover. On the same ground, and in a still greater crisis, I appeal to you, not in behalf of any political party, but in behalf of your own conscience and your own independence of thought. . . . I am speaking only of the presidency. I am speaking of two men, one of whom thinks it is too expensive to put the unemployed to work, and the other of whom makes it the main item in his program. On that issue I invoke the example which Herbert Hoover gave us in 1918 and in behalf of our country I ask all public-minded citizens to vote for Franklin Roosevelt on November 8."

HOOVER TO CLOSE CAMPAIGN TODAY

through a concourse that was a mass of waving flags.

Earlier, as his train rolled across the Nebraska prairies and into Colorado, authoritative sources close to the president reported that he now believed the republican campaign had brought a definite turn in political sentiment in the east and midwest.

The same administration spokesman said Mr. Hoover based this belief upon recent political surveys in the interior sections and upon the size of the crowds and the receptions which have met him along his campaign route.

As his train rolled across Nebraska Mr. Hoover, between work periods, watched from his car window the construction of a road that paralleled the railroad track for several miles, work upon which continued despite the Sunday holiday.

Tomorrow he will stop for an hour and a half about noon at Salt Lake City, where he will deliver a major address, probably in the huge Mormon tabernacle. His present plan is to stop tomorrow night at Elko, Nev., between 7 and 8 p. m., Pacific standard time, and deliver a final radio appeal to the nation to support with votes his republican administration.

On Tuesday, election day, the president's train is scheduled for early morning stops at Roseville, Cal., and Sacramento before reaching Oakland, across the bay from San Francisco, shortly before noon.

Members of the president's party are hoping for something of a homecoming celebration as he returns for the first time since 1928 to his Palo Alto residence, near the Stanford University campus.

Present plans are for the chief executive to cast his ballot during mid-afternoon in a booth in the Stanford Union and then return to his home to await the election returns.

in 1929 and while there was active in the affairs of the Harvard Flying Club. Sproul's father was the late Frank Penrose Sproul, a Pittsburgh banker.

Ames was at the controls when the craft spun strangely in the air, barrel-rolled and then tailspinned, finally crashing to the ground.

Boston airport attaches said the plane made a faulty takeoff there and that Ames had righted it from two tailspins at a height of 3,000 feet before passing out of sight. Residents of Milton, over which the plane passed shortly before it reached here, said the aviator appeared to be stunting.

YOUTH AND SISTER DIE IN CHICAGO PLANE CRASH

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Sixteen-year-old Carl Bayer helped his sister, Anna, into a borrowed airplane today to show her what a skillful pilot he was.

He guided the ship in lazy circles at 2,000 feet for a time—then something went wrong. The plane plummeted downward, crazily, hit a railroad track nose first, and bounded to a halt with Carl dead and 17-year-old Anna unconscious.

Railroad employes pulled her from the cockpit and placed her on the wing—where she died before they could summon aid.

Carl had labored as an errand boy, as an airport roustabout—had worked at anything he could find to pay for his flying lessons and buy his pilot's outfit of leather jacket, helmet, goggles and puttees. His teacher, Charles A. Strong, who lent him the plane, said he had had six hours in the air.

SUBWAY PASSENGER SLAIN IN BANDIT CHASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—An innocent passenger was shot and killed by Police Sergeant Joseph Volk today when the officer chased a holdup man into a crowded subway station.

The slain man was identified as William Hogan, 55.

He was leaving a train when Volk, pursuing Edward Mele, bandit who had held up the patrons of a restaurant, leaped over a turnstile and dashed into the crowded car.

BRITISH SHIP GROUNDED ON COAST OF NORWAY

TROMSOE, Norway, Nov. 6.—(AP) The British trawler Golden Deeps was grounded today in a violent gale off Breivikbotn, in the extreme north of Norway, according to word received here.

The crew of 13 could be seen from the shore, but it was impossible to get aid to them. The trawler, a ship of 368 tons, built in 1930, left Grimsby, England, a fortnight ago.

ECONOMISTS MEET IN CITY THIS WEEK

100 Educators Will Gather Thursday for Association's 5th Conference.

Approximately 100 economists from leading southern educational institutions will gather at the Ansley hotel Thursday for the fifth annual conference of the Southeastern Economic Association, according to announcement from Professor Mercer G. Evans, of Emory University, who is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Dr. Evans stated that the program includes a thorough consideration of economic questions pertinent to the nation as well as to the south.

The conference will open at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, with Professor Lee Bidgood, of the University of Alabama, presiding. Under the general topic of banking and finance, "Bank Mergers and Consolidations" will be discussed by Professor Charles P. White, of the University of Tennessee; "Policies of the Federal Reserve Banks During the Depression" will be considered by Professor G. D. Hancock, of Washington & Lee University, while "Recent Banking Legislation" will be the subject of a paper by Professor J. T. Holdsworth, of the University of Miami. Discussion will be led by Professor T. L. Howard, University of Chattanooga; Professor R. P. Brooks, University of Georgia, and Professor J. B. Woolsey, University of North Carolina.

A luncheon session will begin at 12:15 Friday, presided over by Professor R. H. Tucker, Washington & Lee University, at which informal reports will be submitted on the topic of "Effects of the Depression in the Various Southern States."

During the Friday afternoon sessions the subject of "Taxation and Southern Agriculture" will be discussed.

Professor J. M. Wright, of Agnes Scott College, will preside over Friday's evening session, at which the presidential address by Professor T. R. Snavely, of the University of Virginia, will be delivered.

Saturday's session will consist of a round-table discussion.

Officers of the Southeastern Economic Association are Tipton R. Snavely, University of Virginia, president; vice presidents, R. H. Tucker, Washington & Lee University; James W. Martin, University of Kentucky; Walter J. Matherly, University of Florida. Mercer G. Evans, of Emory University, is secretary-treasurer, and Malcolm H. Bryan, of the University of Georgia, is editor of publications.

Atlanta to View Little Red Cannon, Ready to Roar Salute to Roosevelt

Thousands of Atlantans are expected to view today the historic little brass cannon in a display window of George Muse Company, reposing there on exhibition until Tuesday night, when it will be escorted to a site between Pryor street and Central avenue, where the old Union depot formerly stood. There, at the proper hour, it will boom out a salute to Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will be the next president of the United States.

Since it was cast, in 1884, it has been the property of The Atlanta Constitution, and that very same year, on November 7, when the democrats of the nation sent Grover Cleveland to victory, the little cannon fired its first salute. When it is touched off tomorrow night it will be 40 years to the day since it last boomed out a salute—on November 8, 1892—and that salute, too, was for Grover Cleveland.

Since its very birth, the little Constitution cannon has been a staunch democrat. It speaks with a reverberating voice, and it speaks only for presidents of the United States. Though princes and kings have graced Atlanta with their regal presence, the little brass cannon—once painted a bright red—has had no word for them. It is a democrat.

And like the little tin soldiers of Little Boy Blue, it has lain away all these years in a dark storage closet on the fourth floor of The Constitution building. Its red paint is almost gone. The dust of decades covered it when it was taken out last week. But once it was so red, and such a soldierly little cannon that small boys, seeing it, probably dreamed of owning it.

Those small boys are gray-haired men now, but many, no doubt, will be among the celebrators who will see and hear its booming salute to Roosevelt Tuesday night.

Urban League Bulletin

Negro Achievement Week is an annual observance fostered by the 88 chapters of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity, scattered throughout this country and Canada. Its aim is to disseminate information to the world as to the actual worth and historical attainments of this racial group and to propagate to other groups the fact that the negro has been and is an actual factor in the upbuilding of the nation. And, finally, in promoting the study of negro achievements; it is their desire to obtain the co-operation of all classes and groups in the fine appreciation of constructive accomplishments and artistic merit.

The four local chapters of the fraternity have combined and arranged for an exhibit of negro art and literature in the spacious exhibition rooms of the new Atlanta University library. They feel that this affords to the public a visual demonstration of negro accomplishment in the field of fine arts. The very best that our group affords in this field has been sought, and the paintings of at least four Harmon prize winners will be exhibited. In this number may be mentioned some of the paintings of James Wells, J. W. Harwick, Palmer Hayden, Hale Woodruff, W. E. Scott and Charles L. Sallee Jr.

Tune in on radio station WGST on Wednesday and Thursday nights, November 9 and 10, from 6:15 to 6:30, central standard time, for radio programs on negro achievement.

The program for this week is as follows:

The exhibition will open on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Atlanta University library with a gallery talk by Professor Hale Woodruff, instructor of art, Atlanta University.

On Tuesday night, Anne Cooke, of Spelman College, wil speak on "What the Negro Has Accomplished in Drama" in the Atlanta University, 8 until 9 o'clock.

On Wednesday night, Professor R. E. Cureton, of Booker T. Washington High school, will speak on "The Contribution of Africa in Art and Literature" in the exhibition room, Atlanta University library, 8 to 9 o'clock.

On Friday night Professor Frederick Hall, of Clarke University, will speak on "Negro Music," accompanied by quartet rendering negro compositions in the exhibition room, Atlanta University library, 8 to 9 o'clock.

Paintings will be on exhibition at Atlanta University library rooms beginning Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock and thereafter through November 11 will be open for public inspection from 9 a. m. until noon and from 2 until 5 p. m.

The members of the Atlanta achievement project committee are Harold T. Thomas, chairman; C. N. Cornell, vice chairman; J. B. Blayton, W. S. Cannon Jr., J. C. Bridges, Nathaniel Harrison, W. Jennings, Benjamin Moore and Hale Woodruff, art adviser.

Co-operating in the Negro Trade Week, under the auspices of the Atlanta Negro Chamber of Commerce, from October 31 to November 5, were 85 retail business concerns, including 28 grocery stores, one radio concern, two drug stores, one bakery shop, six beauty parlors, two filling stations, one milk dealer, 10 cafes, three barbecue stands, four pressing clubs, one shoe shop, five barber shops, two undertakers, three banks and building loan companies, one printer, three insurance companies, two clothing stores, one certified public accountant, three theaters, one renting agency, one jewelry store and four other businesses.

A committee of representative citizens from St. Louis and Kansas City met Governor Caulfield last month in an effort to give more negroes employment in state highway projects. Later, at a conference held at the Jefferson City office between Engineer Cutler and a representative group of the contractors, Mr. Cutler asserted that "the Missouri state highway commission would not tolerate a discrimination against the negro in the employment of contract labor, that on future work the negro must be given the same opportunity as the white man."

SWAYNE APPOINTED TO TRAFFIC POST BY AIR COMPANIES

Adaptability of Georgia Tech graduates in aeronautics is reflected in the appointment of Jack Swayne, former Tech track star, to a position in the airlines ticket office of American Airways and Eastern Air Transport in the Ansley hotel. He is the third Tech graduate to enter the Atlanta air transport service through this medium, his predecessors being Glenn Holland and Will S. Smith.

Holland was promoted to assistant city traffic manager for American Airways and Smith was made city traffic manager at Mobile, Ala. Swayne will be associated with F. R. Barfield in the city ticket office. Willis B. Haviland is division traffic manager for the area embracing Nashville, New Orleans and Atlanta.

Jack Swayne, who graduated from Tech School of Commerce in 1930, with two letters in track, took up flying at Brooks field in Texas and graduated at Kelly field in 1931. He was assigned to the famous first pursuit group of the United States flying corps at Selfridge field in Michigan and served with that organization until last July.

PARAGUAYANS CLAIM VICTORY IN GRAN CHACO

..ASUNCION, Paraguay, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A dispatch fdom Paraguayan forces in the Gran Chaco said today that the Bolivian position at Platanillos has been captured.

Bolivian forces fled toward the Fort Ballivian after setting fire to several houses at Platanillos, the message said.

Cops, in New Uniforms, To Be Inspected by Key

All policemen off duty, and as many of those on duty as can be spared, are ordered by Chief Sturdivant to assemble at headquarters at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at which hour Mayor James L. Key, members of the police committee of council and the chief of police and his officers will inspect the men in their new military-style uniforms.

An order to that effect was issued Sunday by Chief Sturdivant, who said that every policeman on the force with the exception of a few essential to directing downtown traffic would be inspected.

FAMOUS PORTRAIT OF OGLETHORPE WILL BE UNVEILED

Preluding Georgia's bicentennial and under the auspices of the Georgia bicentennial commission, what is thought to be the only portrait in existence of General James Edward Oglethorpe, founder of Georgia, as a general, will be unveiled with elaborate ceremonies at Oglethorpe University Monday, November 14.

The portrait, the central figure in Oglethorpiana, was "discovered" by Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University in England last summer. It has been hailed by nationally-recognized art critics and Georgian historians as a real find which will contribute much to the color of Georgia's bicentennial celebrations in 1933.

A portrait of Sir John Percival, first president of the board of trustees for the founding of the state of Georgia, also will be unveiled as will the original copper engraving of General Oglethorpe by S. Ireland.

The bust of John Thomas Lupton, Chattanooga capitalist, and Oglethorpe University's outstanding patron who has contributed more to Oglethorpe University than any other man, will be unveiled and will occupy a conspicuous place in the administration building on the campus, Dr. Jacobs said.

CRIMINAL COURT FINES SHOW GAIN OVER 1931

Fines collected in criminal court of Atlanta during October showed a large gain over those for the same month last year, according to a report by Solicitor John S. McClelland. October, 1932, fines amounted to $8,450, and the October, 1931, fines totaled $5,592.

With two divisions of court running in October, 873 cases were disposed of, as compared with 496 for the same month of 1931. Two courts will be maintained during the remainder of the year, in order to bring the business of the court up to date, McClelland said. The work is nearly up to date, he added. Of 645 convictions in October, 129 resulted in straight sentences to the chain gang.

CITY TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE FRIDAY

Bristling Martial Array To Mark 14th Anniversary of War's End.

Martial music and trappings, brilliant color and reverent memorials for the soldier dead will blend in one great pageant in a celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of Armistice Day in Atlanta Friday. Service organizations, governmental units, schools and citizens will have aa part in the mammoth display.

Beginning at 10 o'clock Friday morning, a huge parade will form at Whitehall and Mitchell street to march through the business district to the Georgia Tech campus, where on Grant field Atlanta's greatest memorial for fallen heroes will be given. The observance will be under the joint sponsorship of the American Legion and Georgia Tech.

Radio Programs Planned.

Prior to the celebration Friday, special preparatory memorial programs will be given. Georgia Tech and Atlanta Post No. 1 will combine in giving two radio programs over WGST and WSB, the former at 8 o'clock Wednesday night and the latter at 10:15 o'clock Thursday night.

The program over WGST will be sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary and will feature the Legion drum and bugle corps, songs, and Miss Moina Michael, national "Poppy Lady," who will discuss the history of Poppy Day. Captain W. A. Sirmon, state adjutant of the Legion, will direct a 45-minute program over WSB, a pageant of martial airs, readings and memorials to the dead.

In the parade on Armistice Day will be several bands, including the police band, musical organizations from Atlanta schools and the Georgia Tech band. Military units galore will be in line of march and Adjutant General Charles Cox will be marshal. In the line will be representatives of all service organizations, an army and national guard unit, marine corps and naval officers and men, six uniformed units of Yaarab Temple Shriners, including the "Million Dollar Band" and other groups. Sponsors said it will be Atlanta's greatest peace-time parade.

Line of March.

Winding through town from the point of origin, the parade will traverse Whitehall street, thence up Peachtree to West Peachtree, north to North avenue, where the line will turn left and march to Grant field.

Inside the field will pass in review and the assembly will be called to attention by Commander Robert P. McLarty, of Atlanta Legion Post No. 1, for one minute of silent prayer at 11 o'clock. A small cannon will fire three shots, followed by "Taps." Songs by Mrs. George McKee will follow.

In the reviewers' stand Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, will introduce Hughes Spalding, chairman of the state board of regents, for a two-minute talk. The Legion Drum and Bugle Corps will give martial fanfares, and Scott Candler, state Legion commander, will give the principal speech of the day. Singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and war songs will end the ceremonies.

Black Heads Committee.

Members of the arrangements committee are R. P. Black, chairman; Robert Troutman, Walter LeCraw, J. H. Lucas, O. S. Longino, John J. London, W. A. Alexander, W. R. Joyner, W. R. Henslee, Hubert T. Quillian and A. J. Garing.

Marshals in the ceremonies at the field will be Ralph P. Black, O. S. Longino, John J. London, W. A. Alexander, J. H. Lucas and A. J. Garing.

During the day many clubs and organizations will observe the day with private ceremonies, including the Atlanta Masonic Club, which will hold a meeting at the Winecoff hotel. Songs and patriotic arias and a speech by Captain W. A. Sirmon, World War hero, and Georgia adjutant of the Legion.

NEW AIR PASSENGER ROUTE TO ATLANTA PLANNED BY E. A. T.

Atlanta will be visited by two air liners, including one 18-passenger Curtiss Condor, this week when the ships will journey here from New York via Charlottesville and Lynchburg, Va.; Bristol and Knoxville, Tenn., on an inspection tour to consider the opening of a new trunk airway by Eastern Air Transport, Inc., from Washington, D. C., via Knoxville, joining these cities to other trunk lines in America, Canada, West Indies, Central and South America.

Aboard the ships, which will take off on Armistice Day, will be about 12 transport officials, the announcement said, and at each city between 200 and 300 prominent citizens will be taken aloft to demonstrate the Condor, America's largest land plane in regular use. After the planes reach Atlanta, which is Eastern Air Transport's operations center, they will visit Augusta, Columbia, S. C., and Asheville, N. C.

Aside from Atlanta, the other cities are not now connected with a great system of national and international airways. Columbia and Augusta, according to plans, are to be joined with a route extending from Charlotte, N. C. Officials said the new routes are planned as the result of greatly increased traffic volume over Eastern Air Transport lines, which allows expansion of service and a recent reduction in fares.

PEACH GROWERS' LOAN WILL BE SOUGHT SOON

Formal application for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to aid Georgia peach growers will be made within two weeks, according to Arthur D. Jones, director of the state bureau of markets.

Application for the loan has been held up pending the opening of the Macon branch of the agricultural credit corporation and Mr. Jones said that the officers of the branch, he had learned, are to be appointed this week and installed within 10 days.

The loan, Mr. Jones said, will be used to aid the growers in planning their next year's crops. Few of them, he pointed out, have made a profit on their peach crops for the last two years, and they are in dire need of assistance.

And Now They're Turning Prize Turkeys Loose at Football Games--Oh, Well.

If this thing keeps on—this show business in connection with athletics—it is going to lead somewhere and I think the road leads right to the daffy house.

After a season watching greased pigs run at the baseball opening in Nashville; and after watching Joe Engel's canaries and "sympathy" band at Chattanooga; and after having lived through Hugh Smith's show at the Vanderbilt-Tech football game where live goats and rabbits and mules were loose all around the stadium, my nerves are very, very shaky.

COACH HARRIS.

It has reached the point where I expect to find a goat grazing in the office or rabbits munching in the press box.

And now comes this fellow Bud Harris at Bowdon. He's going to turn loose 50 (count them) turkeys on the streets of Bowdon next Thursday at high noon. Fifty turkeys will be turned loose for the mob to chase. And each turkey will have a prize tied to one of its legs.

And each gentleman or lady who is successful in the chase will receive not only the turkey and the prize but a free pass to the picture show. (How are the old dogs? As fleet as ever?)

And the football game is free. Don't ask me. I'm telling you—Fifty turkeys, picture show passes, a free football game and goodness knows what else.

Fort Benning's football team is to play Bowdon State College that afternoon. It's a grand chance to capture your Thanksgiving dinner right on the hoof. And to see a movie which will NEVER come back to Atlanta.

Your old professor is game—canaries, pigeons, jazz bands, dancers, goats, greased pigs, mules, rabbits—and now fifty turkeys to be turned loose in a city's streets.

Life is just one zoo after another. And I'm in something of a frenzy to know what the next promoter is going to turn loose at his football game.

ONE STATE VICTORY.

Mercer's Bears, undefeated in the Dixie conference, were the only state eleven to bring home the bacon in Saturday's games.

Georgia played a creditable game against N. Y. U. in the Yankee stadium but lost by a single touchdown. The Georgia team is evidently coming along. Clemson, on next Friday, is the next foe for the Bulldogs. After that comes Auburn and Tech.

Georgia Tech played one of the best football games ever played by a Tech team in losing 20 to 14 to Tulane. Because this Tulane team was the best Tulane team that has taken the field this year. It was considerably better than it was against Georgia and Auburn.

"Tulane had some good ends on the field against Tech," said "Country" Moore, the L. S. U. scout who has seen them in all their games. "The end play against Auburn was poor. It was good against Tech. It is the best Tulane team I've seen this fall."

Tech faces Alabama next. The battered Jackets emerged from the Tulane game tired and worn. They go into the next game doped to lose. But Tech may break out yet. Pat Barron kept threatening and threatening and finally ran Tulane into hysterics Saturday with one of the best displays of how halfback should be played that Tech has seen in some time.

Alabama has been having some narrow squeaks. Kentucky and V. P. I. were difficult teams for Alabama to take. Tech should be even harder.

And, just as an after thought, have you ordered your ticket to the Tech-Georgia game to be played late this month? What a game that should be with Tech, for the first time since 1928, given something like an even chance to win.

VANDERBILT BEGINS FASTING AND PRAYER.

Vanderbilt alumni began yesterday a week of fasting and prayer. The Commodores meet Tennessee on Saturday and it is the one game of the year that Vanderbilt wants more than any other.

There has been a famine at Vanderbilt for four years and there are no real indications there this is to be a year of plenty. Tennessee will be the favorite to win. Vanderbilt's poor kicking and the failure to show anything approaching a consistent offense, gives Tennessee a decided edge in the pre-game figuring.

The game may decide the conference championship. Tulane and Alabama are temporarily out of it. Should Vanderbilt go ahead to win from Tennessee and Alabama it would be difficult to decide against the Commodores even though Auburn and L. S. U. should finish undefeated. A victory for Vanderbilt would leave the Commodores with still another tough one, Alabama, to beat. A Tennessee victory would leave the Vols with an almost sure-fire claim as Kentucky will hardly be able to halt the Vols this fall.

If Vanderbilt should lose this one, and the odds are she will, the Cumberland river will be choked with bodies of those who have decided to end it all. Nashville can endure four defeats but not five.

Vanderbilt's showing against Maryland, a 13-to-0 victory with all the Commodore regulars in there plugging, was something of a blow to Vanderbilt hopes. Hence the fasting and prayer being observed by the alumni of the Commodore.

A VERY PAINFUL REPORT.

Mr. Mack Tharpe, who scouted Alabama for Tech, brings back a most painful report.

"The score of the V. P. I.-Alabama game may sound as if V. P. I. gave them a lot of trouble," he said. (The score was 9 to 6, Alabama). "But such was not the case. With Cain in there Alabama was never in danger. He didn't play very much and his knee wasn't hurt again so he'll be at his best for Tech." (Isn't Tech the lucky one, though?)

"Alabama has four great tackles, four fine guards, two fine centers and a lot of great backs," said Tharpe, with tears in his voice. "I never saw such power."

Still, the same idea was entertained as to Tulane and the Green Wave was lucky to escape.

LUCKY FOR SCOUTS.

It is indeed fortunate for the football scouts, who are very doleful people, indeed, that times have changed. In the ancient days the kings used to have scouts shot who brought back bad tidings.

FOUR HOPEFULS PASS ON OUT OF TITLE RACE

Penn, Holy Cross, V. P. I. and Oklahoma Are Eliminated.

By Herbert W. Barker,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—November's initial football tests eliminated only four leadibg contenders for sectional honors and left other favorites more firmly entrenched than ever.

Pennsylvania and Holy Cross in the east, Virginia Poly in the south, and Oklahoma in the Big Six were the only major casualties yesterday in a day made notable by the paucity of upsets.

While these four were falling by the wayside, Southern California in the far west, Pittsburgh, Colgate, Brown and Columbia in the east, Tennessee, Auburn and Louisiana State in the south, Michigan and Purdue in the Big Ten, Texas and Texas Christian in the southwest, and Utah in the Rocky Mountain group continued their hold on the top positions.

Southern California, which may have to share the coast conference title with the University of California at Los Angeles, maintained its undefeated record by trouncing California, 27-7, and now seems certain to finish its conference season unbeaten. Stanford absorbed its third straight beating, bowing this time to Washington, 18-13. Oregon defeated Oregon State, 12-6, and Washington State pulled out a 12-0 decision over Idaho in the last quarter. U. C. L. A. was idle and will not return to conference competition until November 19.

PITT, BROWN WIN.

Pittsburgh, with its crack backs, Warren Heller and Mike Sebastian in form, spoiled Penn's dream of an unbeaten season, 19-12, while Brown's new "iron men," marched 85 yards in the waning minutes of the game to check Holy Cross, 10-7. Columbia, thanks to the alertness of Red Matal, who blocked a punt in the third quarter and ran across for a touchdown, nosed out Navy, 7-6. Colgate, checking in with one of the east's five intersectional triumphs, walloped Mississippi College, 32-0.

But perhaps the most astounding performance of the day was the 46-0 rout of Harvard by Army's powerful array which grows more impressive with each passing week. The Crimson never had a chance as Vidal, Buckler, Fields and other Army backs ran wild.

Fordham, recovering from two successive defeats, upset the highly-touted St. Mary's Gaels from California, 14-0, outplaying the visitors all the way, and New York University overturned Georgia, 13-7. Penn State stopped Sewanee, 18-6, and Syracuse won from Oglethorpe, 27-6.

Michigan handed Indiana a 7-0 licking to protect its unbeaten record, and Purdue, undefeated but tied by Northwestern, trounced Chicago, 37-0. Ohio State finally won a game, kicking over Northwestern, 20-6, while Wisconsin was taking Illinois over the hurdles, 20-12. The conference broke even in intersectional games as Minnesota turned back Mississippi, 26-0, and Iowa, although making a brave showing, lost to Nebraska, 14-13.

NEBRASKA "IN."

Nebraska, incidentally, virtually clinched the Big Six crown when Oklahoma's Sooners, odds-on favorites, dropped a 14-6 decision to Frank Carideo's Missouri Tigers who previously had lost five successive games. Kansas State whipped Iowa State, 31-0, while Kansas was absorbing a 24-6 beating from Notre Dame's aroused Ramblers.

Virginia Poly's 9-6 defeat by Alabama left the Southern Conference title chase to Tennessee, Louisiana State and Auburn. Tennessee drubbed Mississippi State, 31-0, while Louisiana State eked out a 6-0 decision over South Carolina. Auburn piled up a 25-0 count on a non-conference opponent, Howard. Tennessee's big test comes this week against Vanderbilt, unbeaten but tied by Tulane. The Commodores won yesterday from Maryland, 13-0, while Duke beat Kentucky, 13-0; Tulane won from Georgia Tech, 20-14, and Washington and Lee surprised with a 7-0 defeat of Virginia. W. & L. previously had dropped six games in a row.

Texas, looking toward the decisive battle with Texas Christian this week, bowled over Baylor in the most important of three Southwest conference duels. Rice came from behind to check Arkansas, 12-7, and Texas A. & M. and Southern Methodist played to a scoreless tie. Texas Christian won a non-conference game from Simmons Friday night, 27-0.

Colorado University failed to halt the Utah Indians' march to the Rocky Mountain title, dropping a 14-0 decision, and left the task strictly up to Denver, which meets the Indians this week. Denver, unbeaten in the conference although tied once, turned back Wyoming, 7-0.

Candler Tourney Won by Bowden

Finals in the Candler Park Golf Association tournament were completed yesterday with C. M. Bowden winning the championship, defeating R. L. Detzen, 2-up.

The tournament, handled by the efficient Wallace Lindquist, was a very successful one and another one, in connection with a drive for new members, will be launched soon.

One of the feature matches was that of the third flight where Carl Senkbeil was winner in a 23-hole match with Roy McCrory.

Results were:

Championship flight: C. M. Bowden beat R. J. Detzen, 2-up.

Second flight: W. D. Harwell beat J. D. Knight, 2-up.

Third flight: Carl Senkbeil beat Roy McCrory, 1-up, 23 holes.

Fourth flight: Charles Johnston beat A. S. Gill, 3 and 1.

The medal was won by Henry Maddox with a splendid 67. The winner of the tournament was awarded the Nat Kaiser trophy.

Griffith Denies Cracker Report

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, declared tonight that he had never heard of any deal whereby he planned to become interested in the Atlanta baseball club, now in receivership.

Griffith said since he was already interested in the Chattanooga club, he couldn't take over any other Southern league properties if he wanted to.

HARRY NEWMAN IS BRIGHT STAR FOR MICHIGAN

Wolverines Head for Title; Purdue Is Hot on Trail.

By George Kirksey,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Harry Newman, one of the nation's ranking candidates for the mythical All-America quarterback berth, led Michigan as it subdued a stubborn Indiana team to move near the Big Ten championship.

Newman's brilliant generalship, running and passing enabled Michigan to beat Indiana, 7-0, for the Wolverines' fourth straight Big Ten victory and sixth triumph of the season. Michigan is the only major unbeaten and untied team in the midwest.

Purdue's Boilermakers hammered out a 37-0 victory over Chicago and clung to their mathematical tie with Michigan for first place. Purdue, however, has been tied by Northwestern and cannot win the title unless Michigan loses to Chicago or Minnesota.

OHIO STATE WINS.

Ohio State scored its first major victory of the season by defeating Northwestern, 20-6. It was the first time Ohio State, under Coach Sam Willaman, had ever beaten Northwestern.

Wisconsin climbed into a tie with Minnesota for third place by winning from Illinois, 20-12, after a hard uphill battle.

With Pug Lund, brilliant sophomore halfback, gaining 232 yards, Minnesota beat Mississippi in an intersectional game, 26-0. Lund's runs ranged from 5 to 40 yards.

A courageous last period rally by Iowa just failed to tie Nebraska when a Hawkeye lineman was caught holding after Laws had kicked the point after the first touchdown. The second kick went wide after Nebraska won, 14-13.

COULDN'T PASS, RUNS.

With a ball in midfield early in the third period of the Michigan-Indiana game and the score tied 0-0, Newman dropped back in an attempt to pass. He couldn't find a receiver and ran with the ball, racing 34 yards to Indiana's 16-yard line before going out of bounds. Newman then tossed a pass to Ward and caught one from Fay, placing the ball on the 1-foot line from where he carried it over after Petoskey had twice failed. He also kicked goal.

Indiana made a first down on Michigan's 7-yard line in the final period but couldn't penetrate the Wolverines' goal line defense.

Notre Dame returned to winning form by beating Kansas, 24-6, after the Jayhawkers had scored a touchdown on a pass in the first four minutes of play. Three of Notre Dame's touchdowns came on long runs, a 45-yard dash by Nick Lukats, a 60-yard sprint by Joe Sheeketski and a 70-yard gallop by George Melinkovich.

BOWDON PLANS BIG HOMECOMING

BOWDON, Ga., Nov. 6.—Driving for the largest crowd that ever attended a game in Carroll county, merchants and citizens of the city will sponsor a free homecoming contest between Bowdon State College and Fort Benning soldiers Thursday.

Bowdon, coached by Bud Harris, former Howard athlete, has won five games and lost one this season. Only one letterman, Bill Smitha, returned at the beginning of the season, and, using green material, Harris has fashioned a strong team that exploits the Notre Dame system very well indeed.

Merchants and citizens are advertising Thursday as "Come to Bowdon Day." In addition to witnessing a free football game, visitors will have an opportunity to get free Thanksgiving turkeys.

Fifty turkeys will be turned loose at high noon Thursday and those catching them will also be awarded passes to the theater.

Carrollton, neighboring town, is giving full support to the homecoming program and, in addition, people from all over Carroll county and neighboring counties are expected.

Notables who have already accepted invitations to attend are Hon. I. H. P. Beck, senator, and Dr. C. Bean, members of the legislature, both of Bowdon; and Colonel Dorsey, Carrollton, member of the legislature.

A Civitan club committee composed of Pearl Holmes, Professor Jennings, of Bowdon State, and Bud Harris is in charge of the program.

Prominent merchants taking part in the preparations include Dr. Carl Morris, dentist; Dr. O. R. Stiles, Paul Hart, E. B. Ham and Will Roop.

Dr. George W. Camp, president of Bowdon, is also an enthusiastic supporter of the homecoming.

Tampa Boxing Club Offered A.A.U. Bid

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—W. D. Parr, president of the Seminole Heights Amateur Boxing Association, said today that J. B. Leman, Miami, secretary-treasurer of the state A. A. U., who had described the club a disgrace to amateur athletics, had invited it to join the state body. The criticism was made at the annual meeting here recently during a discussion of professionalism among amateur boxers.

Parr said Leman had written explaining he had new information indicating that the club's violations had come about through ignorance. Parr said the club had arranged with a local American Legion post to hold future bouts under authority of the post's A. A. U. membership.

Harry Mehre Satisfied With Georgia Showing

Bulldog Coach Says Team Reached Its Best Form of Season Against N. Y. U.

By Jimmy Jones.

EN ROUTE HOME WITH GEORGIA BULLDOGS, Nov. 6.—Georgia's football team, recipients of many ringing tributes along the eastern front for its praiseworthy stand against N. Y. U. Saturday, today was en route to Athens and a well-earned holiday that Coach Harry Mehre will give his men Monday.

"It was all that I could ask and certainly more than I expected," Mehre declared today in an after thought of his young team's showing in losing to the big blue team of the Bronx by a 13-7 score.

It was Mehre's candid opinion that Georgia not only played its best game thus far but for the first time during this tempestuous season really looked like a football team.

"We had some power Saturday and what made us look best was that when we got control of the ball, the boys showed that they could get somewhere with it," he added.

The comparison of statistics shows that Georgia not only played on even terms with the Violets in most departments, but from sheer rushing of the ball, actually outgained her opponents 195 yards to 117. The two passes that N. Y. U. completed, McNamara to McDonald, accounted for a total of 109 yards and enabled Coach Cann's team to go ahead of Georgia in the matter of total ground gained, boosting the Violet's yardage to 226.

PASSES FAIL.

Georgia did not complete a single pass, although several beauties were thrown by Leroy Young that barely missed connecting with Buster Mott.

Discussing his team's defense on the two long pass plays N. Y. U. worked, Mehre was inclined to think that on the first occasion, his side backs were drawn in, expecting an off-tackle play and that when McNamara proceeded to pass on first down like a bolt out of the sky, they did not have time to get out and cover McDonald, who had sneaked stealthily out in the flat.

On the first pass, Buster Mott, Georgia's very able defensive back, was caught by an N. Y. U. blocker and trapped in the mass, while on the second occasion Mott succeeded in getting over to McDonald and thought he had him run out of bounds near midfield, but the latter cut back sharply and sped down the sidelines to Georgia's 7-yard line, where Leroy Young finally nailed him with a great tackle.

"McDonald was a long time in pulling out of the backfield on both passes, so we went after all other eligible receivers and forgot all about him until too late," one of the Georgia backs explained. There is a great deal to this, also. It was not the fact that the play was new that fooled Geor-

Bush Widens Scoring Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Although checked for a while, Louis Bush, of Massachusetts State, scored his customary two touchdowns against Rensselaer yesterday and passed the mark of 100 points for the second year in succession. The two scores gave him a total of 18 touchdowns and 108 points for the seven games he has played so far.

Audie Mills, second place man among the leading point getters of eastern gridirons, did not play against Shepherd and held his 66-point total with a margin of only one point over Shepherd, of Western Maryland, and two over Siedlicki, of Clarkson. They got a touchdown apiece.

Three eastern players broke the field goal deadlock by booting their second three-pointers of the season. They were Chase, of Brown; Kelly, of Boston College, and Clayman, of Tufts. George, of Cornell, scored four points after touchdowns to take the lead in that department with a total of 11, one ahead of Siedlicki, Rowe, of Colgate, and Art Bachtel, of West Virginia Wesleyan.

Leathers Undergoes Appendicitis Operation

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The Georgia football party was forced to leave one of its members behind today when it pulled out of New York for the south.

Milton (Red) Leathers, former star Bulldog guard and hero of Georgia's exploits against Yale and N. Y. U. during the last three years, was in a New York hospital recuperating from an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Leathers was taken ill just before the game Saturday. At 6 p. m. he grew worse and was rushed to the hospital. Today attaches reported him to be resting well and on the way to rapid recovery.

FORDHAM SHOWS THAT CLOTHES ARE ORNAMENTS

St. Mary's Opera Bouffe Suits Fail To Impress Rams.

By Henry McLemore,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(UP)—We've always been told that clothes don't make the man, but it took the Fordham football team, working in dirty canvas pants and mud-stained moth-eaten maroon jerseys, to establish the old adage as a mighty truth.

Fordham kicked heretofore undefeated St. Mary's of California, 14 to 0. And of all the dressed-up teams you ever saw, St. Mary's was the dressed-uppitiest. There was a gasp of amazement and amusement from the 35,000 spectators gathered in the Polo Grounds, when the Galloping Gaels trotted onto the field in their opera bouffe suits.

The linemen wore tight-fitting scarlet silk pants. The two halfbacks and the fullback sported baby blue silk pants. And the quarterback—well, you'd have had to see him to believe it. His pants were of dazzling white silk. Given a parasol and he could have doubled for any tight-rope walker in any first-class circus. All the boys wore blue jerseys with fetching epaulettes.

SAD UNIFORMS.

Against this breath-taking display of haberdashery Fordham, dressed, as we said before in pretty sad uniforms, presented a sorry sight. But once the ball game started it was St. Mary's and not Fordham, that elicited your sympathy. For save in the first two minutes of play, when a recovered fumble placed the Gaels on Fordham's 25-yard line, the Californians weren't in the ball game. They simply went to pieces in the face of a line that charged and tackled with demoniacal fury, and refused to be fooled no matter how artful and complicated the plays thrown in its face.

Throughout the game the Fordham linemen, charging low and with tremendous drive, were on top of those redoubtable St. Mary's backs—Angel Brovelli, Bill Beasley and George Wilson—before they could get underway. St. Mary's gained only 84 yards from scrimmage, so completely were its ball carriers shackled. Only twice were the Gaels able to link two consecutive first downs together, and that was in the fourth period when Fordham, the game as good as won, relaxed.

SCORE ON PASSES.

Fordham's two scores came on two beautifully executed forward passes. Both of which found the receiver out in the clear and with a clean path to the goal line. The first one came early in the opening period and saw Jim Cowhig traipse 35 yards for a touchdown. The second one came in the fourth period and saw Frank McDermott take a 40-yard heave squarely on the enemy goal line.

In fairness to St. Mary's it should be pointed out that its team was far from full strength. Charley (Rubber Legs) Baird, the best of all the club's ball carriers, and the man around whom Coach Madigan moulded his attack, was out with injuries, as was Pendleton, regular guard.

And Rubel, while he played most of the game at center, was still weak from an attack of the flu. But even at their peak, the Galloping Gaels would have had their hands full whipping the inspired, smashing team that Coach Cavanaugh sent out Saturday.

TROJAN TEAM, U. C. L. A. LEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—While the championship race for 1932 Pacific Coast conference honors was still a two-team affair today, the standings of the circuit presented a pair of the "big-timers" of the football world in the second division.

Many seasons have been written into the records since Stanford's Indians and California's Bears occupied as lowly positions in the conference as they do today, the former with three defeats and the Bears with two.

The 18-13 defeat by Washington yesterday combined with earlier reversals to make this season the most disastrous for Stanford since Coach Glenn Warner took over the reins in 1924. Stanford has won one contest and has one more conference game to play, that with California, November 19.

Southern California's Trojans, after their second consecutive conference championship, turned back California 27-7, before a throng of 75,000 fans at Los Angeles. The Trojans chalked up their fourth victory.

Held scoreless for three periods by an Idaho eleven that developed surprising strength, Washington State opened up with a fourth quarter drive that netted a 12-0 win.

Oregon edged out its old rival, Oregon State, 12-6.

University of California at Los Angeles Bruins, tied with Southern California with no defeats, were inactive yesterday. They will face St. Mary's November 11 in a non-conference clash and return to conference competition November 19 against Montana.

Southern California plays Oregon next Saturday; Washington tackles Washington State; California takes on Idaho and Oregon State meets Montana, all conference games. Stanford will line up against the California Aggies.

Welcome Planned For Bulldog Team

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—The chapel bell did not ring in Athens Saturday night. Georgia lost to N. Y. U., but the University of Georgia band will ring the air with music Monday morning at 6:15 when the Bulldogs arrive at the Seaboard station.

Plans were completed Saturday night to have the band, students and hosts of Athens fans at the station to give the team a rousing welcome home.

SEEKING TITLE, TEAMS BATTLE AT NASHVILLE

Tech and Alabama, Georgia and Clemson, Auburn, Florida Play.

By Jack Troy.

The Commodores will clear the deck of the good ship Vanderbilt for one of the campaign's most important battles with the Volunteers of Tennessee Saturday at Nashville.

Tennessee, unbeaten Southern conference leader, has won five games. Vanderbilt has won four but has a tie with Tulane against its record.

A Commodore victory, which would be their first in five years over the Vols, would put Tennessee among the also rans. It would give Vanderbilt a fighting chance for top honors and furnish the impetus for an inspired game against Alabama.

Tennessee, if victorious, still has Kentucky to play. And Kentucky in the past three years has twice spoiled the Volunteers' chances of winning their first conference title by holding them to ties.

ALL ELEMENTS.

The Tennessee-Vanderbilt game will involve all the elements of a football "natural." Dixie Roberts, of Vanderbilt, and Beatty Feathers, of Tennessee, are two of the greatest backs in Dixie. Dan McGugin and Major Bob Neyland, of Vanderbilt and Tennessee, respectively, are masters of stategy.

A Tennessee victory would hardly decide the conference championship, however, since Auburn has a fine chance to go through undefeated.

Each of the leaders faces at least one tough opponent between now and the end of the season. Vanderbilt has Tennessee and Alabama and Tennessee has Vanderbilt and Kentucky. Auburn has Georgia and Louisiana State has Tulane.

Auburn goes up against Florida's uncertain Gators at Montgomery and should have relatively little trouble winning. Captain Jimmy Hitchcock and his mates are looking toward the game with Georgia as the one they must get by.

Louisiana State, last of the three unbeaten and untied conference teams, meets Centenary in a non-conference game this week.

ALABAMA-TECH.

The Red Regiment of Alabama marches on Atlanta Saturday to battle the Engineers of Tech. It's another tough game for Tech, for John (Hurry) Cain, great 'Bama back, is expected to be in prime condition for this game. But Tech is improving every week, as evinced by its great stand against Tulane, and is very likely to give Alabama plenty of trouble.

Georgia, brilliant in its defeat by N. Y. U., plays Friday against Clemson at Clemson, S. C. The Bulldogs have lived up to the predictions that they would be a real threat to any and all opponents in November and their second victory of the season is virtually certain to result in this game.

One of the best games of the day, although it has no bearing on the title race, brings together Tulane and Kentucky at Lexington. The Wildcats played Duke without Ralph Kercheval, who will be ready to go against the Wave.

Duke and North Carolina State, Virginia Poly and Virginia and Mississippi and Sewanee meet in the other conference games.

OGLETHORPE PLAYS.

Oglethorpe goes to New Orleans seeking revenge for last year's loss to Loyola, while Mercer likewise wants to wreak vengeance on Chattanooga at Chattanooga, Tenn. The Bears are leading and likely to win the Dixie conference.

Virginia Military plays Richmond, Mississippi State engages Southwestern, Maryland takes on Navy, Washington and Lee meets West Virginia and William and Mary clashes with George Washington in other games.

V. P. I. DROPS OUT.

The conference sic-'em-more tree is almost bare now. The opening blast of November's football winds sent Virginia Poly fluttering to a six-point landing against Alabama's nine-point takeoff.

Tennessee, Auburn and Louisiana State, unbeaten and untied, and Vanderbilt, with no losses and a tie, face November's rocky road with trepidation, to say the least.

Crippled John Cain played in the Virginia Poly game long enough to spur his mates on to a victory and

Dan McGugin Praises Gallant Bid of Virginia Poly Eleven

VANDY EXERTED TO WIN CONTEST OVER MARYLAND

Commodores' Attempt To Take Things Easy Is Frustrated.

By Dan E. McGugin.

Head Football Coach, Vanderbilt University.

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—In Southern conference football Saturday, Virginia Polytechnic Institute made a gallant bid for conference leadership against Alabama, losing by a close score, 9-6. The team has made great strides this year, and has consistently won thus far by some power, great skill and sound, quick thinking.

V. P. I. made a great contest out of its game with Alabama, scoring by brilliant passing, but the Alabama attack was so well organized and so powerful that it gained 230 yards by rushing against 44 for V. P. I., and this tells the story.

VANDY EXERTED.

Vanderbilt was compelled to exert itself to the utmost to win from a vastly improved and determined Maryland team, 13-0. With the Tennessee game looming next Saturday, Vanderbilt hoped to take things easy, but it took hard work for 60 minutes to win.

Duke gained a brilliant victory over Kentucky. Coach Wallace Wade has truly accomplished much at Duke and has a team good enough to give any outfit in the conference a terrific battle.

Georgia played a gallant game against New York University, apparently being superior at everything except passing.

Auburn kept along her consistent way by winning easily from Howard. Clemson won a brilliant home-coming game from Citadel. Tennessee had easy sailing against Mississippi State. Louisiana State duplicated Tulane's score of 6-0 against South Carolina.

W. & L. WINS ONE.

Washington & Lee won one of those soul-satisfying victories against an old rival, Virginia. Sewanee did its level best against Penn State, but lost, 18-6. Virginia Military Institute lost outside the conference to William & Mary and North Carolina State won outside from Davidson.

Great contests by teams in the other conference games were Mercer's victory over Center, 8-0, and Loyola's 14-0 win over Chattanooga.

Georgia Tech's game against Tulane was a thriller, Tulane, winning 20-14. For raw courage and fighting spirit the Georgia Tech team ranks with any.

MISSOURI WINS OVER OKLAHOMA

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Frank Carideo's Missouri Tigers scored their first football victory of the season Saturday, a 14-6 triumph over the Oklahoma Sooners which knocked the latter out of a tie with Nebraska for the Big Six conference leadership.

The first victory also pulled the Tigers up into a tie with Kansas State for third place in the standing.

Additionally, the Tigers figured in a natural build-up for their traditional 41st football meeting next Saturday with the Jayhawkers, of the University of Kansas, who played some fine football against Notre Dame at Lawrence Saturday for three-quarters of the game, only to lose, 24 to 6.

Paced by Dougal Russell, who carried the ball seven times for an average gain of 18 yards, Kansas State put on a last-half scoring orgy to defeat Iowa State, 31 to 0.

Nebraska ran up an early lead on the University of Iowa but the Hawkeyes scored two touchdowns in the final period and lost by only 13-to-14.

Headliner attractions next Saturday are Nebraska's game with the Pitt Panthers, recent conquerors of Notre Dame, and the Missouri-Kansas clash at Columbia. Oklahoma plays last-place Iowa State at Ames.

VANDY AND VOLS BATTLE SATURDAY

eliminate the Middle Atlantic section's lone challenger.

Tennessee found Mississippi State just a breeze in winning, 31 to 0, and Auburn, playing outside the conference, won a handy 25-to-0 victory over Howard.

The South Carolina Gamecock went after the Bayou Tiger of Louisiana State with steel spurs, but waged a losing fight, 6 to 0.

TECH PRAISED.

Georgia Tech is being roundly praised for its great exhibition against Tulane, which the latter won, 20 to 14. Don Zimmerman's three touchdowns beat the Engineers, but Pat Barron, the last of the Barrons, thrilled the crowd with his sensational dashes. He outgained the Flying Don from St. Charles, La.

A heart-breaking fumble on the one-yard line late in the game removed Georgia's chances of tieing or beating New York University. The Violets beat the Bulldogs, 13 to 7, but the praise was for the plucky southern team that wouldn't give up.

Washington & Lee slipped up on Virginia, 7 to 0, to put a single win alongside a long string of losses, while Duke defeated Kentucky, missing Kercheval, 13 to 0, and North Carolina planted another one on the broad Florida chin, 18 to 13.

PETRELS LOSE.

Oglethorpe ended a disastrous week in New York state by losing to Syracuse, 27 to 6. Mercer then took the spot in the state by defeating Centre, 8 to 0, and slipping into the favorite's seat in the Dixie conference race. The Bears are unbeaten in the Dixie.

There was nothing but woe for every southern team making bids for intersectional glory. It goes like this, set to the tune of "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight" (meaning victory):

Mississippi 0, Minnesota 26; Wake Forest 6, Catholic University 14; Sewanee 6, Penn State 18; Mississippi College 0, Colgate 32.

North Carolina manufactured six points on Roy's 90-yard run to win, 7 to 3, over Davidson; William & Mary downed V. M. I., 20 to 7, and the Citadel fell before the Clemson onslaught, 18 to 6.

Other games saw Furman beat Wofford, 24 to 0, and West Kentucky beat Georgetown by a like score; Centenary rode roughshod over Durant, 44 to 0; Mississippi Teachers defeat Louisiana College, 12 to 0; Southwestern take a beating from Birmingham-Southern, 20 to 6, and Louisiana Tech take out Millsaps, 19 to 14.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Grantland Rice

The East Makes Its Stand.

Out of the focal and foremost fire
(As some one wrote before);
Out from a prospect bleak and dire,
Watching a chance to score—

It wasn't the Panther or the Lion
Or the Tiger's savage slam
That brought the east to a winning feast,
It wasn't the Bulldog—no, the beast
Was Fordham's Battering Ram.

It was about time the east set up its barricade. For years the football surf of the Pacific had been ripping away at eastern dunes, leaving nothing but wreckage and debris in its wake.

There was Stanford's double triumph over Army and Dartmouth.

There was Pitt's smashing defeat on the west coast and Fordham's downfall before St. Mary's two years ago. There were the Oregon invasions that cracked two strong N. Y. U. teams when the football sky had a violet tinge.

There had been an almost unending procession of far west drives and sweeps through eastern ranks, year after year. And when St. Mary's Galloping Gaels, one of the strong teams of the Pacific coast, came on again with the bounding Angel Brovelli once more on the job, there seemed to be nothing left except another dull and dismal chapter for the eastern book.

For Fordham had already fallen before Michigan State and Boston College and St. Mary's had yet to lose a game along the turf that slopes to the Pacific's blue waves.

The New Fordham.

Fordham, well coached and well drilled with its full share of man power, had failed to click.

But it was a new Fordham team—new in spirit and fire—that carried the eastern banner to its first triumph in many years against the far away west on Saturday.

There are three things that tell you the spirit of a team on any given day—line charge, blocking and tackling.

When you see any team tackling, blocking and charging with a series of keen and savage thrusts, you know that team is something that must be taken by storm—no matter what the opposition is.

It took less than four plays Saturday to know that Fordham meant business on this occasion—Brovelli or no Brovelli. For Fordham got the jump—held the jump all the way—and never slackened its pace from 2 o'clock until night began to roll in nearly three hours later.

On the first play after the kick-off, following a fumble, Fordham found herself defending her own goal line—25 yards away.

Less than six plays later Fordham was in St. Mary's territory with the strong-legged Cowhig and the hard-running Sarauski ripping at St. Mary's defense in hues of shining blue and brilliant crimson.

And a moment later, having gained that priceless boon known as "position," the sharp-shooting Danowski is throwing a forward pass to the alert Cowhig for a 36-yard gain and Fordham is on her way at last against a western team that from then on could never find a two-foot gap in that swirling, hard-charging, path-blocking Fordham defense—a defense that even the dashing Brovelli punctured but once all afternoon.

Fordham won through a new spirit, thorough, sound play play in every fundamental and two well-conceived, well-executed passes from the rifle arm of Danowski—whose right foot was just as poisonous to the men of the far west as his right arm.

Danowski, in addition to his normal punting, put on the finest job of quick kicking I have seen all year. A week ago both Pitt and Notre Dame had any number of chances to use this valuable play with the safety man drawn up close, but neither tried it out. Danowski used it four or five times and usually with telling effect, keeping the western team too deep in its own territory to use the pass to any extent.

One feature of Fordham's play was the able manner in which the Maroon used the running game to call in St. Mary's pass defense. The westerners had to protect their line against the assaults of Cowhig and others, and when they came up Fordham called upon the pass to win.

But the running game of the eastern team played a big part in the final result.

St. Mary's Play.

Slip Madigan undoubtedly has a high-class team. He missed one of his best backs and it happened to be a day when the other side was hot and his side was not.

The westerners had a star back in Brovelli, who never had a chance to get loose. He gave everything he had, but there were always at least two Maroon tacklers diving at him, and Fordham was tackling well.

Stepanovich was a high class guard and there was more than enough talent on the western team to cause anyone trouble later on. But on this day Fordham was right and ready and it would have taken a super team to roll Major Cavanagh's lineup back into the gravel ditch.

Few Upsets.

The majority of Saturday's battles ran true to form. Penn gave Pitt a steamy duel, but Pitt was picked to win.

The third defeat of Stanford was one surprise, and no soothsayer had any idea that Army's able team would smear the Crimson by any such score.

It is just as well to extend a lot of credit to a strong Brown team for beating Holy Cross and coming this far unbeaten. The battle between Brown and Columbia this week will be one of the big games of the year between two teams that so far have rolled across all opposition without a dent or a tie.

GRANGE STARS AS HIS BEARS SWAMP GIANTS

Former 'Galloping Ghost' of Illinois Scores Three Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Red Grange had a field day in the National Professional Football League today as his Chicago Bears swamped the New York Giants, 28-8.

The former Illinois ace scored three touchdowns, two of them on passes from Molesworth and Nagurski and the other on an end sweep. Johnson, Bear end, scored the other Bear touchdown when he blocked a kick, picked up the ball and scampered across the Giants' goal line. The Giants uncovered a flashy aerial attack in the first period to score, a McBride-to-Flaherty toss bringing the tally. They added two more points to their total in the fourth quarter when Molesworth, of the Bears, dropped a pass from center behind his own goal line and intentionally grounded the ball for a safety.

Green Bay's Packers, the Boston Braves and Portsmouth Spartans were other winners today.

Green Bay ran its record to seven victories and one tie by trouncing the Chicago Cardinals, 19-9. Passes from Arnold Werber to Johnny Blood accounted for two of the Packers' touchdowns and led directly to the scoring of the third. The Cardinals scored their touchdown in the second period when Jess Tinsley blocked a Green Bay punt and Tim Moynihan fell on the ball across the goal line. A safety in the third quarter accounted for the Cardinals' other two points.

Portsmouth strengthened its hold on second place by smothering the Brooklyn Dodgers, 17-7, with Earl (Dutch) Clark scoring a touchdown and kicking a field goal.

Gyp Battles counted twice and Oren Pape once as Boston turned back Stapleton, 19-6. Pape's score came on an 95-yard dash through the entire Stapleton team. Bob Campiglio counted Stapleton's touchdown.

COLGATE'S LEAD IS GIVEN BOOST

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Victors in seven successive games, Colgate's Red Raiders had taken a wide lead in the eastern race for football scoring honors today.

The Raiders had piled up 227 points against none for the opposition for the best offensive and defensive record in the section. Columbia stood second in total points with 193; Fordham and Baltimore were tied for third with 178; Villanova fifth with 173, and Massachusetts State sixth with 172.

The list of unbeaten teams dwindled. Suffering their first defeats yesterday were Pennsylvania and Holy Cross, among the major teams.

'Possum Hound Owner
SQUIRE GIFFIN CALLS DOG HUMDINGER BREED
Settles This "Problem"

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—'Possum hound owners often are quite sensitive (and quite ignorant) about the pedigree of their dogs, so maybe 'Squire Ed Giffin has done the boys a favor by calling his Bob a humdinger breed.

Bob is a stumped-tail hound from Union county and a humdinger 'possum dog. It all started when the 'squire said his Bob was just a humdinger.

He trails and trees with a finesse worthy of the ritziest dog in the 'possum hunting business. Houn's that follow his trade never go around collecting ribbons and pats because their fathers and mothers were something. They are just dogs. And for that reason 'possum hunters don't argue breeds much and fellows who go in for pedigrees in dogs can always get up dispute and frequently a fight by casting insinuating remarks about a good 'possum hound's lack of breeding.

'Squire Giffin may have started something and given 'possum hunters a name for their dogs. While fox hunters boast of their July and Walker dogs, and bird hunters of their pointers and setters, 'possum hunters can blow about their humdingers.

The 'squire is a habitual 'possum hunter and his humdinger dog is the leader of his pack. He will have a 'possum float in the Armistice Day parade. There will be persimmon trees loaded with 'possums on the floats and his humdinger dog will be near by. After the parade, the 'possums will be barbecued. He already has caught 18 'possums with his humdinger and expects to have 30 by November 11.

HESSLYN MEETS LEVER TONIGHT AT AUDITORIUM

Six Matches Arranged; Democratic General Fund to Benefit.

Tonight at the city auditorium the anounced pre-election wrestling eard will be held under direction of the Fairplay Athletic Club. Six wrestling matches have been arranged. This event will afford the public the privilege of donating to the general fund being raised for the success of the democratic nominee and attending, at the same time, a good wrestling show.

Richard Lever, a native of Tennessee, who weighs 225 pounds, has been selected as the one to stop the rough-and-tumble Jim Hesslyn. There is no time limit in this match, and the winner will have to take the first two of the three falls.

The initial appearance of a number of wrestlers on the card has added interest to the show. The semi-final match is between Jack Ross, southern heavyweight champion, and Jackson Evans, of Dallas, Texas, and is scheduled for one fall and 45 minutes as the limit. These two performers are both newcomers to Atlanta and will be watched with a great deal of interest.

Tonight's show will open with three preliminaries of 15 minutes each and begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at the Atlanta Athletic Club and Five Points Soda Co. All tax is included and 60 per cent is donated to the democratic fund.

Waycross Woman Sets Course Mark

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Jock Watt, stellar member of the women's golf team of the Okefinokee Club, here, shattered the woman's course record, shooting the first 9 holes in 35, 3 under par, to win the annual woman's championship tournament here Saturday.

GEORGIA'S PLAY PLEASES MEHRE

gia, for N. Y. U. has been using it this season, but it was the suddenness and accuracy with which the talented McNamara pulled it that made it click.

N. Y. U. had been hammering at Georgia's center and tackles so furiously that the secondary had been forced to come in close to help out with the tackling. Meanwhile, N. Y. U. had been running the ends, or cutting back over tackle or guard with a rigid adherence to the same plays. Naturally when the backs snapped into position with McNamara receiving the ball and the blockers going at the tackle as if to make a hole, Georgia was led to expect another line play.

The return to form of the veteran Jim Tanguay helped N. Y. U.'s cause no little. New York observers also stated that the Violets gave Tanguay better blocking on the 5-yard run around end for N. Y. U.'s second touchdown than they have given one of their backs this year. The complete right side of Georgia's line was knocked in, not a man touching Tanguay.

There was one phase in which the Violets had a clear-cut edge and that was on Jim McNamara's kicking. He not only got them off high and far but kicked out from deep behind his goal line after Chapman's fumble late the game.

Georgia also lost heavily on penalties, receiving 80 yards of them, including one 15-yard assessment for holding which nullified a nice 15-yard gain by Buck Chapman.

"This year's game about evened things up; last year we got all the breaks and were lucky to beat N. Y. U." Mehre declared. This is a most excellent philosophy from a man who has seen his team lose at least four hard games this year that could very well have been won with a little more luck.

Mehre was feeling good today over the showing of his new backfield find, namely Buck Chapman, of Winder, Ga. Despite the boy's costly fumble, he was easily Georgia's outstanding ground-gainer of the day and also played a fine defensive game.

"I don't know what happened on that play; I just lowered my head and charged for the N. Y. U. goal line. Several players were tackling at me and the next thing I knew the ball was rolling along on the ground in front of me," Chapman said in discussin the break which gave N. Y. U. the ball. Incidentally Georgia would have had an excellent chance to recover had not the crazy pigskin rolled toward the Violet goal line a mile a minute.

New York sports writers covering the game were surprised at Georgia's show of strength. If this was a weak southern team they would like to see the south's strongest team, one of them said. Most of them expressed themselves as believing Georgia got the toughest break that any football team ever received in the stadium. Individual players praised most highly were Chapman and Griffith in the backfield and Moorehead, McWhorter and Batchelor on the line. Incidentally the whole Georgia line was superb. Its defensive exhibition was easily its best of the season.

Edward Slip Madigan, of St. Mary's, and incidentally a former Notre Dame man, came to Mehre's hotel Saturday night to commiserate with him. Madigan's team was drubbed by Fordham's Rams at the Polo grounds, 14-0, and strangely enough it was a Fordham pass to an uncovered player that helped beat Madigan's team. "We didn't have a man even at that part of the field," Madigan said. That made Harry Mehre feel a little better.

On the trip down through the Virginias, the Bulldog special train passed a cemetery. Mehre looked through the window and said.

"Those fellows out there are not worried about forward passes, so why should I be?"

On the Air Today

Miss Mary K. Jerome, who has been in charge of the educational program of the state game and fish department for a number of years, will speak over WGST at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Miss Jerome's lectures on conservation of Georgia wild life have attracted wide attention in all sections of the state where she has previously appeared before schools, Boy and Girl Scout trops, 4-H clubs, and civic organizations. This work is in line with an intense educational program which has been sponsored by the game and fish department in order to promote interest in conservation among the children of Georgia.

The Christian council devotionals for this week will include the following speakers: Monday, Rev. J. T. Widener, pastor Chamblee Baptist church; Tuesday, Rev. J. T. Robins, East Point Methodist church; Wednesday, Dr. W. H. Faust, pastor Gordon Street Baptist church; Thursday, Dr. John S. Jenkins, pastor Trinity Methodist church; Friday, Rev. Wallace Alston, pastor Rock Springs Presbyterian church, and Saturday, Rev. Russell K. Smith, rector Church of the Incarnation, Episcopal. The Christian council program is headed every morning at 8:45 and 9 o'clock.

From 10 to 10:45 o'clock tonight WGST will broadcast through the Columbia network democratic speeches by Governor Roosevelt and James Farley, chairman of the democratic committee.

The famous Coon-Sanders band will broadcast over WGST tonight from 9 to 9:30 o'clock and from 11 to 11:30 o'clock. This broadcast will be by remote control from College Hall, where the Coon-Sanders band is playing for a dance. This is its only personal appearance in Atlanta this season.

The theft of priceless paintings from the Louvre and the substitution of clever copies is the crime which will occupy Cy Montgomery and his assistant sleuth, Patty Barlow, during the ninth episode of Mysteries in Paris, to be broadcast over the WGST-Columbia network from 8:30 to 9 o'clock tonight. Again the trail leads to another thrilling encounter with that arch-fiend, the Octopus, linked with every major crime in Paris. The program will reveal what happens after Patty and Cy fall into the hands of the master criminal and his mute, animal-like assistant, Beppo.

The reign of Ptolemy II, of Egypt, will be the subject for the history session of the American School of the Air over the WGST-Columbia network from 1:30 to 2 p. m. today. The class is intended for the upper grades and high school, and follows the discussions of Rameses II and Darius I, which were heard in the first week of the radio school. Incidents from the Egyptian potentate's reign will be dramatized.

The vibrant contralto voice of Vaughn de Leath and popular rhythms by Freddie Rich's orchestra will comprise Vaughn's "Melody Circle" quarter-hour on the WGST-CBS chain today at 5:30 p. m. Vaughn's numbers will include "Down Where the South Begins," "I'm Yours for Tonight," and "My Little Nest of Heavenly Blue." Rich will offer Berlin's new tune, "How Deep Is the Ocean?" and "I'll Follow You."

MISSISSIPPIAN IS SHOT IN INTER-FAMILY FEUD

McCOMB, Miss., Nov. 6.—(AP)—C. S. Simmons, 46, of Bolivar, La., was in a serious condition at a hospital here today suffering from bullet wounds of the abdomen and left arm he said were inflicted by Noel Brumfield, 18, a neighbor. Brumfield was arrested, it was learned here.

Officers said they believed inter-family disputes prompted the shooting.

TENNESSEE MAN, 36, MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Granville Garner, 36-year-old junk dealer, was shot and killed by an unidentified man as he slept early this morning.

His brother, Grover Garner, of Florence, Ala., had come here to spend the week-end. Grover Garner reported to police that the man who killed his brother also fired a shot at him.

MIAMI BEACH TO GET NEW POSTOFFICE SOON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP) Work on a new $20,000 postoffice for this city will start in about two weeks, with the building to be ready for use about February 15, it was announced by architects here.

The announcement was made after O. W. Pittman, Miami postmaster, received advice from Washington that government officials have approved plans for the structure.

G. O. P. 'Campaign of Desperation' A Complete 'Flop,' Cohen Asserts

Senator John S. Cohen, Georgia national committeeman and vice chairman of the democratic national committee, Sunday night said the republican "campaign of desperation" had failed. He predicted the election of Governor Roosevelt and the prompt return of better times.

Senator Cohen was called from his post in democratic national headquarters Friday by the death here of John D. Simmons, for 30 years circulation manager of the Atlanta Journal, of which Senator Cohen is president and editor.

Senator Cohen's statement said:

"The republican campaign of desperation and fear has been a flop. The secretary of the treasury's waving of the 'bloody shirt' has gotten him and his party nowhere. The last-minute predictions of the White House pets and the caterers to special interests have fooled no thinking man or woman.

"Roosevelt will be elected. Times are going to improve. A sound currency is going to be maintained. The budget will be balanced. Let the American people take heart for happy days will soon be here again.

"Surely Georgia is going to play no minor part in this glorious result. From the first Roosevelt has been our friend and we have his. In the pre-election campaign this Empire State of the south was one of the first to act—and decisively.

"Will Georgia let any other state of relative population exceed her democratic majority? I don't think so. Let every democrat in Georgia go to the polls on Tuesday and the outcome will bring joy to the heart of Franklin Roosevelt and ring around the nation."

Reviewing the Shows

Young Mitzi Green Stars As "Little Orphan Annie"

Chalk up another convincing performance for little Mitzi Green, who takes the titular role in "Little Orphan Annie," feature presentation this week at the Fox theater. The children in the full house Saturday squealed with delight at the antics of the comic strip favorite, brought to life by young Mitzi, whose acting provoked both laughter and tears from the equally charmed adult members of the audience.

Clever mimicry is exhibited by Mitzi in her hilariously funny imitations of the Marx brothers. Although the plot is exceptionally thin, the picture is well worth seeing, due to the splendid acting of little Miss Green, ably supported by small Buster Phelps. Buster, who seems destined to the popularity of the Coogan brothers or Jackie Cooper, is most appealing in the role of Mickey, another little orphan, who is championed by Annie. May Robson plays the part of the querulous old lady who adopts Mickey.

The ever-popular Vincent Lopez and Morton Downey are featured in a musical short, and Roscoe Ates is amusing in the comedy. Jimmy Beers at the organ, and newsreels complete the program.

Edward G. Robinson Stars in 'Tiger Shark'

The simple but effective story of the love of Mike the Portugee, self-styled "best fisherman on the whole Pacific," builds up a wealth of dramatic intensity in "Tiger Shark," First National & Vitaphone picture starring Edward G. Robinson, at the Georgia theater.

As the versatile Mr. Robinson comes to us in still another type of role from his familiar gangster, he proves once again his ability to act and his power to move to smiles and tears. The jolly, hearty character of the bluff captain who chases the tuna fish for the market comes to life in the handling of Mr. Robinson . . . Mike gains and holds the sympathy of the audience.

Richard Arlen gives Mr. Robinson able support as "Pipes," second-in-command on the fishing boat. Zita Johann, feminine interest of the story, scores with her characterization of the Portuguese's wife. Through the whole story weaves the menacing shadow of the tiger shark, man-eating demon of the seas and the terror of the fishing fleet.

It is through the tiger shark that the lives of the fisher-folk are moulded, their paths brought together and their destinies worked out. As Mike says, "The tigers—they settle everything." The story has a surprise and happy-pathetic ending, one over which the ladies can enjoy a good cry.

The shorts include inimitable Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in an encounter with a guest who turns out to be—well, its a story with an O. Henry twist, "Dangerous Females." Pathe News brings some interesting reels of world news.

"Trouble in Paradise" Praised by Reviewer

Praise cannot be heaped too highly upon this week's offering at the Paramount theater, as "Trouble in Paradise" is the cleverest sophisticated comedy shown in Atlanta in many a moon. Ernst Lubitsch, the master of bedroom scenes and "French" comedy, directed the work of Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis and Herbert Marshall in this splendid piece of tasty entertainment.

For those who enjoyed Lubitsch's "One Hour With You," "The Love Parade," and other hits, "Trouble in Paradise" will only serve to increase their respect for this director's genius in making a picture correct and satisfying in every detail.

Performances of the first water are given by the entire cast, which inclues Edward Everett Horton and Charles Ruggles. This comedy team enlivens a story already sparkling with wit. Miss Hopkins, Miss Francis and Marshall interpret their roles subtly and smoothly, each taking full advantage of every "spot."

Trouble enters the love paradise of Miss Hopkins and Marshall, two ultra-smart European crooks, in the form of Miss Francis, the widow of a wealthy perfume manufacturer. To the accompaniment of incidental music adroitly used in developing the theme, Marshall wavers between the widow he plans to victimize and his accomplice. Clever lines for every actor speed the story which closes with a pleasant surprise.

Smilin' Al Evans bows modestly to the applause for his group of 1917 war songs, and the program ends with a musical short and a Betty Boop animated cartoon. To anyone worrying about the depression, the baby's illness, the election, etc., we recommend the Paramount theater this week as a sure cure for at least two hours.

"Unexpected Husband" At Erlanger Tonight

The play that was known during its five months' run in New York as the "Play With 1,004 Laughs," will be presented tonight at the Erlanger theater by the Permanent Players. It is Barry Conners' "Unexpected Husband," and Atlantans may look forward to one of the most hilariously funny pieces of stage entertainment they have ever enjoyed.

The story concerns a Texas father who follows his runaway daughter to New York, determined that the Broadway playboy she seeks shall either marry his daughter or "bite the dust" before the muzzle of the Texas six-gun. The plot carries the principals into a modern speakeasy and there the fun becomes so hot that audiences are held in a continuous series of laughs.

In the end, the girl marries another man entirely and—that's that.

There are still splendid seats available for tonight's performance, which starts at 8:30, and these, together with seats for the remainder of the week may be secured at the box office anytime after 10 a. m. The same low scale of prices remains in effect, with the best seats in the house selling for $1. There will be the usual six night performances and bargain matinees on Wednesday at 2:45 and Saturday at 2:30.

POLICE READY TO BAR U. S. COURT PICKETS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Capitol and city police prepared tonight to deal sharply with 175 International Labor Defense supporters who have announced their intention to picket the United States supreme court tomorrow.

The demonstration is planned in anticipation that the court will hand down its decision in the famous Scottsboro case involving seven negroes condemned to death for assaulting two white women in Alabama.

Captain Stephen J. Gnash, of the capitol police, refused to issue a permit for the parade, and immediately made plans to disperse any crowd that gathers. Newspaper photographers may even be barred from the scene, authorities holding pictures of the disturbance, if one occurs, would be used by the picketeers for publicity purposes.

Joseph Auslander Will Lecture At Agnes Scott College Nov. 29

Joseph Auslander, American poet, will speak at Agnes Scott College November 29 on his "Conversation on Poetry" as the third of a series of lectures offered by the Agnes Scott Lecture Association. He will discuss some phases of the subject and will read some of his poetry. Best known, perhaps, for his "Winged Horse," an epic story of the world policy, and "Winged Horse Anthology," in collaboration with Frank E. Hill, Auslander has published four volumes of his own verse.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. McCain entertained the freshman class at their home in Decatur with the annual Halloween party Thursday afternoon.

The Alabama Glee Club will sing at Agnes Scott Saturday evening, November 12. The glee club will accompany the football team, which will meet Georgia Tech's team on that date, and will give a program of choral music that night at Agnes Scott.

Mrs. Motte Martin, Agnes Scott alumna and missionary in the Belgian Congo for several years, entertained the college community Wednesday evening with movies of African natives, their life and customs. This was a part of the world fellowship program on the campus sponsored by the World Student Christian Federation during the first week in November. Mrs. Martin also had many curios on display. Agnes Scott draws students from many foreign countries and there were representatives to offer special attractions at booths—Miss Suzanne Dorland, from France; Miss Melanie Vasickova, from Czecho-Slovakia; Miss Ursula Boese, of Berlin, Germany; Miss Sara Stegall, from Africa; Misses Martha Crenshaw and Lena Armstrong, from China.

Blackfriars entertained at an informal reception, honoring members of the cast of the play, "Nine to Six," which is to be given on November 19. One of the honor guests was Miss Suzanne Dorland, who is to play the part of Mademoiselle, and who is also an honorary member of the club. The cast includes Misses Polly Vaughn, Helen Etheridge, Margaret Belote, Martha Skeen, Martha Elliott, Betty Lou Houck, Barbara Hart, Mary Hutchinson, Bessie Meade Friend, Elaine Heckle, Catherine Happoldt, Gussie Riddle, Lucile Woodbury, Margaret Friend, Marguerite Morris and Suzanne Dorland.

Miss Constance Adams Complimented At Buffet Supper in Cartersville, Ga.

Miss Constance Adams, an attractive member of the debutante contingent, was complimented at a buffet supper Sunday evening by Mrs. William J. Weinman and her charming subdeb daughter, Miss Frances Weinman, at their home in Cartersville. The hostesses and honor guest were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Andrew Weinman.

The lace-covered table in the dining room was adorned with a crystal bowl, filled with yellow chrysanthemums and was encircled by crystal candlesticks holding yellow tapers. The color motif of yellow and white was effectively carried out in the exquisite details.

Invited to meet Miss Adams were Misses Mary Meador Goldsmith, May Latimer, Pattie Porter, Jean Lucas, Liza Tway, Frances Boykin, Mary Adair Howell, Charlotte King, Marion Calhoun, Caroline Selden and Sarah Brown, of Columbus; and Bernard Wolff, Ed Harris, D. A. McKee, Emerson Gardner, Philip Alston Jr., Carey Wilmer, William Barnett, Ed Hamm, Harvey Hill, Jack Tway, John Maddox, Roby Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boston.

Clara S. Hardwick Is Christened Sunday

Little Clara Shivers Hardwick, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hardwick, was christened yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock at a ceremony at All Saints' Episcopal church in the presence of members of the family and a group of their friends. Dr. W. W. Memminger performed the christening ceremony.

Mrs. Russell McKinney, of Chattanooga, Tenn., aunt of the baby, was named first godmother, but on account of her absence from the city her sister, Miss Dorothy Shivers, stood in her place. Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay were named godfather and godmother also.

For the occasion small Clara wore a dainty little dress of imported lace. Among those present were the baby's grandmothers, Mrs. H. M. Hall, of Cedartown, Ga., and Mrs. Lester H. Shivers, of Atlanta; her aunt, Miss Virginia Hall, of Cedartown, Ga.; her graet-aunt, Mrs. A. F. Latimer, of Milledgeville, Ga.; her little brothers, Lester Shivers and Richard Hardwick Jr., and a small group of close friends of her parents.

Y. W. C. A. Health Department Program Stimulates Keen Interest

Increased attendance, enlarged service, wider variety of classes, reduced prices and convenient schedules in the Y. W. C. A. health education department have stimulated keen interest in the gymnasium, swimming, dancing, basketball and tennis classes. Attendance during the past month far exceeded that of October, 1931, and, as classes are open for registrations, new people are constantly enrolling. Beginning the fall schedule on October 1, Miss Frances Keller, director, announces a total attendance of 1,629 against the attendance of 1,405 for the same period in 1931.

During these days of physical strain, mental upheaval and financial uncertainty, the Y. W. C. A. is proud that its health education department offers to all girls and women health-giving exercises, cool, refreshing swims, careful physical examinations, stimulating games and beneficial recreation. Supplementing the regular routine are health talks and advice on personal hygiene from time to time by leading physicians, beauty culture experts or public health authorities.

Through its service in arranging for an annual physical examination at a nominal rate, the Y. W. C. A. safeguards the health of many girls and women and often aids in preventing or checking disease. Free medical advice is available for unemployed girls and other groups and, in some instances, examinations given this fall will be carefully checked within the next few months.

Contract bridge lessons, given by C. E. Drummond Jr., are proving popular for the mothers who bring their children to the dancing classes on Thursday afternoons. As beginners and advanced classes for children are held Thursday afternoons for the convenience of mothers having children in both classes, Mr. Drummond has arranged bridge classes for entertainment during these hours. Expert advice on the latest Culbertson system is available at 25c per person and the classes are not limited to those coming to the Y. Thursday afternoons, as others may join. Miss Raemonde Wilson, of Agnes Scott College, teaches the children's dancing classes and Thursdays the Y. W. C. A. teems with children ranging from tiny tots to 'teen-age girls learning poise and grace by esthetic dancing.

Another popular class is the gymnasium for matrons, held from 10 to 11 o'clock on Tuesdays and Fridays. These women, who have learned the actual benefits derived from regular exercise under a trained instructor, appreciate the Y. facilities and praise its health education department. The majority in the class enjoy a swim immediately following the exercises, for the pool is open for dips from 11 to 1 and 4:30 to 6:30 daily, except Saturday.

Arranged for teachers and those free in the afternoons is the gym class from 3:30 to 4:30 on Mondays and Wednesdays, while other classes from 5:30 to 6:30 Tuesdays and Fridays and 6:30 to 7:30 Thursdays aid business girls in keeping fit.

Interest is being shown in the basketball team organized at the Y. which meets for practice each Thursday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock. As soon as the team is whipped into shape, competitive games will be played, with the Y. team challenging those from stores, churches and other organizations.

With the Y. pool heated at an even temperature in winter as well as summer, swimming classes continue and dips prove highly enjoyable. Mrs. C. E. Drummond, swimming instructor, holds classes morning, afternoon and evening, with a special class on Thursday afternoons, when the little girls take dancing while the mothers are playing bridge. Mothers and children may enjoy a dip together on Tuesday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:30 and the dip for children is on Saturday morning, from 10:30 to 12 o'clock.

The health education department cooperates with business and industrial departments as well as Girl Reserves and residence girls in extending privileges to all groups in the Y. W. C. A. Special swim and gym classes are provided for club members, and girls living at the Y. residence, 82 Baker street, may enjoy swimming and gymnasium without cost.

Y. W. C. A. members are requested to mark on their calendars the hours from 4 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, November 13, when world fellowship services will be held in every association in this country and in foreign cities. Mrs. W. F. Caldwell, chairman of world fellowship committee, has planned an interesting program, emphasizing interracial relations. Dr. R. B. Eleazer will be speaker and music will be furnished by the Morehouse quartet.

Artists' Concert At Druid Hills School.

A concert will be given this evening at 8 o'clock in the Druid Hills High school auditorium for the benefit of the school orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Greene.

Mrs. Charles Dowman, pianist; Mrs. Eugene Allenworth, coloratura soprano; Miss Ruth Dabney Smith, violinist, and Colman Kimbro, baritone soloist, will contribute the program. Mrs. Dowman is one of the leading pianists in the state. She has held many honored positions of credit and she received special acclaim last Sunday in a concert given at the Woman's Club in honor of Alfredo Barilli, dean of musicians. She has also studied in Paris under Isadore Phillippe.

Mrs. Allenworth's lovely coloratura soprano voice has been heard in many churches. She holds honor offices in musical organizations, being a member of the national executive board of the Mu Phi Epsilon, honor sorority.

Miss Smith is a pupil of Auer, Samantine, Linder and Poulah. She is a member of the Atlanta Philharmonic quartet.

Mr. Kimbro is baritone soloist for the St. Luke church choir. Accompanists for this program will be Miss Irene Leftwich and Miss Sara Croft Smith.

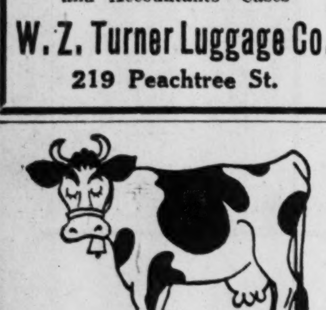

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from Mrs. Greene at Druid Hills P.-T. A. offices.

Hosts at Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Howard entertained Saturday evening at a Halloween dance. The guests were in costume and masked. Prizes were awarded for most attractive costumes to Miss Laura Berry and Frank Barker, who wore Mexican costumes.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Siever, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mayo, Mr. and Mrs. G. Y. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bocchio, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hair, Miss Laura Berry, Frank Barker, Miss Oma Lee Hagey, Bert Denikie, Miss Irma Hill and Nilton Nash.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Since the age of 16 I have been away from home working for a very reliable concern. I quit high school to go to work but feel that I have accomplished as much through my general and practical experience as lots of graduates. I have studied literature along with my work. I am beginning to lose my ambition on account of the depression. I love things artistic and have always had a strong desire to do something in theartistic world. I am employed in a strictly commercial and general business. Nothing gives me the same thrill as to be of real service to peo? ple. But how can I get into work of an artistic or spiritual nature when the financial necessities have to be met by my keeping my present job? I am also in love, but that can wait. Please help me to solve this problem that is worrying me.

S. C. H.

Answer:

It is very creditable to a girl to be interested in things artistic and spiritual and there is no inconsistency in her helping her interests along with her job. A woman in business has as much opportunity for real service to her fellowmen as one pursuing some artistic profession. However, you must realize that interest in the arts doesn't necessarily spell success in one of the arts. To succeed as a musician, a painter, a writer, one must have some special talent and more education, too, than you have had. An artistic profession is only the medium through which the artist expresses what is in him. Such a career cannot be carved out, as a business career is carved out, for the opportunities that lie at hand. Assuming for argument's sake that you have the latent talent necessary to artistic success, a training more rigorous than the business training, a discipline more strict than office discipline, and a culture more broad than you have attained by reading a few books at night after work hours, will be necessary to pursue any artistic career.

Being in love will bring on the sort of ambitious spurt that you are now experiencing. The drudgery of office work will make you susceptible to the siren voice of beauty, summoning you to a life work for which you are not prepared and one in which you would have scant chance of success. Don't be deceived. The weekly check that pays for your board and lodgings, the job that stands between you and the gaunt ghost of poverty and want, is not to be discounted nor discarded without serious thought.

Men like George DeForest, whose pictures hang in every important gallery in America and in some European galleries, men whose gifts are of extraordinary character, spent many years painting and wondering where their next meals were coming from. Men like Blakelock, who is now acclaimed one of America's great artists, died before they received any sort of public recognition that is requisite for financial success in artistic endeavor. Talented musicians who have mastered their art and have fitted themselves for the concert stage come to old age without ever having tasted the joy of being acclaimed. Geniuses like Lawrence and Lafcadio Hearn, men who have written their hearts out, have passed on without ever having known the comfort and security of a settled income. What chance has a young girl with no preparation but an elementary education, and a limited business experience, got to say to the world and with what can she say it?' Not with her pen; it is halting. Not with her brush; it is awkward and untutored. Not with a musical instrument, for she doesn't know how to hold it, much less play it.

Many of us in this world have to content ourselves with appreciation of the beauty and artistry that others create. Most of us, particularly when we are in love, feel that yearning toward artistic expression but having nothing to express except yearning and no proper vehicle for making yearning articulate, we must harness it to practical work.

A little girl of my acquaintance, just six, scrapes her fork on her plate and calls her companions to listen to the music she makes. Says she: "It sounds just like the Philharmonic." She sees herself a female Toscanini conducting a 75-piece orchestra, with the assistance of one plate and fork. Are you not doing the same sort of thing?

Work faithfully at your job, spending your leisure hours in preparing yourself to enjoy what the artists have created. And when the young man has popped the question to you answer with a joyous yes and devote yourself to the greatest of all arts known to women, an art that may be as spiritual as you make it and as creative as you wish it to be.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT
BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Masters of Bridge

Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt, the skipper of the yacht, Enterprise, the latest of the long series of American defenders of the trophy for yachting skill, is, like others of his name, an important figure in the business world. To Bridge players, however, he is better known as the "father of Contract Bridge," being the author of the present scoring system as well as the deviser of a system of bidding, once extremely popular, which I have often said was the next best system to the Approach-Forcing System.

Mr. Vanderbilt bids and plays very slowly. In the few tournaments in which he takes part, he is generally one of the last to complete play, but that the delay is worth while is usually demonstrated by the faultless manner in which he proceeds to get the best results. The hand below is an example of his skill:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt

North: ♠ 10 7 5 4 2 ♡ A Q 9 7 5 4 3 ◇ — ♣ 3
West: ♠ J 9 6 ♡ K 8 2 ◇ J 10 5 ♣ Q 7 6 5
East: ♠ Q 3 ♡ J 10 6 ◇ Q 9 7 4 3 2 ♣ 9 4
South: ♠ A K 8 ♡ — ◇ A K 8 6 ♣ A K J 10 8 2

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1◇	Pass
2NT	Pass	4♡	Pass
4NT	Pass	5♠	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding followed the principles of Mr. Vanderbilt's own convention, the Opening club-bid being used to demonstrate possession of a strong hand and North's diamond response denying possession of an Ace and a King. Mr. Vanderbilt held the North hand.

The play is most interesting, and presents a number of unusual situations. East's Opening lead was the diamond 3, and Mr. Vanderbilt took stock of the situation. He decided that the Slam was attainable only if the adverse trumps were distributed 3-2, and therefore that distribution must be assumed from the outset. It was apparent that he could not take two rounds of trumps at once, otherwise he would have an insufficient number of entries in the Dummy. It was essential that the club suit be established, and this must be done before the second round of trumps was led.

Thus reasoned, he won the trick with the Ace of diamonds in Dummy, upon which he discarded the club 3. Next, the club 2 was led and ruffed by North. Dummy was re-entered by leading a trump, and the club 10 returned and ruffed. Another trump was led, won by the King in Dummy, and both adversaries followed suit. The winning adverse trump was forced on the continued leads of the now established clubs.

The play of the hand is unusual, but extremely accurate and in keeping with Mr. Vanderbilt's splendid record as a Contract player.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North: ♠ K J 10 7 5 4 ♡ 5 ◇ Q J 9 7 6 ♣ 3
West: ♠ A Q ♡ A J 9 8 6 2 ◇ A 4 2 ♣ A K
East: ♠ 3 2 ♡ Q 10 4 3 ◇ K 10 5 3 ♣ 6 5 4
South: ♠ 9 8 6 ♡ K 7 ◇ 8 ♣ Q J 10 9 8 7 2

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Bessie Tift Seniors Assume Privileges.

FORSYTH, Ga., Nov. 6.—The senior class of Bessie Tift College assumed official responsibility of the round-table, caps and gowns, and senior privileges last week. The class climaxed its week of activities Friday evening when the faculty and students were entertained at a house-warming on senior hall.

The programs began Tuesday evening when members of the class, representing knights and ladies of King Arthur's court marched in procession to the round banquet table, presided over by the king and queen themselves, represented by Miss Louise Waldrop, Acworth, president of the class, and Miss Grace Bunch, Lincolnton, vice president of the class, as Queen Guinevere. Members of the sophomore class acted as pages and heralds for their senior sisters.

The robe ceremony was held at the chapel hour Wednesday. The class song was first presented to the public on this occasion. Miss Waldrop spoke for her class and President Aquila Chamlee gave the response. From the auditorium the class and honorary members marched to the senior flag pole where the ritual of the senior flag was read and the flag raised. The program was ended at the crow's nest, the ritual of which states that the retreat is for seniors and honorary members only. A group of visitors enjoyed the hospitality of the seniors Friday afternoon at the house-warming. The annual key ceremony was held on senior hall Thursday evening. The junior class were guests of the seniors on this occasion.

After going through three seasons undefeated the senior soccer team was tied by the fast sophomore team in a thrilling game Wednesday. The score was 2-2. The sophomores had previously beaten the seniors this season, but this was an exhibition game and did not count against the losers.

Dr. John D. Mell, past president of the Georgia Baptist convention, spoke to the students in chapel Tuesday, on the mind of Christ. Congressman Carlton Mobley spoke to an open meeting of the International Relations Club at its meeting last evening on "Great Personalities and Issues in the Present Campaign." After the address Mr. Mobley conducted an interesting open forum.

Miss Frances Whitworth, Atlanta, gave her junior recital in dramatic art in the college auditorium Friday evening. Miss Whitworth was assisted by Miss Sara McGhee, Forsyth, pianist. A group of Baptist Young People Union workers from Macon, visited the Bessie Tift unions Sunday night. William Hatfield, vice president of the Macon city union, was in charge of the program.

At a recent meeting of the French club Miss Marguerite O'Farrell, Douglas, president of the club, announced the program of study for the year. Miss Helen King, Atlanta, speaking in French, presented an interesting program. Miss Carol Joiner Coleman, gave the unique history of the French national anthem. French games were enjoyed. Officers of the club are Misses Marguerite O'Farrell, Douglas, president; Phoebe Henderson, Columbus, vice president; Carolyn Perkerson, Woodstock, secretary; Charlotte Alexander, Waverley Hall, treasurer; Alice Atkinson, Atlanta, reporter.

Garden Club Meets Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The Cheshire Bridge Club will have its regular meeting Tuesday, November 8, at 10:30 at the clubhouse, 1821 Piedmont avenue. Mrs. Arnold Hepp will talk on "Iris Culture," and Mrs. R. L. Turman will talk on "Citizenship." Miss Mary Cresses has arranged a musical program.

The Joy class of Park Street church entertained its members and friends at an opossum hunt and wiener roast Thursday evening at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Adams on Campbellton road.

Those present were Misses Rena Knight, Leone Gunnell, Eslie Williams, Nan Kirby, Marion Brandon, Mrs. C. T. Agee, Mrs. Robert M. Brandon, Mrs. Claud Key, Gordon Tomkinson, H. L. Griffin, Tom Thompson, Joe Huie, R. J. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Callaway, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hutt, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Gunnell, Mr. and Mrs. Adel Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Beam.

Women Lawyers.

Georgia Association of Women Lawyers meets at the Henry Grady hotel Wednesday, November 9, at 6 o'clock. Judge Garland M. Watkins, of the juvenile court, will make an address. There will be dancing by Misses Maxine McCalley, Jean Fambrough and Elizabeth Respess, and music by Misses Harriet and Mary Jean Ivey on the violin and cello.

Miss Farley Hostess.

Miss Barbara Farley was hostess Monday evening at a Halloween party at her home in West End.

Assisting the hostess in entertaining were her mother, Mrs. J. W. Farley; Mrs. Dan Flynn and Mrs. J. B. Stanley.

The guests included Misses Mildred Owens, Mary Ruth Oliver, Anna Belle Roberts, Rebe Seignous, Evelyn Johnson, Virginia Coleman, Eleanor Dearborn, Marjorie Woodruff and Millard Hodges, Lee Beverly, Frank Bowers, Chester Jones, Harold Ragsdale, Walter Bundy, Kennith McIntosh, Charles Hollingsworth, Kennith Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Maddox.

Lecture at St. Luke's.

"The Nature of French Civilization and Its Essential Difference With American Substantial Aims" will be the subject of the lecture to be given by Dr. George Raffalovich Monday at 10:45 o'clock in the assembly room of St. Luke's Episcopal church. The speaker is an American citizen of French birth and upbringing, who has devoted many years to the study of comparative national traits. These lectures take place every Monday under the auspices of St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary, and are open to the public.

A. A. Sisterhood.

Ahavath Achim Sisterhood meets at 3 o'clock today at the synagog. Mrs. Isadore Jacobs will preside.

Mrs. Meyer Rich, who acted as chairman of the bridge-tea held November 1, will give her report. Mrs. H. H. Epstein and Mrs. Eugene Diamond, chairmen of the cultural group, will present the program of study outlined for the year. These cultural classes have been an instructive feature of the sisterhood's activities for the past two years, and Rabbi Harry H. Epstein has consented to conduct them again. Meeting dates will be announced later.

Mrs. A. D. Srochi will be introduced as treasurer of the organization, replacing Mrs. I. A. Zion. Dr. M. Hines Roberts, eminent child specialist, will address the meeting on "The Pre-School Child." A musical number will be the closing feature, after which a social hour will be in charge of Mrs. Ben Levine.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

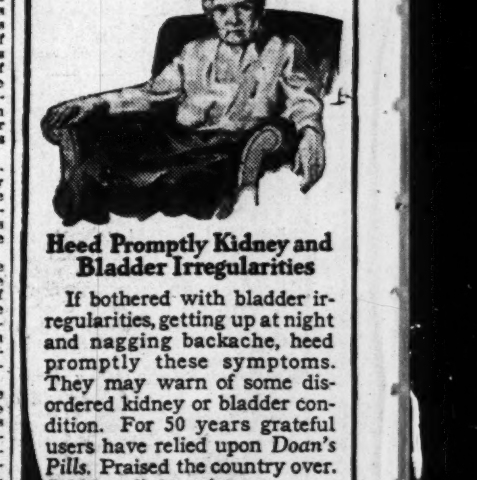

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

"And if I don't—meet Price, the millionaire."

"What on earth," demanded Sir Herbert peevishly, "are you talking about?"

"Tell them, Freddie."

The Hon. Freddie stepped forward with his customary grace.

Freddie declined to be hustled.

"Price's Derma Vitalis," he said, "was always a potential winner, but there was nobody to get behind it and push. Old Price apears to have bottled it in a desultory sort of way and sold an odd specimen or two to his clients, but for years there was nothing in the nature of what you might call real activity. Then I came along. I saw there was a fortune in the stuff, if properly handled. I decided to put it on the map. There it was, blushing unseen in the dark, unfathomed caves of Mott street, Knightsbridge, and I took hold."

He held his audience with a burning eye.

"I took hold," he repeated. "My first action was to send half a dozen bottles to Tubby Bridgnorth's American father-in-law-to-be, having previously ascertained from an authoritative source that he was bald to the core. I gave him a sales talk at lunch. 'Just try it,' I said. 'That's all I ask. No harm in trying the dashed stuff, is there?' A very reasonable old bird, Tubby's future father-in-law. I am not surprised that he has amassed wealth. He has the open mind that wins to success. He saw my point. He tried the Derma Vitalis. And now, a bare two weeks later, there has appeared on his egglike cupola something that looks like the faint beginnings of a young door mat."

"And now," concluded Freddie, "a company is to be formed with a view to exploiting the stuff internationally, and they've sent me to find Tony and get him to name a figure. And old Beamish says you can make it as stiff as you like, Tony, because the shares are to be placed on the American market and, by some process which I do not pretend to follow, it will be the mugs who will pay. I believe this is always the case in matters of high finance."

Syd had risen. He was staring as one who sees visions.

"Coo! I'll ask a hundred thousand—blessed if I don't."

A derisive laugh shot like a bullet from Freddie. It stopped Syd in midstride, as he feverishly paced the room. He turned, belligerent and suspicious. Sudden laughter always affected Syd unpleasantly.

"What are you cackling about?" he asked.

"Only at the idea of your talking terms to old Beamish. You poor ass, what the dickens have you got to do with it?"

"Eh?"

"The stuff," explained Freddie, "belongs to Tony."

As the significance of the words penetrated, Syd's jaw fell slowly, and a dull flush spread over his face.

"Ho! Think you can rob me of my birthright, do you?"

"It isn't your birthright."

"Exactly," agreed Sir Herbert. "You can't have both ways, young man. If you're Lord Droitwich, you can have no possible connection with Price's—whatever he called it."

There was a weighty pause. Syd appeared to be thinking. Then: with a suddenness which drew from her a terrified "Ow!" he seized Ma Price by the wrist and maneuvered her to the desk like a tug pushing an ocean liner. He picked up the pen and thrust it in her hand.

"That paper, Ma! You sign it—and quick!"

"But, Syd..."

"Yes, Syd!" cried the claimant. "Syd it is, and Syd it's going to be. Syd Price, sole proprietor of the famous Derma Vitalis—that's me." He glared at the family group. "You think I want to be a measly earl now that this has happened? A fat chance!" He took the paper and thrust it in his pocket. "I'm going to stick to this," he said, "in case you can try any funny business. If ever any of you come trying to start anything about me being Lord Droitwich, I'll 'ave this paper to show, duly signed by Ma, as evidence that it's all a lot of poppycock." He moved to the window. "Come on, Ma."

"'Ave I done right?" asked Ma Price feebly.

"Of course you've done right. And where," said Syd, "you ever got all this nonsense about me bein' an earl into your head is more than I can understand."

He pushed Ma Price out through the French window, then turned for a last thrust.

"If any of you wish to communicate with me in the future, ring up the Ritz!"

Freddie caught his eye.

"Don't forget," he reminded him suavely, "that I scoop in 10 per cent commission."

Some of the elation left Syd's face. He regarded Freddie broodingly.

"Coo!" he said, in a wistful voice. "I'd like to 'ave the chance of shavin' you again some day?"

He turned and was gone

Tony reached for Polly's hand.

"Well, that's that!" he said.

Years seemed to have rolled from Sir Herbert Bassinger. The passing of the shadow had removed from his soul a heavy burden.

"Tony!" His voice almost cracked with emotion. "I congratulate you."

Tony beamed.

"You well may...Oh," he said, "you mean about getting the title? I thought you meant because I'm going to marry Polly."

Undeniably there was a moment of discomfort. Some of the burden which had gone from Sir Herbert seemed to return.

"Er....h'm...." he began.

It was Lady Lydia who rose to the occasion. She was a woman who could face the inevitable. She came to Polly and kissed her. And if there was a sigh behind the kiss, a sigh of regret for that unknown debutante of ancient family and solid wealth who would never now become Lady Droitwich, she did not show it.

"My dear," she said, "I'm sure that Tony is very much to be congratulated."

She turned to Slingsby.

"Go and mix me a cocktail, Slingsby. I need it."

"No!" said Freddie firmly. "On an occasion like this, only one man can mix the cocktails." He tapped his chest: "F. Chalk-Marshall, the man who brought the good news from Aix to Ghent."

"Well, if it poisons me," said Lady Lydia, accompanying him to the door, "I shall die happy."

Slingsby stood aside to let them pass, then followed them out. His moonlike face seemed to glow with inner rapture.

"A cocktail?" said Sir Herbert, brightly. "Not a bad idea, Wetherby . . . ?"

"Quite!" said Mr. Wetherby, the family solicitor.

Tony kissed his Polly.

"And so at long last," he said, "peace and happiness came to Anthony, fifth Earl of Droitwich . . ."

Polly had drawn away and was staring at him miserably.

"Tony, I can't!"

"Can't what?"

"Marry you."

Tony smiled confidently.

"You wait till I get you to St. George's, Hanover Square," he said. "You'll see how quick you can marry me!"

"But this place. It's so big!"

"You'll get used to it."

"But I couldn't be a countess."

"Don't be so dashed superior about countesses," said Tony. "They're just as good as you are."

"But I'm scared!"

"Now, listen," said Tony. "When you accepted me, I was a barber. By industry and enterprise I have worked my way up to being an earl. You can't let me down now. It would be a blow to all ambition. Think of the young men, trying to get on in the world, whom it would discourage. What's the use of sweating to make good, they would say, if your girl's going to chuck you in the hour of triumph?"

"But, Tony . . . can't you see? . . . Don't you understand? . . . I'm not fitted . . . I should be . . . "

"Ah, come on!" said Tony briefly.

He put an end to her ramblings by picking her up and carrying her to the door. Here he paused for a moment in order to kiss her.

"Tony and Polly!" he said. "The old firm!"

He kissed her again, and they passed on to where a musical jingling announced that the Honorable Freddie Chalk-Marshall was doing his bit.

THE END.

RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE :: :: Good-Bye Utah. :: :: :: :: :: :: By Zane Grey

As Bess and Venters rode on in comparative safety, having outdistanced Tull's riders, their thoughts were centered on Jane and Lassiter almost as much as on their own good fortune in escaping to a new freedom together.

"Have you thought that this time tomorrow you'll be Elizabeth Venters?" Bern asked in an attempt to rouse Bess from her fears for the uncle she had found only to lose again.

His question brought Bess out of her reverie.

"And after we are married we'll come back to our valley some time, and find Uncle Jim and Jane, won't we, Bern?"

"That's something fine to look forward to, Bess. It's like all our future looks to me."

So they rode on down the old trail. The sun sloped in the west, and a golden sheen lay on the sage.

"We'll ride on until late," Venters suggested. "Then you can sleep a little while I watch and graze the horses. We'll ride into Sterling early tomorrow. We'll be married! Then . . . "

"Oh, Bern! . . . Look! The sun is setting on the sage—the last time for us until we dare come again to the Utah border. Look, Bern, so you will never forget!"

Suddenly Venters was startled by a low, rumbling roar.

"Bess, did you hear anything?" he whispered. "Listen! Maybe I only imagined it . . . Ah!"

Out of the remote distances breathed an infinitely low, continuous reverberation . . . deep, weird, detonating, thundering, deadening, dying.

Did it mean that Jane and Lassiter were safe?

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

EDITED BY VICTOR BARRON

TRADE ACTIVITY WELL MAINTAINED

Steel, Textile, Power and Shoe Industries Record Further Improvement.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Despite the repressive influence of sagging commodity prices, business activity, as measured by the statistics of the past week, has been well maintained, and further gains have not been lacking.

The seasonal tapering off in various lines, which is expected after October, appeared rather definitely in the movement of revenue freight, as reported for the week ended October 29. This period saw a decline of 24,531 cars from the previous week, reducing the total to 617,642 cars. The seasonal peak, usually reached around the first of October, appears to have been touched in the week ended October 15. The decline for the last week of the month was close to the average recession for that period.

The improvement in the steel industry appears to have been carried well into November, and as yet there has been no indication of a seasonal letdown in that basic line. Production continues at about 20 per cent of capacity, or around the best level since June. The cut in rail prices has not yet prompted any important buying from the carriers, but there has been slight, if somewhat disappointing, increases in automotive requirements, as the motor makers start production on their 1933 models.

Power Output Gains.

The trend of electric power production, which is now regarded as one of the principal barometers of business, continues satisfactory. As reported for the latest week, the gain was only about 5,000,000 kilowatt hours, but this was fully up to the seasonal expectation. Dark, stormy weather over much of the country, may have been in part responsible for recent gains in the use of electric current, but at any rate the divergence from 1931 has been reduced to little more than 7 per cent.

Building continues to lag. Contracts let in the states east of the Rockies during October, as reported by F. W. Dodge Corporation, showed a drop of 15.7 per cent for September, this is substantially in excess of the usual percentage recession from September to October. Among building materials, shipments of cement have held up better than usual for this season, evidently reflecting highway construction.

Textile Industry Active.

The textile industry continues to hold up well with cotton and rayon mills running at a good rate. The recent slump in raw cotton has had a dampening effect upon the wholesale cotton goods markets, but a number of mills have contracted for their consumption well into the future. Shoe manufacturing also is well maintained, and preparations are being made for the spring business.

Retail trade has been helped during the past week by cold weather, which has stimulated buying of winter wearing apparel. The gains in retail trade, as described by most reports, have been moderate, but some analysts calculate that they have been better than the usual seasonal pick-up. Low inventories continue to rule, and wholesalers continue to receive numerous small orders for immediate delivery.

Brooks-Shatterly Add New Dealers for Mohawks

New reliable dealers are being added by Brooks-Shatterly, Inc., Atlanta and north Georgia distributors for Mohawk and No-Name automobile tires. The two establishments of the company here, located at 1643 Jonesboro road, S. E., and 100 Spring street, N. W., at the corner of Walton street, are doing an excellent business, according to officials. Both places are shown above.

Expressing decided confidence in the business outlook of not only this section, but the entire country, officials of Brooks-Shatterly, Inc., local and north Georgia distributors for Mohawk and No-Name tires—retail and wholesale—are laying their foundation for the future upon a solid and larger foundation than ever before.

E. C. Shatterly and H. H. Brooks, two of the leading automobile tire and auto supply men in Georgia, started their business here more than 11 years ago. The company operates two stores at Spring and Walton streets and 1643 Jonesboro road, Lakewood Heights.

In order to better serve the growing demand for Mohawk tires the company is steadily adding new dealers throughout north Georgia and plans call for a continuance of this policy during the next few months.

Recently the company unloaded five carloads of this particular brand of tires for distribution in their territory. The company handles between 20 and 25 carloads of tires annually. The firm does a large accessory and battery business. The Mohawk tires are easily distinguished from others by the yellow stripe, encircling the casing.

"There is plenty of business to be had in this section," Mr. Brooks said in discusing general business conditions. "However, one has to be constantly on the fighting line if he receives his share of it."

Mr. Brooks declared that should there be a movement of general replacement for tires, manufacturers would find it impossible to satisfy requirements and prices would ascend hurriedly. He pointed out that automobile tires are selling for half normal prices and that manufacturers perfected their industry to such an extent that guarantees are no longer necessary in order to stimulate buying.

"They virtually have no limit for the duration of their service," he said. "Tires are so cheap in prices that consumers are buying the better class of materials."

Mr. Brooks, commenting on the marked strides in the tire industry during the last decade, pointed out that it is hard to believe that in 1922 there were 405 tire manufacturers in the United States, and today there are only 42.

"A tire manufacturer in business today has to put out a durable product, or else he goes by the wayside," he said. "Only the fittest survive in the field of competition nowadays."

The personnel of the Brooks-Shatterly organization are men of thorough experience and they efficiently render the highest grade service to the motorists in this section, and the same applies to their subdealers here and throughout north Georgia.

NARROW, IRREGULAR MOVEMENTS ON CURB

BY JOHN L. COOLEY,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dull pre-election markets have been the rule on the curb exchange recently. In very quiet trading, prices eased in earlier sessions last week, regaining some of their losses when shorts covered but showing little vitality on the recovery.

Trading was stagnant, less than a dozen issues provided most of the turnover and those were largely dealt in by professionals, public interest remaining at a minimum. Early heaviness was apparent chiefly in utility and specialty divisions, for the oils moved narrowly.

Electric Bond & Share common reacted under 20 before the turn came on Friday and the same company's 6 per cent preferred stock lost around half a dozen points. A number of other senior shares also suffered, although more from a thin market than from pressure of liquidation.

Aluminum of America tumbled to a mid-week low of 44. New York Steam, Great Atlantic & Pacific and Dow Chemical were also subject to declines. Fisk Rubber issues were among the most active industrials, the preferred easing about 3 points. Woolworth, Ltd. reached new high ground for the year, while Stutz Motor had a substantial percentage decline before rallying with the general list.

Wall St. Briefs

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Whatever the stock market does next Wednesday, it will have a 36-year precedent for advancing on the day after election, regardless of whether a republican or a democratic president was chosen in the balloting. On each occasion from the McKinley victory of 1896 to the result four years ago the market advanced. In 1916, when the final decision was not immediately known, prices closed higher on the day after the voting.

Among the more important dividend meetings scheduled for next week are those of Atlantic Refining, Eastman Kodak, Union Pacific Railroad and National Dairy Products.

The average value of 16 leading New York city bank stocks declined last week to $1,677,670,000 from $1,757,365,000 in the previous week, Hoit, Rose & Troster reported today. The average dividend yield is now 6.45 per cent compared with 6.16 per cent on October 28 and the record yield of 13.24 per cent on May 31.

Texas Corporation has made a one-year contract for providing the entire gasoline requirements of Transcontinental Western Air system.

AKERS REPORTS BIG GAIN IN INSURANCE

F. M. Akers Jr., of F. M. Akers & Sons, managers for The Prudential Insurance Company of America, with offices in the Citizens & Southern building, reports that this agency produced considerably more new business in October, last, than it did during the months of October, 1931, 1930 or 1929, and also only $60,000 short of October, 1928.

"Furthermore," Mr. Akers stated, "more individual sales were made last month than during the similar period of 1931, 1930 or 1929, and only four less than during October, 1928.

"We produced a larger amount of business last month and more individual applications than any other month this year. Our business last month was $450,000 and our territory is only the northern half of Georgia.

"We have noticed, furthermore, a decrease in lapses and surrendered policies and a lessening demand for policy loans.

"We think this is encouraging proof that there is business to be had if the men are willing to work harder to get it."

Hickey-Freeman Co. Reorders Top 1931

ROCHESTER, Nov. 6.—Up to the middle of October, reorder business in the ready-to-wear departments of Hickey-Freeman Company showed an increase of 65 per cent in dollar volume compared with the same period of a year ago, it was disclosed by Jeremiah G. Hickey, president, and the custom service department showed a dollar volume gain of 20 per cent.

Mr. Hickey forecasts that late overcoat business will mean a sudden and pyramided demand all down the line with the peak of the volume yet to come.

STEEL PRODUCTION HIGHEST SINCE JUNE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Steel production advanced from 19 1-2 to 21 per cent last week, the first time the rate has crossed the 20 per cent mark since early in June, said Steel today. Schedules for this week indicate another gain of 1 point.

The improvement, the magazine said in its weekly survey, was largely due to bunching of orders in the Pittsburgh district and the release of automotive requirements to Cleveland Youngstown mills.

The operating rate in the Pittsburgh district gained 2 points to 19 per cent, in Cleveland rose 7 points to 33 1-2 per cent and in Youngstown was up half a point to 19 per cent. Cleveland mills probably will jump to 38 per cent this week.

"But beyond the current week, producers are not disposed to look," the magazine said. "Actual bookings since November 1 have been strikingly smaller than the average for October, a slump which is in large measure ascribed to uncertainty over the election. The tendency to await the outcome of the election unquestionably has delayed some business.

"The industry is hopeful that emergency government measures will mitigate the easing-off in the markets which usually characterizes November and December.

"Automobile production has definitely improved, and R. F. C. loans for railroad equipment repairs and for building projects cannot help but create some tonnage.

"Steel prices may face a test shortly. For the general run of small buyers, current levels are firm. Automotive consumers, however, have pressed for and in some instances won concessions and if recovery proceeds far enough to conjure up genuine tonnage the temptation to bid for it might be strong."

South Must Lead Way Up, Says Ross

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—The south must lead the way out of the depression, according to Edward Donald Ross, president of the National Association of Credit Men, who was in New Orleans to deliver an address on "Assuming Command of Credit Controls."

The country is looking to the south to lead the way out of the business depression," he said. "Ten-cent cotton is on the way, with what appears to have been only a temporary setback.

"Taxation, however, remains as one of our greatest problems," he said. "You can't get around it. There are too many governmental bureaus. I feel that there should be a slackening until the business house is in order. The benefits of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are beginning to be felt. Banks don't feel they have to be so liquid as formerly. The home loan bank bill will also act to relieve the credit situation greatly."

Tregoe to Address Chicago Credit Men

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—J. Harry Tregoe, former executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men for 35 years, and now director of economics for the Los Angeles Association of Credit Men, will make his first appearance here in several years when he addresses the November forum of the Chicago Association of Credit Men on the night of November 9. "A Glance Backward and a Look Forward" will be the topic of Mr. Tregoe's talk.

Psychology of Thrift.

If you are a thrifty person, you are happy. When you are earning more than you spend, when you produce more than you consume, your life is a success, and you are filled with courage, animation, ambition, good will.

Then the world is beautiful, for the world is your view of the world, and when you are right with yourself, all's right with the world.

The habit of thrift proves your power to rule your own psychic self. You are captain of your soul.

You are able to take care of yourself, and then, out of the excess of your strength, you produce a surplus. —Elbert Hubbard.

DULLNESS RULES IN BOND MARKET

Dealers Cautious as Sleeping Sickness Spreads; Values Slightly Lower.

BY VICTOR EUBANK,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The bond market has been suffering from sleeping sickness and dealers, usually profuse with advice and opinions, were cautitous with their opinions as to the near-future trend of prices.

During the past week proceedings, at times, came almost to a standstill as most investors and traders clung tenaciously to the side-lines. Last Monday total sales dropped to the lowest since August 4, 1930, with the averages falling away fractionally.

News developments were rather mixed. In the domestic sector electric power output maintained a small but steady improvement; steel production a little more than held its own and business, after its October peak, did not "flatten out" too discouragingly.

On the other hand the Frisco railroad was placed in receivership, freight car leadings again recorded a seasonal decline and net operating income of class 1 carriers for the first 10 months of 1932 showed a drop of more than 50 per cent under that of the same period last year.

With money rates sinking to historic low levels, some bankers had expected higher grade bond categories to show some signs of life. But best investment issues moved as uncertainly, on the whole, as did the semi-speculative maturities.

A rally in the secondary rails and some of the industrials brought a fair recovery on Friday, but the trading volume sagged under that of the previous session. Generally, the low-priced carriers were off on the week. At the same time there was a run-up in several of the oils following announcement that the Consolidated Oil Corporation (Sinclair) had raised its bid for the Richfield, Cal., properties and reports that conditions in the petroleum industry were somewhat better.

Sterchi's 'Yellow Jackets' And 'Bulldogs' in Contest

Sterchi's, one of the south's largest homefurnishings establishments, located at 116-120 Whitehall street, has organized two selling teams, known as the "Bulldogs" and the "Yellow Jackets." Roy Aiken is captain of the Sterchi selling teams and smaller cups to the two lieutenants. The contest was announced at a meeting held in Sterchi's clubroom. Both captains expressed their determination to win. Sterchi's is a happy organization, all working together for the success of this organization, which carries one of the largest and most complete lines of homefurnishings to be found in the south.

ROY AIKEN.

HARRY SATTERWHITE.

Gratification was expresesd at the meeting on the results for the month of October, sales showing 20 per cent above the quota for the month and more than doubling the volume during the same period last year. This, Mr. Hicks said, was due partly to the new and larger store, which covers a floor space of more than 81,000 square feet in its five stories.

The "Yellow Jackets" team is comprised of the following:

Harry Satterwhite, captain; Paul Sillen, lieutenant; Joe Almand, lieutenant; Wardlaw, Baxter, Brannon, McCammon, Holsomback, Orr, Barrett, Bruce, Garrett, Oasle, Fuller, Robert, Stewart, Dillard, Miss Lowery, Miss Thurman, Miss Roquemore, Miss Thompson, Lowe, Rowland, Long, DeLoach, Simmons, Cook, Bob Reed, Ed Ficks, Crawford, Arnold, Dupree, Brockett, Dares, Argo, Wiggins, Jones, Steed, Alexander, Fulton, Parker, Reed, Chambless, McDuffie, Brock, Smith, Fountain, Miss Leverette, Miss Joyner, Mrs. Almand, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Rice, Mrs. Billings.

Here is the lineup on the "Bulldog" team:

R. B. Aiken, captain; L. E. Kendrick, lieutenant; B. F. Clark, lieutenant; S. J. Griffith, M. L. Davis, Joe Davison, H. E. Reams, J. B. Lasky, M. K. Melvin, R. P. Heard, J. R. Herrin, W. P. Suttles, P. I. Johnson, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Clark, Charles Almand, W. F. Hindley, O. W. Hornbuckle, Mrs. Bethea, Miss Rivers, Mrs. McBrayer, Miss Wiggins, Miss Hicks, Miss Rowland, Mrs. Hardeman, Guthrie, Carl Dick, M. C. Wing, A. J. Allen, Pete Stringfellow, W. C. Parsons, Stone, H. A. Wigley, R. B. Eason, Stocks, Joe Rice, Ted Howland, Felton O'Neal, Jamie Watson, Raymond Hayes, Willie Gholston, John Henry Howard, John Tyner, Cobb, Rebe Folds, Lois Benson, Ruby Stephens, Mrs. E. Coal Dealers Urge Consumers To Fill Bins Before Cold Wave

Winter is coming! "Are you ready?" Atlanta's enterprising coal merchants who have spent months in getting their operating equipment in excellent condition all answer, "Yes!"

Minor repairs to trucks, harness and wagons have been made. Storage bins have been repaired, and new ones constructed where necessary. Spur tracks leading from railroads into their yards contain new crossties where old ones were deteriorating. Everywhere there may be seen evidences of much work that has been done "as deliveries must be made" when they are needed.

Storage spaces throughout the city are filled with bright, shiny coal fresh from the mines. It would appear to the average citizen that these massive piles of fuel would be sufficient to serve Atlanta for a year or more, but after a week's period of cold weather their height and breadth are considerably diminished.

Additional shipments are being continuously received, as these huge storage bins are Atlanta's assurance that the necessary fuel is always available to hospitals, hotels, factories and the thousands of residences of its citizens.

The coal merchants of Atlanta ask in return, "Mr. Consumer, are you ready also? Have you a few tons in your bins at this time?"

Don't forget that some residences are not equipped with very much storage space and, therefore, require frequent deliveries during the winter season. Some of our citizens are not in position to store coal at the present and require prompt deliveries when the thermometer drops.

Atlanta's coal merchants would keenly appreciate your co-operating with them by filling, or partially filling, your cellar now. By doing so you will greatly aid others that cannot avail themselves of immediate purchases in obtaining prompt deliveries on arrival of severe cold weather.

Enjoy the pleasure of possessing a bin filled with good coal!

Renewed Confidence Seems To Mark Spring Preparations

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Renewed hope and greater cheerfulness seem to mark current preparations or most mill men and clothing manufacturers for the spring and summer seasons, this appears to be based on a number of favorable factors which have been lacking since the close of 1929.

The most potent of the favorable factors are the revived stability of raw material prices, stopping of markdowns all along the line from wool to merchant, healthier inventory positions of both producer and retailer, easier credit situation, well sustained wholesale activity, broadening demand for clothing on the part of a somewhat shabby public, and continued gains in national confidence, it is argued.

Slightly easier tone in wool and yarn prices lately has been keenly watched by both cloth and clothing men, although the consensus seems to be that this is attributed to the between-season letup in raw stock buying, and the previous sharp rise.

The market looks for a steadier trend, with a possible firming when buying of raw stock is actively resumed for the new season. Cloth men say that when the initial clothing buying movement starts after election, leading mills will probably cover on wool and yarn needs for the bulk of the spring season, with prospects of greater firmness.

COTTON BRACES ON EVE OF ELECTION

Better Support Causes Rally From Low; Crop Guess Wednesday.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—While dullness prevailed in the cotton market during the early days of the week, there was considerable activity during the two closing days. Liquidation in advance of the presidential election and the government report to be issued next Wednesday caused prices to ease off during the first half of the period, bringing December contracts below the 6-cent level to 5.97 but the last days of the week developed rather active trade and investment buying under the impression that the declines which had taken place fully discounted all unfavorable possible developments and that cotton around 6 cents was decidedly cheap.

The recovery from the low points of Thursday morning amounted to more than 30 points, or over $1.50 a bale. This recovery raised the price level more than 20 points, or a little over $1 a bale above the close of the previous week. This rally was accompanied by good trade buying and price fixing as well as considerable investment buying.

Develops Healthier Tone.

While the market has been more or less influenced by the fluctuations in stocks and grain, cotton appears to have developed stout resistance to all extraneous influences resulting in a decidedly healthier tone near the end of the week. The government is expected to show some increase in its estimate over that issued a month ago, but the impression prevails that the increase will be unimportant and that after the report is out of the way the market will improve.

The demand for spot cotton in southern markets continued active all through the past week. There has been a good demand for supplies both from domestic mills and from exporters and large spot interests are also credited with continuing to absorb large amounts of the desirable grades.

Exports Show Increase.

Exports for the week were liberal and slightly in excess of the corresponding week last year. The large clearances represented end of October commitments.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with the previous year.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Last Year.
Dec.	6.37	5.97	6.34	6.63

Atlanta Envelope Co. Serves Large, Small Customers Alike

"One thing which we like to mention frequently to our friends and customers," said S. Guthman, president of the Atlanta Envelope Company, yesterday, "is the fact that we are fully equipped to handle envelope orders of any size in our plant at 505-511 Stewart avenue, S. W.

"Some people," Mr. Guthman continued, "believe that because of our unusually large facilities and because of the very large orders which we handle for concerns all over the south, we do not particularly like to fill small orders. Such is far from the case, however. The same equipment that makes it possible for us to handle large orders in a minimum time and expense enables us to offer the same type of service to the smaller envelope user.

"As a matter of fact, the small user can probably benefit most from our complete service, since he has the very same facilities at his disposal that are available to the largest envelope users. Instead of being restricted to a few stock sizes of envelopes, he is able to secure exactly the size and style envelope he needs in his business. Envelopes that the customer prefers—often a very important feature when prices and appearances must be seriously considered."

The Atlanta Envelope Company has a number of representatives who devote their entire time to serving Atlanta and near-by concerns. If you have a problem concerning envelopes or printing they will be glad to give you the full benefit of their years of study and experience, if you will request that one of them call on you.

Retail Price Index Unchanged Oct. 1 for 1st Time Since 1929

The trend of retail prices in September was more favorable than during any period in the current depression. Prices on October 1 showed no change as compared with September 1, according to the Fairchild Retail Price Index. September was the first month in the current depression for which the composite index showed no change in quotations. Prices had been tending downward with no interruption since the peak in 1929. The Fairchild Retail Pice Index on October 1, at 73.6, is the same as on September 1, and compares with an index of 87.4 on October 1, a year ago. The index on November 1, 1929, was 118.4. January, 1931, was used as a base of 100.

The halt in price recession in September follows a decline of one-half of 1 per cent in August; 1 1-2 per cent during July; 2 1-3 per cent during June and 1.8 per cent during May. It may be noted, therefore, that the current halt has been foreshadowed in the decreasing ratio of decline during the past several months. The history of price movements indicates that prices do not halt suddenly, but tend to form a slow bottom. This was noticeable in the trend of wholesale prices during May and June.

Prices 15.8 Per Cent Lower.

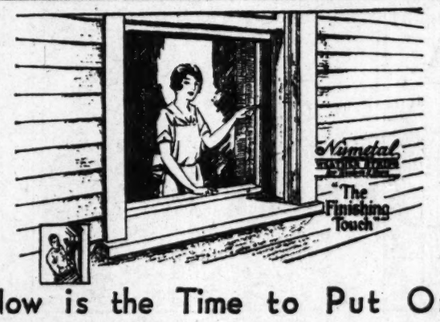

Prices on October 1, were 15.8 per cent below October, a year ago, with the greatest decline recorded for men's apparel, 17.7 per cent. The basic reason for the somewhat greater decline in men's apparel prices, as compared with a year ago, is because of the fact that this group lagged behind the other major classifications in the downward trend during the early part of the depression. Therefore, the recent tendency has been toward a more normal alignment in the various groups. It is interesting to note that there is not much of a variation in the decrease in retail prices for the various classifications. Piece goods show the greatest decline under January, 1931, 28.9 per cent, with men's apparel showing a decrease of 25.4 per cent; women's apparel, 24.6 per cent; infants' wear, 22.1 per cent, and home furnishings, 25.1 per cent.

Prices in September indicate higher levels for piece goods, women's apparel and home furnishings. The greatest gain for any particular commodity during the month was recorded for furs. Part of the increase in fur prices may be explainable by the addition of the 10 per cent tax. It may also be attributable to the seasonal gain in prices generally evident at this time of the year. Most of the improvement in prices is for textile items, a reflection of the more favorable trend of textile fiber prices during the months of July, August and September.

Behind Wholesale Prices.

The present halt in retail prices is of additional interest in its relation to the trend of wholesale prices. It may be noted that the decline in retail prices halted three months after the halt in wholesale prices. A study of the downturn in 1929 from the peak shows a somewhat similar trend with retail prices following the downturn in wholesale prices three months after wholesale prices turned down. The question of the nearby trend of retail prices is rather important, particularly in view of the recent weakness in commodity prices, in which many basic commodities have lost a good portion of the sharp upturn.

There is a growing feeling among retail executives that retail prices will show considerable resistance to lower levels. There is no question that retail prices will tend higher with any further firmness in wholesale prices, especially in view of the present close relationship between the two as a result of the sharp downturn in retail prices during the past six to nine months. As previously indicated, the decline in retail prices during the past six to twelve months has been somewhat greater than wholesale prices. At the beginning of the downturn, however, the downward movement in retail prices lagged, a normal trend at the beginning of a downward movement.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 121

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

When at last Patricia Canby was freed by the kidnappers, she found herself back in the palace of the Maharajah. Only a brief moment had she seen her captors before they bound and blindfolded her.

They had dragged her from the automobile in which she and Roger had attempted escape. Quickly the turbaned leader had lifted her to his horse, and with some of his men, sped through the darkness. Others had forced the young Englishman to drive on.

Helpless, Roger had to obey, the cause of Pat's disappearance a mystery to his mother and himself. At the frontier his escort, evidently on orders, left them. At high speed Roger Cecil raced for Delhi, seeking aid.

Meanwhile, Pat, surrounded by every comfort, sleeplessly wondered what this strange turn of events would mean. After the Hindu attendants left her, to her amazement and horror, she learned the reason!

Dr. M. Ashby Jones, distinguished minister and writer, will deliver the third of a series of lectures on soviet Russia at 8 o'clock tonight at the Piedmont Driving Club, under the auspices of the Auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. His subject will be "Soviet Russia—a Great Social and Political Adventure." Lectures will be given each Monday throughout the series.

Revival services, with the Rev. Scott Patterson, of Madison, in charge, which began Sunday at the Grant Park Baptist church, will continue throughout this week. Services are held at 7:30 o'clock each night.

Dr. W. A. Shelton, former professor at Emory and former pastor of the Mount Vernon Methodist church in Washington, will lead a series of revival services this week at the Calvary Methodist church. Services each night will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, announced that baby health centers will be held at the following places this week: Tuesday, Luckie Street and Peeples Street schools; Wednesday, Fair Street school; Thursday, Forrest Avenue and Capitol View schools, and Friday, the James L. Key school. The centers, for children under four years of age, begin at 1:30 o'clock each afternoon.

V. R. Jacob, of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, will be the principal speaker at the Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon at noon Thursday at the Ansley hotel roof garden. Members of the civic board for the advancement of air facilities of the chamber, of which Postmaster E. K. Large is chairman, will hold their first meeting at the same time.

Recorder John L. Cone, of the Atlanta police court, will speak to citizens of the fourth ward at a public meeting in Ella W. Smilie school auditorium Thursday night instead of Tuesday night as was announced in The Constitution Sunday. The meeting will be sponsored by the Fourth Ward Progressive Club and a program of entertainment will be presented under direction of Jack Rand.

Hillside Cottage children will attend the showing of "Little Orphan Annie," with Mitzi Green, this afternoon at the Fox theater as the guests of Miss Dorothy Waldman, member of the Hillside Cottage board, and the Atlanta Better Films Committee. The Georgia Power Company will transport the 80 children to the theater and return.

Woman's Democratic Club of Fulton county will hear Mayor James L. Key explain the eight amendments to be voted upon in Tuesday's election at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Piedmont hotel. Charles B. Shelton will also speak.

Albert Taylor has been elected president of the Alpha Sunday school class of Wesley Memorial Methodist church, it was announced Sunday. Mrs. Frank Wells will continue as teacher. Other officers named were: Ellis Mann, first vice president; Miss Emma Cheek, second vice president; Miss Virginia Tolleson, recording secretary, and A. E. Rasbridge, class treasurer. Coleman Hall was elected editor of the Sunday Smile, class paper.

Atlanta Boy Scouts will attend the marine display at Sears, Roebuck & Company's retail store this week, according to W. A. Dobson, Scout executive. The display, a part of the statewide Georgia Sea Food Week program, is under the direction of Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner.

All-day prayer service will be held at the Trinity Methodist church beginning at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. All women of the church are invited to attend.

COTTON GOODS MART SHOWS QUIET TREND

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—As we anticipated, this has been another quiet week with sales about in line with those of last week. There has been some further easing in prices of grey goods; print cloths were off another 1-8 cent and as a result a little business was stimulated. While many mills are not interested in selling at today's prices there has been sufficient pressure to keep the market unsettled, and it seems futile to keep forcing goods on market when so little can be accomplished in the way of stimulating volume. The same situation that applies to print cloths can be applied to most constructions of carded broadcloths; there has been some bidding at concessions for narrow sheetings but apparently the market on these constructions is holding a little better than broadcloths and print cloths. Colored goods generally have been quiet with the exception of flannels and cotton suitings on which some business has been placed. On household goods, such as towels, sheets and pillowcases, etc., there has been very little activity which is natural at this time of the year.

Sales for the last few weeks have been below production and buyers are hesitating to purchase any goods except for immediate needs, unless on certain specialities on which they are compelled to place orders for forward shipment. The fear of over-production is prevalent in the market; however, if production is curtailed, and we believe that many manufacturers will do so rather than continue to sell their products below replacements cost, the outlook would change materially. The possibilities are still good for a large volume of spring business which will undoubtedly be placed when prices become sufficiently firm to re-establish confidence in buying.

The political campaign has played an important part in business during the past month as politics generally has been the topic of absorbing interest. The partisan feeling has been on the increase and discussions of the depression and its causes as well as remedies have been disturbing to the merchant. However, this important issue will be settled next week.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS WILL SUPPORT LEHMAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Louis Boehm, chairman of the New York Republicans for Roosevelt League, announced in a statement today that he will support Herbert H. Lehman for governor.

MORTUARY

JOHN D. SIMMONS.

Funeral services for John D. Simmons, circulation manager of the Atlanta Journal and widely known Atlantan, who died Friday at a private hospital, were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Dr. Russell K. Smith officiated and interment was in Oakland cemetery, with Masonic services at the graveside. Prominent Atlantans formed honorary escorts. Mr. Simmons was a former president of the International Circulators' Association and was a member of many fraternal organizations here.

THOMAS M. WATKINS.

Final rites for Thomas Mayson Watkins, well known Bolton resident, who died Saturday at his home, will be conducted at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Mayson church, at Bankhead highway and Bolton road. Interment will be in the churchyard. Mr. Watkins operated a store and filling station on Bankhead highway. Awtry & Lowndes are in charge.

NORMAN WESTMORELAND.

TOCCOA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Norman Westmoreland, 58, prominent Stephens county farmer, died at his home on Mize road after an illnes of three years.

Mr. Westmoreland is survived by one son, W. Westmoreland; five daughters, Mrs. Luther Segars, Mrs. Paul Long, Mrs. Marlow Motes, Mrs. D. Motes and Miss Lizzie Westmoreland, all of Toccoa. One brother, Charlie Westmoreland, and two sisters, Miss Lizzie Mills and Mrs. Minnie Bennett, also survive.

Funeral services were held at Tate's Creek church, with the Rev. A. T. Cline, pastor of the Toccoa First Baptist church, officiating.

MRS. GEORGE W. PUGH JR.

The funeral of Mrs. George W. Pugh Jr., former well-known Atlantan, who died Friday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was held Sunday afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon & Co., with Dr. Ellis A. Fuller officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Mrs. Pugh was the former Miss Ogaretta Mae Arnold, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Arnold, of Atlanta.

JAMES EDWARD DODGEN JR.

James Edward Dodgen Jr., 26, of 370 Sinclair avenue, died Sunday afternoon at a private hospital. He was taken ill last Tuesday and was taken to the hospital. His death was unexpected. Mr. Dodgen was employed as a clerk in a drugstore near Emory University. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Blanchard Brothers.

MRS. ELLA MILLER.

Mrs. Ella Miller, 72, formerly of Asheville, N. C., died Sunday afternoon at her residence at 799 Virginia circle, after an extended illness. She had resided in Atlanta only a short time. Surviving are two daughters, Miss Eva Marie Miller and Mrs. L. T. Furr, of Atlanta, and five sisters, Mrs. M. E. Beaver and Mrs. D. E. Steele, of Concord, N. C.; Mrs. James Brown, of Stony Point, N. C., and Mrs. Alex Miller and Mrs. Milos Lackey, both of Hiddenite, N. C. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

JESSE SIMMERSON.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.—Jesse Simmerson, 60, for more than 25 years an outstanding businessman of Milledgeville, died at 7 o'clock Sunday morning following an illness of three weeks. He is survived by his wife; one son, Ralph; two daughters, Misses Marguerite and Runetta Simmerson, all of Milledgeville; two brothers, W. M. Simmerson, Macon, and Thomas Simmerson, Sandersville. Funeral and interment will be at Blacksprings Baptist church at 3:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

MRS. W. H. DUNLAP.

Mrs. W. H. Dunlap, 73 years of age, died Sunday afternoon at her residence at 1469 Lee street. She was a member of an old Atlanta family and had resided here for many years. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edith Cole, Mrs. Fred C. Hannah, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Edgar Brinkley, of Smyrna; a son, Arthur J. Dunlap, of Atlanta and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Shepherd, of New York city, and Mrs. Gus Hemple, of Elizabeth, N. J. Funeral arrangements are to be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

COMMUNIST PARTY CLOSES CAMPAIGN

N. Y. Finale Turned Into Celebration of Bolshevik Revolution's Birthday.

BY R. H. HIPPELHAUSER.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The finale of the communist party's presidential campaign was turned tonight into a celebration of the 15th anniversary of the bolshevik revolution.

From his home in the Bronx, where he has been ill for several months, William Z. Foster, communist candidate for the presidency, sent this word to the thousands who filled every seat in the "Garden:"

"The road of Lenin, the revolutionary way of the crisis, is the road of the fundamental reorganization of society on the basis of socialism, the first stage of communism.

"This requires the unconditional rejection of the policy of Norman Thomas, as the Russian workers rejected Kerenski. It requires the overthrow of the capitalist state machine, the smashing of the bloody, oppressive rule of the capitalist class. It requires the establishment of a new state of toiling masses, of the workers and farmers—a soviet government."

Foster's address was carried by loudspeaking systems to the 22,000 people in the Garden and to the several thousand who stood outside in a drizzling rain.
